SULZER DISPOSED TO SET BRANDT FREE

Asked District Attorney Last November, It Is Said, to Recommend a Pardon.

POLITICAL PULL EXERCISED

Tammany Men Are Said to Have Stormed Whitman to Have Him Move in Favor of Convict.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 9. — Attorney General Carmody announced to-day that he would recommend to Gov. Sulzer that he pardon Foulke Engelbrecht Brandt, who is serving a thirty-year sentence at Dannemora for burglary committed at the Fifth Avenue home of Mortimer E. Schiff, in whose home he had been employed as a domestic. Brandt has served six years of his term.

Gov. Sulzer was asked this afternoon if he was ready to take up the Brandt case at the present time.

"No," he replied.

"I am not committed as to the time when I will take it up. I will do so when I can find an opportunity to do substantial justice."

Gov. Sulzer said that Brandt had written a letter to Owen L. Potter, pardon clerk in the Executive Department. In this letter Brandt asked Mr. Potter to call on him when he came to Dannemora with the Parole Board, as Mr. Potter does at regular intervals.

"He asked me what he was going to do about the request," said the Governor.

"I told Mr. Potter if he saw Brandt to tell him to write no more indecent letters, for his own good."

The Governor had reference to a document in the pardon clerk's office in which Brandt stated the grounds on which he applied for a pardon from Gov. Dix.

Brandt Likely to be Pardoned.

It is believed that Gov. Sulzer will pardon Brandt. The Governor displayed a deep interest in the case shortly after his election in November. At a dinner given about that time by Lewis Nixon, Mr. Sulzer spoke about Brandt to District Attorney Whitman, asking if he did not think the sentence imposed upon Brandt was brutal. To this question Mr. Whitman is said to have replied:

"My opinion about that matter is on record in Albany. All that I cared to say about the case was said then. I do not intend to get into the case again."

Mr. Sulzer was reported to have said: "Well, you recommended a pardon then. I suppose you are ready to make the same recommendation now?"

Mr. Whitman, it was said, announced that he had never recommended a pardon, and Mr. Sulzer persisted:

"I have been assured that you did recommend a pardon."

Mr. Whitman again said that he had made no such recommendation and that he would have nothing more to do with the case. Then, according to the report, this dialogue ensued:

> Mr. Sulzer—Well, admitting that you have not, will you write me a note suggesting that Brandt be pardoned? If you will do that I will do the rest.
> Mr. Whitman—I will do nothing of the kind. You have full power to act in the case without any recommendation from me.
>
> Mr. Sulzer—What objection can you have in writing me such a note as I suggested?
>
> Mr. Whitman — You will find among the Brandt papers on file in Albany a letter from me to Gov. Dix, dated Jan. 27, 1912. You will find in that communication what my opinion of the case was and what course I recommended. I am through with the matter, and I shall not be dragged into it again.

Politicians Back the Request.

From trustworthy sources it was learned that almost immediately after this talk between the Governor and the District Attorney the District Attorney began receiving visits from influential Democrats in New York. Many of them were high in the councils of Tammany. Each one of these visitors, it was said, urged Mr. Whitman to write a note to Mr. Sulzer asking for Brandt's pardon.

When one was refused another would call on Mr. Whitman, it was said, until nearly every influential Tammany man had seen Mr. Whitman and had urged him to ask the Governor to set Brandt free. But all of these requests were refused. It was said here to-night that two of the big Democrats who called upon Mr. Whitman in Brandt's interest were Surrogate Daniel F. Cohalan and Supreme Court Justice Victor J. Dowling. Among the list of guests at the dinner, where the talk between Mr. Sulzer and Mr. Whitman occurred, was Supreme Court Justice James W. Gerard, who issued the writ that set Brandt free for a time.

In order to learn just what Mr. Whitman had recommended in his letter to Gov. Dix last January, a copy of it was procured to-day long enough to be read. It began by saying that Brandt pleaded guilty to the crime of burglary in the first degree on April 5, 1907, and was sentenced by Judge Rosalsky to prison for thirty years. Then it relates that Mr. Whitman had two conferences with Pardon Clerk Potter, and that, with the knowledge of Mr. Potter, Mr. Whitman had an interview with Brandt in Dannemora Prison. Then followed a brief recital of the facts in the case. The recommendation was in the last paragraph, and read as follows:

> If, after having examined the somewhat voluminous records, affidavits, and statements, your Excellency feels that in the interest of public justice, favorable consideration should be given this application, I would recommend that the sentence be so commuted that the Board of Parole may act upon this case.

One of the officials familiar with all the steps taken from the start said today that the recommendation made by Mr. Whitman was suggested by Gov. Dix, and that that part of it conditionally recommending that the sentence be commuted so that it might be handled by the Board of Parole was practically written by Mr. Potter, who said he knew just what Gov. Dix wanted Mr. Whitman to recommend.

If Gov. Sulzer commutes Brandt's sentence to a term of from five to thirty years the Board of Parole will have the power to set Brandt free at any time.

Whitman Won't Discuss It.

District Attorney Whitman said last night that he had resisted every effort to drag him into the handling of the Brandt case by the present administration, and that he would continue to resist. He added:

"I made the recommendation in the Brandt case that you quote, and I made no other. The summary of my letter to Gov. Dix is correct."

"Did a number of influential politicians ask you to suggest to Gov. Sulzer that Brandt be pardoned?"

"Yes; there were a number of requests of that sort. But no politician, Republican or Democrat, strong or feeble, will ever be able to induce me to say anything further or get me into the case again. I am through with it."

"Did you meet Gov. Sulzer at Mr. Nixon's house and did he then ask you to write him a note recommending the pardon of Brandt?"

"I did meet the Governor at Mr. Nix-

NEW TIMES SQUARE THEATRE.

Felix Isman Purchases Property on 42d and 43d Streets.

A new Times Square theatre is contemplated by Felix Isman as the result of a $500,000 purchase he has just made in Forty-second and Forty-third Streets, between Broadway and Sixth Avenue. Mr. Isman has bought from Mrs. Sarah Gardner McGill the old remodeled dwelling at 129 West Forty-second Street, opposite the Hotel Knickerbocker, and the three rear houses, 126, 128, and 130 West Forty-third Street, run for many years as the Hotel Gardner by Mrs. McGill, the widow of Dr. McGill, former President of Swarthmore College. Mrs. McGill said last night that her house would be closed early in March, when Mr. Isman will take possession of the property.

A few months ago Mr. Isman purchased the building at 133 West Forty-second Street, occupied by Huyler's, paying about $200,000 for the plot, which established a record at the time for inside lots on Forty-second Street, and it is understood that he is negotiating for the intervening house at 131. With these three houses he will have a frontage on Forty-second Street of sixty feet and sixty-four feet on Forty-third Street.

Mr. Isman has made no public announcement as yet of what he intends to do with his latest purchase, but theatre men say he contemplates a high-class amusement house.

Mr. Isman a short time ago took title to the Republic Theatre, but it will remain under the control of Oscar Hammerstein for several years, as he has a lease of about thirteen years to run, and it is subleased to David Belasco. Last Summer Mr. Isman bought a large parcel at Seventh Avenue, adjoining the northwest corner of Forty-first Street, with a house on Forty-first Street, giving him a twenty-foot frontage there, surrounding the corner.

PRINCESS RENOUNCES RANK.

Archduchess Eleonore of Austria Marries a Naval Officer.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

VIENNA, Jan. 9.—The Archduchess Eleonore, eldest daughter of Archduke Karl Stephan, a second cousin of the Emperor, was married to-day, renouncing all her family rights and rank for the purpose, to Naval Lieutenant Alfons von Kloss, who fell in love with her when he was commanding her father's yacht.

The wedding took place in the quaint old chapel at Oaybusch, Galicia, Archduke Stephan's country seat. The tiny chapel opens on a hall filled with rare trophies of the forest, eagles suspended from the ceiling, holding electric globes in their claws. Here a few guests assembled. The bride wore a simple white frock. The chaplain performed the ceremony, with the assistance of the village priest.

Lieut. and Frau von Kloss will pass their honeymoon in a lonely villa near Pola, on the Adriatic. The bridegroom will return to his ship after three weeks' leave.

RULE FOR DRESS EXPENSES.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, Jan. 9.—A new standard for regulating the amount that married women are entitled to spend on dress has been laid down by the President of the Fifth Civil Court.

In giving judgment to-day on a creditor's claim he decided that a wife's attire ought not to cost more than the rent of her home, and added that a woman who spent more than that amount on dress was guilty of extravagance and imprudence.

The case before the court was that of a woman who ordered $2,750 worth of dresses and furs per year, while the rent of her home was only $800. The tribunal reduced to $800 the sum for which the husband was personally responsible to the dressmaker.

8 MONTHS FOR SUFFRAGISTS.

Long Prison Terms for Two of the Women Who Damaged Mail.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—Long sentences were passed to-day on two of the militant suffragettes who have engaged in a campaign of destruction of the mails. May Billinghurst and Louisa Gay, two of the first to be arrested in connection with these outrages, were brought up for trial at the Old Bailey, and each was condemned to eight months' imprisonment.

May Billinghurst, who is a cripple and is unable to get about except on a tricycle, already has been imprisoned on several occasions in connection with the suffrage campaign.

The evidence given to-day showed that letter boxes throughout the centre and West End of London had been damaged together with their contents by means of acids, sticky fluids of various kinds, varnish, and ink, while in some cases inflammable materials, such as rags soaked in lamp oil, had been inserted through the slits in the boxes for the admission of the mail. Many valuable documents had been destroyed in this way. These included money orders, contracts, checks, and banknotes.

It was a matter of difficulty to capture the perpetrators of the outrages in the act, as in most instances the destructive fluids were passed into the boxes in uncorked bottles contained in ordinary envelopes.

FIRST PARCEL POST CLAIM.

Photographic Negative Worth $5, Insured for $50, Arrives Damaged.

The first claim for damages under the parcel post insurance arrangement filed in this city was handed in yesterday. W. T. Little & Co., photographers, of 52 Beaver Street, mailed at the Wall Street Post Office on Jan. 2 a negative of the Gary plant at Gary, Ind., to E. A. Smith, operating manager of the American Bridge Company in Chicago. It was received on Jan. 6 in a damaged condition. The negative was valued at $5, but under the regulations, on the payment of a 10-cent fee the Government insured it for $50. J. B. G. Rinehart, attorney for the firm, presented the claim.

Since the parcel post business was begun more than 415,000 packages have been mailed in Manhattan and the Bronx, and in the twenty-four hours ending at midnight Wednesday, 105,547 were mailed. The number of packages delivered in Manhattan and the Bronx on Wednesday was 21,263.

$29,000,000 BEYOND CONTROLLER'S REACH

State Graft Hunters Learn That Amount Is Spent Yearly Without His Audit.

SPECIAL BUREAU SUGGESTED

Witnesses Say Departments Approve Their Own Accounts—Sulzer Said to Want Scott's Resignation.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 9.—That the State Controller had no means of auditing the accounts of the State Government was shown in testimony before Gov. Sulzer's graft investigating commission to-day. It was testified that though the general fund expenditures of the State amounted to about $43,000,000 a year, more than $29,000,000 of that total was not audited by the chief fiscal officer. Witnesses said the laws governing the various departments were so framed that the Controller must accept the audits of the departmental heads.

The Education Department, expending about $8,000,000; the Hospital Commission, having expenditures of a similar amount; the Agricultural Department, and the Highway Commission, it was explained, audited their own accounts and sent the vouchers to the Controller, who accepted them, provided the appropriation laws authorized certain expenditures. As to the performance of the work, the chief fiscal officer must take the word of the heads of departments spending the money.

A suggestion made to remedy that condition was to establish a bureau of auditing in the Controller's office.

James M. Wendell, Deputy Controller, said there was no way under the present laws in which the Controller could tell that the State's money was spent properly. In the case of the Highway Department fund for repairs and maintenance, amounting to $2,260,000, he said, the Controller sent the counties' portions to the County Treasurers on the order of the Superintendent of Highways. He added there was no audit of that account.

Millions Without Higher Audit.

The State Hospital Commission spends millions for the care of the insane. The procedure in that department is to receive advances of money from the State Treasurer on the Controller's order. A Treasurer receives it and disburses it to the various hospitals for the insane. Bills are audited by the Superintendents of institutions, and in turn by the Hospital Commission. Then the vouchers are turned over to the Controller to cover the advances.

G. Gordon Reel, State Superintendent of Highways, was a witness. He produced the minute book of his commission to show how work in the department was held up through the failure of the other two Commissioners, Supt. D. W. Peck of the Public Works Department and State Engineer John A. Bensel, to attend meetings. His testimony was intended to lay the foundation for a recommendation for a single-headed commission.

The State officials acted promptly on the testimony of yesterday that the purchase of property from the First National Bank of Albany, of which Gov. Dix formerly was Vice President, by Gen. William Verbeck, as a member of the State Armory Commission, was illegal. The property was bought for $45,000, with interest amounting to more than $500. Gov. Sulzer presented the facts to Attorney General Carmody, who sent a letter to the bank to-night asking that the $38,149 given to it by Gen. Verbeck be returned to the State. Mr. Carmody wrote another letter to the Exchange Savings Bank, demanding the return of $7,009 paid to satisfy a mortgage on the property.

Verbeck Gave Official Pledge.

The papers in the Adjutant General's office include an agreement signed by Gen. Verbeck in which he promised that if the purchase were repudiated by the Armory Commission he as Adjutant General would take up the obligation.

An opinion given to the Armory Commission to-day disclosed an apparent shortage of about $3,000 in the accounts of the late Frank A. McNeely, Secretary of the commission, who was found dead in a hotel in Boston last September. Death was caused by gas. At the time it was said his accounts were correct. In December, however, the commission called in the experts of the State Controller and the deficit was discovered.

The amount for which there is no record is more than $7,000, but against that is a claim for salary and traveling expenses which reduces the apparent shortage to $2,962. The salary claim has been turned over to the commission. Mr. Carmody informed the commission that it might use its discretion in paying creditors out of the balance in its hands. Mr. Carmody also said there was no provision of law which permitted the commission to appoint a Secretary.

The Governor's investigators will continue their public hearings next Tuesday. As soon as they can find time they will start a new examination of the State Prison Department. That department was investigated by a similar commission appointed by Gov. Dix, with the result that Cornelius V. Collins, then State Superintendent of Prisons, resigned.

Sulzer and Scott at Odds.

There is trouble between the present head of the department, Col. Joseph F. Scott, whom Gov. Dix appointed to the place after Collins retired, and the new Democratic administration. It is hinted the Governor would like to get rid of Col. Scott. Under the law, the State Superintendent of Prisons is supposed to select his own Wardens for the State prisons under his supervision. Col. Scott left George Washington Benham, an active Republican in charge of the Auburn Prison. The place is wanted by Charles F. Rattigan, Democratic State Committeeman from the district. Mr. Rattigan is the chief lieutenant of Thomas Mott Osborne, whose steady opposition to Tammany domination of the Democratic Party up-State has made a chapter in recent political history.

Gov. Sulzer is eager that Mr. Rattigan shall have the place. Col. Scott is determined that Warden Benham shall not be disturbed as long as he is Superintendent. He told the Governor so yesterday when he was summoned to the Executive Chamber. He said he would resign if he did not have a free hand in the administration of his department.

"I have not changed my attitude in the least," said Col. Scott to-night. "I will welcome the investigators heartily when they get around to my department, although I have not been warned of their coming."

Gov. Sulzer was asked to-day how soon the graft hunt would be extended to the prison department.

"Just as soon as we can get certain material for which we are looking," was his reply.

WEST POINT CADET RUNS AWAY TO WED

THEY MET AT FOOTBALL GAME

She Was Then a Student at Miss Mason's School at Tarrytown—They Just Couldn't Wait, She Said.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Jan. 9.—Miss Florence E. Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Davis of Buffalo, and Elmer E. Adler, a West Point cadet with the rank of Sergeant, were married here at noon to-day in the chapel of the Second Reformed Church by the pastor, the Rev. G. H. Hegeman. Sergt. Adler came to the academy from Billings, Mon., and was in his third year.

West Point cadets are not permitted to marry, and to-night at the academy, where Sergt. Adler was very popular, every one was talking about the marriage. No one could recall a similar romance among the cadets. Interest was increased by the fact that Miss Davis was well-known by many of the cadets and had attended a number of their dances. In fact, she was with young Adler at a reception at West Point last night, but nobody had then any idea that they were to be married.

Another thing being discussed among the cadets to-night was what action would be taken in Adler's case by the authorities. The charge of "absence without leave" is down against him, and, according to the most rigid rule of the institution, he forfeits his membership. This rule says:

> No married person shall be admitted as a cadet; and if any cadet shall be married before graduation, such marriage shall be considered as equivalent to a resignation, and he shall leave the institution accordingly.

The opinion was expressed, however, that Sergt. Adler, who was known as a very competent officer, would return to face the charge against him. If so, he may be severely punished. That, however, will come within the discretion of the Superintendent, Col. Townsley.

Miss Davis, who was formerly a student at Miss Mason's schol at Tarrytown, was known to the cadets as an extremely pretty girl, who seemed to enjoy herself hugely at their dances and receptions. She is 20 years old. Sergt. Adler is in his twenty-second year. He is a six-footer, and at the Academy he was looked upon as certain to win distinction.

Apparently the runaway match was planned some weeks in advance. The young couple met more than a year ago at a football game between West Point and Yale, and only recently their engagement was announced. Last Fall Miss Davis returned to the school to complete her senior year, but withdrew during the Christmas holidays. She had been attending the dances and receptions at the West Point Hotel regularly, and had objected when Miss Mason insisted that she be chaperoned.

A few days ago Miss Mason received a letter from Mr. Davis saying that his daughter was coming to Tarrytown for a visit, and would stop at the school with friends, as she wished to collect some of her personal belongings which she had forgotten when she left. To this Miss Mason consented.

Meantime Miss Davis communicated with Sergt. Adler, and on Wednesday night she went to West Point to attend a reception and was met there by him. That Adler had disappeared was not known until inspection at 9 o'clock on Wednesday evening. Then his roommate remembered that he had not seen the Sergeant since 7 o'clock. Examination of his room showed that he had left wearing his full dress uniform.

An investigation was made, and it was then learned that Sergeant Adler had left by the West Shore Railroad with Miss Davis for Newburg and had there crossed the river and come to Tarrytown. It was said at West Point to-night that the first news of the wedding was received indirectly. The Sergeant did not send any message to his superiors.

On arriving here on Wednesday night Miss Davis went to the room of a former classmate at Miss Mason's school, and young Adler stopped at the Florence Inn. Miss Davis met Adler at the hotel about 10 o'clock this morning and they asked Proprietor Parke how they could arrange to get married. Mr. Parke introduced them to the Rev. Dr. Hegeman, who was dining at the hotel, and he went with them to the office of Town Clerk Dashwood, where a license was obtained without difficulty. Then Miss Davis called up some of her friends, and by the time they arrived at the church there was quite a wedding party.

Mr. and Mrs. Adler returned to the Florence Hotel for their wedding dinner, and at 3:07 took the train for New York. They are going on a wedding trip of several weeks, it was said, and expect to spend part of the time with relatives of Mrs. Adler at Baltimore. After that Mr. Adler expects to go into business in Buffalo.

Mrs. Adler said that she was the happiest girl in the world, despite the fact that her husband had to forfeit his career in the army and will leave West Point under a cloud. There had been no opposition to their marriage, but they felt they "just couldn't wait."

At West Point the opinion expressed of Mr. Adler was complimentary. "He was a fine boy," one officer said, "and probably just lost his head, like a lot of others do."

DUCHESS'S ILLNESS SERIOUS.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Quebec, Jan. 9.—The condition of the Duchess of Connaught is serious, though not grave, is the information given out officially to-night by her physicians at the Royal Victoria Hospital.

The Duchess lies in a special ward suffering from a second attack of peritonitis, and is constantly watched by Dr. A. E. Garrow, who performed an operation on her at the same hospital when she was first stricken with this malady last Summer.

Associated with Dr. Garrow are Dr. W. W. Chipman and Dr. E. S. Worthington. The three doctors did not leave the hospital since the arrival of their patient yesterday until this evening. The following official bulletin was issued:

"Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Connaught did not pass a very good night. She was restless and complained of considerable pain. This morning, however, her condition shows improvement."

$200,000 SHORTAGE LAID TO S. S. HATT

FIND HIM BY TRAILING WOMAN

Hissed by Crowd When Taken Back to Capital—Alleged Deficits in Several Trusteeships.

Accused of a shortage of $108,000 in his accounts as Trustee of the estate of Austin S. Kibbee of Albany, Samuel S. Hatt, an attorney of that city, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Detectives Schenish and Watson of Capt. McKinney's staff, assisted by Detective Sergt. John T. Reed of Albany, on a bench warrant charging him with grand larceny issued on Tuesday by Supreme Court Justice Addington, sitting in Rensselaer County.

According to the story told to Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty by the Albany detective, Hatt is also facing charges of shortages of more than $100,000 in connection with other trust funds with which he was intrusted. Hatt is prominent socially and politically in Albany, and resides in State Street, in the Pine Hill section of the city. He is the President of the Emanuel Baptist Church and was urged for appointment to the Supreme Court bench under the administration of Gov. Benjamin Odell to fill a vacancy.

Under the will of Austin S. Kibbee of Albany, who died on July 27, 1907, Hatt was named as counsel to the estate and was created Trustee of three separate funds established for the benefit of various legatees. Later he was superseded as counsel by Arthur L. Andrews and V. R. Erving, representing the legatees, who promptly demanded an accounting from Hatt in his capacity as Trustee.

Hatt asked for a delay on various pretexts, with the result that, by order of the court on petition of William B. Kibbee, a beneficiary of one of the trust funds, the Union Trust Company was substituted as trustee, and an immediate accounting demanded. This was on Oct. 28, and Mr. Hatt at that time turned over to the trust company $15,000 of the fund in his keeping.

Court Issues Order.

Demands for a further accounting having been unsuccessful, the lawyers representing both the legatees and the trust company obtained from Supreme Court Justice Rudd an order two weeks ago directing Hatt to turn over to the trust company all mortgages, notes, bonds, and securities held by him as trustee. Hatt failed to comply with the order, and last Saturday a petition was filed in the County Clerk's office at Albany charging him with a shortage of $108,000 in his accounts. It was then ascertained that he had disappeared from Albany on or about Dec. 26, and was believed to be in New York City, and on Tuesday Justice Addington, formerly District Attorney of Albany County, issued the bench warrant for his arrest on a charge of grand larceny.

For forty-eight hours Detective Sergt. Reed kept a sharp lookout for the missing lawyer in this city. He informed the local police that Hatt had been for many years an intimate friend and attorney for Mrs. John M. Crapo of 140 West Seventy-first Street, who conducts a millinery and lace establishment at 451 Fifth Avenue. Mrs. Crapo formerly conducted a similar business in Maiden Lane in Albany.

Detective Sergt. Reed, with the local detectives, Schenish and Watson, maintained a close watch on Mrs. Crapo. Yesterday at noon they trailed the woman from her business establishment to Broadway and Thirty-fourth Street, where she was met by Hatt, who is a tall, distinguished-looking man 58 years old, with a close-cropped iron-gray beard. The couple engaged in earnest conversation and walked as far as Fifth Avenue and Nineteenth Street, where the woman hailed the driver of a limousine. As Hatt and his companion were about to board the machine, the detectives came forward and placed the lawyer under arrest.

Hatt accepted the situation gracefully and made no protest against accompanying the detectives to Police Headquarters.

During his stay in this city Hatt was registered at Bretton Hall, Eighty-sixth Street and Broadway. He was taken back to Albany by Reed on the 4:30 o'clock train yesterday afternoon.

Hatt was questioned by Second Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty for more than three-quarters of an hour.

"Detective Reed informs me," said Mr. Dougherty, "that Hatt was the attorney and trustee of the House of Shelter in Albany. According to the Albany authorities, expert accountants have discovered a deficit in Hatt's accounts amounting to between $36,000 and $40,000. Reid also informs me that Mr. Hatt was the trustee of the Sanders estate in Albany and that a similar deficit of between $26,000 and $36,000 has been discovered in the assets of that estate. Hatt, however, denied the last allegation as false."

Hissed at Albany Station.

Hatt arrived in Albany with Detective Sergt. Reed shortly after 8 o'clock, and was met at the depot by a crowd of several hundred persons, who hissed and jeered him. Because of the lawyer's prominence in religious work and his connection with various charitable institutions in Albany, his fellow-citizens at first were loath to believe the reports against him. In the last few days several complaints have been received from persons alleging that they were victimized by him.

In addition to his alleged shortages in his accounts as trustee of the Kibbee estate, the House of Shelter, and the Sanders estate, it was said last night by the Albany authorities that Hatt had been accused of defrauding the estate of Darius Wood of a fund of $29,000 left in trust for his daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Gay. It is also alleged that Hatt converted to his own use a fund of $10,000 left in trust by Rodney Vose for his son. In both these instances Hatt was not bonded as trustee.

Most of Hatt's questionable transactions appear to have taken the form of extensive dealings in mortgages. It is alleged that it was his custom to have mortgages which he held as Trustee assigned to himself, and that he would then raise additional funds by reassigning them. Investigation at the County Clerk's office of Albany County yesterday revealed that Hatt had made as many as fifty-one assignments of mortgages in a single day. Further inquiry showed that many of these assigned mortgages were absolutely worthless, and that at least 100 persons holding them were sufferers.

Attorneys retained by Mrs. Charlotte E. Ferris of Albany learned that $23,000 in securities held by Hatt for the last fifteen years had been negotiated by him. It also developed that shortly before the storm broke about his head in the case of the Kibbee estate Hatt transferred to his wife his big family residence.

The check will be used in establishing a school for mountain girls.

During the Ducktown copper craze John Slocum came to this city as a prospector. He was not fortunate, and for six months Dr. and Mrs Felton gave him food and lodging for nothing.

The bit of family history was brought to Mrs. Sage's attention in the course of correspondence between herself and the Feltons in regard to the school.

BARS UNRIGHTEOUS SONS.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 9.—The will of G. Oscar Pfeiffer of Scarsdale, which was filed for probate in this place to-day, and which disposed of an estate of some $500,000, contained a clause which stipulated that any son of his who led a dishonest or unrighteous life, engaged in dishonest or unrighteous business, or who lived in "riotous" idleness," should be cut out of any share in the estate.

The will provided that any son of his who was adjudged a drunkard in the legal sense of the word should not share in the property. In such case any share of such a son should go to the family of that son, he decreed. Mrs. Pfeiffer and James G. Cannon of Scarsdale, President of the Fourth National Bank of New York City, were named executors of the will.

NOON MASS FOR CATHOLICS.

Special Privilege for Lenten Services at St. Andrew's.

At the request of Cardinal Farley a special privilege has been granted to St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Church, City Hall Place and Duane Street, for the celebration of a mass for business men at 12:15 noon daily during the Lenten season. A dispensation for a mass at that time was necessary, as the church regulations require all masses to be begun before noon.

St. Andrew's Church, of which the Rev. Luke J. Evers is pastor, was the first church in the world to have a mass as early as 2:30 A. M. for the night workers.

With the noon mass, this church will have the distinction of celebrating the earliest and latest masses of any church in the world.

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Jan. 9.—If Miss Elizabeth Huther should take it into her pretty head to marry a Protestant during the next five years, when she will be 21 years old, she will lose $125,000, according to the will of her father, Henry Huther, who died here a few days ago.

Huther and his daughter lived in a little flat over a store in a poor section of the city, and not until the provisions of his will were made known to-day did his friends know of his fortune. If Miss Huther should marry a Protestant during her minority the fortune will be divided evenly between the Church of the Nativity in this city and the Church of St. Nicholas in Brooklyn, where her father was a former attendant.

Until she becomes of age Miss Huther will receive an income from her father's estate, and a guardian will be appointed.

SUFFRAGISTS WILL HIKE AGAIN

Feb. 10 Date of Start for Washington to Call on Wilson.

The suffragists will walk to Washington. Formal announcement was made yesterday by Miss Ida A. Craft, who was Colonel and aid to Gen. Rosalie Jones on the march to Albany. The pilgrims will start from the Hudson Terminal at 8:45 o'clock on the morning of Monday, Feb. 10. Their mission will be to spread the gospel of votes for women in the towns, cities, and villages along the route, and upon their arrival at the National capital they will try to see President Wilson.

As the original pilgrims proceed they expect to pick up recruits. By the time Washington is reached they figure on having a real army instead of a band of pilgrims to march down Pennsylvania Avenue. New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, and Virginia have each pledged a delegation.

As on the original trip, the pilgrims will carry knapsacks and staffs. Excess baggage like peanuts and chocolate will be discarded, the Albany march having shown that there are too many good steaks to be had along the road to make food-carrying profitable or comfortable.

The tentative itinerary is as follows: Reach Philadelphia, Saturday, Feb. 15; Wilmington, Tuesday, Feb. 18; Baltimore, Wednesday, Feb. 26, and Washington, Sunday, March 2. The name of the commander of the new army has not been announced.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Permission was granted to-day by the authorities of the District of Columbia for the woman's suffrage parade on Pennsylvania Avenue on March 3 next. Approximately 10,000 women, it is expected, will take part in the pageant. At its conclusion the suffragists will hold a mass meeting in Continental Hall.

Extra police will maintain order along the line of march.

$86,000,000 GAIN BY BAKER'S BANK

TELLS OF HUGE OPERATIONS

OPPOSED TO BANK PUBLICITY

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Disclosing the fact that the First National Bank of New York had made profits of $86,504,091 in the less than fifty years since its organization with $500,000 capital, George F. Baker, Chairman of the Board of Directors of that institution and its former President, gave some impressive testimony to-day before the Pujo "Money Trust" Committee.

During its existence the bank has declared dividends, he showed, of $59,850,000. Its capital was raised in 1901 to $10,000,000 by the declaration of a 1,900 per cent. dividend on the original capital, while in 1908 it earned net profits of $10,677,092 and declared $12,600,000 dividends in that year, when the First Security Company was organized. During the four years between 1908 and 1911, inclusive, the dividends of the bank aggregated 226 per cent.

Like J. P. Morgan, his long-time associate in big financial operations, Mr. Baker proved a very frank witness, and, although he challenged the right of Congress to go into his holdings of stock and other private affairs, he showed a willingness to give all the information demanded by the committee.

Mr. Baker's appearance as a witness did not bring any such large gathering of spectators as listened to Mr. Morgan when he testified in December, but he gave testimony which members of the committee regarded as much more illuminating and important for their purposes than did his personal friend and financial ally.

After hearing his testimony, some Congressmen expressed the conviction that Mr. Baker was now the dominant figure in the financial world of America, especially in the last two years, since, as he described it, Mr. Morgan has been spending a great deal of his time in Europe, and James Stillman, who had been associated with them in important ventures, is now living in Europe.

Alert and Self-Controlled.

Mr. Baker is in his seventy-third year. Although only three years younger than Mr. Morgan, he seemed to carry his age more lightly than did Mr. Morgan, when seen here last month. Well preserved physically, keen and alert mentally, and always in splendid humor on the witness stand, Mr. Baker had perfect command of himself throughout the severe examination to which he was subjected by Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the committee. He answered every question put to him, but protested at times against being compelled to do so. Occasionally he consulted his counsel before giving his answers, but rather than enter into controversy with the committee always gave the facts desired.

Ex-Senator John C. Spooner and Fisher A. Baker, an uncle of the witness, appeared as Mr Baker's counsel. Mr. Baker was accompanied by his son, George F. Baker, Jr., who participated in the consultations of his father with counsel. Once when Mr. Baker hesitated about disclosing his individual holdings of stock in New York banks, his son advised him to answer.

Mr. Baker explained the formation of the First Security Company in 1908 as an adjunct of the First National Bank to take over securities which the Controller of the Currency would not allow National banks to hold. He told of his control of the First National Bank, explained his relations with Messrs. Morgan and Stillman in connection with their gentlemen's agreement for a division of interest in Mr. Morgan's Equitable Life Assurance stock, related the story of the purchase by Messrs. Baker and Stillman of a controlling interest in the National Bank of Commerce, and disclosed his generally large influence in banking and railway corporations.

One of the most striking things in Mr. Baker's testimony was his declaration that the recent transfer by him of 15,000 shares of stock in the Chase National Bank, which were being held for him by the First Security Company, to President Wiggin of the Chase bank, was not understood by Mr. Baker to involve any change in the control or management of the Chase National by men identified with the interests of the First National Bank. Mr. Baker said no change had been made in the Directorate of the Chase bank as the result of his transfer, and no change of officers or Directors was contemplated.

Another significant statement made by Mr. Baker was that he did not imagine any change would be worked in the control of the Equitable Life if Mr. Morgan and his associates could get their money back by mutualizing that insurance company. Mr. Baker said he knew what mutual life companies were, so far as concerned the participation of policy holders in their control, and that such policy holders did not as a rule manifest much interest in the election of officers in control.

Against Publicity of Bank Assets.

Mr. Baker expressed some very positive opinions on matters concerning the management of financial institutions. He strongly opposed the suggestion made by Mr. Untermyer that National banks be required to make public their assets in order that depositors and stockholders might know the nature of securities held by the banks. Mr. Baker said he saw no possible good that could come of such a provision.

That there was no impropriety in one man holding directorships in two or more potentially competitive banks, railroads or industrial corporations, was another statement made by Mr. Baker. Mr. Untermyer reviewed with him a long list of railroads in which he was a Director, some of which the lawyer held were potentially competing lines. Mr. Baker declared that it was rather an advantage to hold such directorships, "because differences between the companies can thus be readily adjusted."

"Such a situation," he continued, "is often beneficial to all parties concerned."

The witness did not approve of the "voting trust" form of control of corporations, by which the stockholders turn over their voting rights to voting trustees, but said that he would not disapprove of it if stockholders desired it.

Paid a 1900 Per Cent. Dividend.

Mr. Baker said that he became President of the First National Bank in 1874, and was now Chairman of its Board of Directors and of its Executive Committee. The capital was $500,000 when he became its President. In 1873 the surplus was $350,000 and the surplus and undivided profits $361,886. During and after the panic the surplus and undivided profits continued to increase, reaching $521,138 in 1874.

"So that panic did not bother you much?" inquired Mr. Untermyer.

"I guess if you had been there you would have thought so," retorted Mr. Baker, with a smile.

In 1901 the First National Bank capital was increased from $500,000 to $10,000,000. This increase, Mr. Baker said, was brought about by the payment of a dividend of $9,500,000 on the $500,000.

"Yes, Sir," replied Mr. Baker.

After paying that dividend the bank still had a surplus of $11,641,124 left in 1902. There were $3,415,000 deposits that year.

"That surplus was equivalent to 2100 per cent additional on the original capital?" asked Mr. Untermyer.

Mr. Baker next gave a statement of the profits of the bank. He said that from the time the bank capital was increased in 1901 to $10,000,000 the dividends paid were: 1902, $2,000,000, or 20 per cent. of the capital; 1903, 20 per cent.; 1904, 20 per cent.; 1905, 21¼ per cent., with an extra 5 per cent.; 1906, 26¾ per cent.; 1907, 32 per cent.; 1908, the year of the formation of the First Security Company, 132 per cent.; 1909, 28 per cent.; 1910, 28 per cent.; 1911, 38 per cent., and 1912, 33 per cent.

"The total dividends of the four years from 1908 to 1911, inclusive, were 226 per cent., were they not, equal to $22,600,000 in dividends?" asked Mr. Untermyer.

"Yes, Sir," replied Mr. Baker.

"At the time of this declaration of the extra dividend of 100 per cent. in 1908, in addition to the 32 per cent., was there a security company formed?"

"Yes, Sir."

"That 100 per cent. or $10,000,000 was declared, was it not, for the purpose of permitting it to be used in the organization of the First Security Company?"

"Yes, Sir."

Formation of Security Company.

Mr. Untermyer plunged at once into the affairs of the First Security Company. At his request, Mr. Baker handed over the papers connected with the organization of the company.

The certificate of incorporation, dated Feb. 5, 1908, was taken out by Fisher A. Baker, Francis L. Hine, and George F. Baker, Jr. It limited the capital stock to $1,000 at the start, ten shares of $100 each, four of which were held by Hine, three by George F. Baker, Jr., and three by Baker.

The object was stated to be to acquire, hold, improve, develop, use, lease, sell, exchange, and deal in real and personal property of any character, letters patent, patent rights and other property or rights; to acquire, sell, and deal in stocks, bonds, notes, and evidences of indebtedness; to buy bonds, notes, and loans, secured by mortgages. The articles provided that "no person who is not a director of the First National Bank shall be eligible as director in the First Security Company."

The agreement with the stockholders for the formation of the First Security Company, dated Feb. 14, 1908, was between officers of the First National Bank and the bank's stockholders. The officers signing this agreement were George F. Baker, Harris C. Fahnestock, Francis L. Hine, Henry P. Davison, George F. Baker, Jr., and Charles D. Backus, who became Trustees of the Security Company. The stockholders of the bank, signing this agreement, were J. Pierpont Morgan, James J. Hill, William H. Moore, James A. Blair, John J. Mitchell, Arthur C. James, Fisher A. Baker and others merely designated as stockholders.

This agreement showed that the Security Company was formed because the bank was limited in its power to acquire and hold real estate, securities, stocks and other property "which limitation is embarrassing to the conduct of the legitimate business of the bank and operates to the pecuniary disadvantage of the stockholders of the bank."

Mr. Baker also identified a circular, dated Feb. 14, 1912, which was issued by the First National Bank to its stockholders. When Mr. Untermyer produced this circular, Fisher A. Baker interrupted by saying: "You are mistaken about that." Mr. Untermyer thereupon asked Mr. Baker to look over the circular, and he said there was no doubt that such a circular was issued by the bank to its stockholders inviting them to subscribe to the Security Company's stock.

Mr. Untermyer here began his questions:

Q.—What was the purpose of organizing the security company? A.—Exactly as stated in that circular. For doing business not specially authorized by the banking act. We held some securities that in the early days were considered perfectly proper. But under some later decisions of the courts the holding of bank stock or other stock was prohibited. At any rate, the Controller prohibited it.

Q.—Was this company formed to enable you and your associates to deal more freely in stocks? A.—In any of the securities. If you came and wanted a loan on your property of, say $1,000, and put it up as collateral, under the National Banking act we have no right to do it. Today, in the Security Company, we can make this loan.

Q.—Was it to enable your associates to deal in stocks, buy and sell stocks freely? A.—We never did that, and never have since.

Q.—The Security Company does not buy and sell stocks? A.—I did not say not any; but not freely. I do not think, since its organization, our purchases of stocks have averaged 100 shares a day.

Q.—What were its dealings? What was the character of its business? A.—Simply to hold the investments we had principally.

Bought Chase Bank Control.

Mr. Baker testified that the First National Bank did not own part of the Chase National Bank stock at the time of the formation of the First Security Company, but he "individually in 1908 held a little more than half of the stock of the Chase National and had a clear control of the bank."

Mr. Baker said that while he acquired this Chase Bank stock himself he held it "in the interest" of the First National Bank. He denied that he acquired the Chase Bank stock out of the assets of the First National Bank. It had never been carried as an asset in the First National Bank. There was no paper of any kind showing that it ever belonged to the First National Bank.

"It was just a matter of your word?" asked Mr. Untermyer.

"Yes, Sir," said Mr. Baker. "I do not know that I even expressed a word."

He did not acquire the Chase Bank stock all at one time. It was "somewhere around five, six, or seven years ago" that he obtained the stock.

Q.—Can you tell whether the First National ever acquired interests in other banks, for the bank? A.—The First National Bank never did. These bank stocks were bought in the interest of the bank.

Q.—In what sense do you mean in the interest of the First National Bank? A.—I bought them myself.

Q.—You paid for them with the idea that the stockholders of the First National Bank should get the benefit of them? A.—Indirectly they got a benefit from them, and when they organized the security company they were turned over to that company.

Mr. Baker asserted that the stocks of banks, which he acquired in the interest of the First National, including the Chase stock, were turned over to the First Security Company, but when he was asked to give a list of these stocks he balked, saying "that is rather our own personal matter; there are no stocks of any bank of ours that pertain to this inquiry, except the Chase National stock, in which we have a majority of the shares. The rest were in small amounts. I would not like to publish the names."

Mr. Baker produced a list of the bank, railroad, and other stocks held by the First Security Company, and Mr. Untermyer read into the record a partial list of the bank holdings that he turned over to that concern. These were:

	Shares.
Minneapolis First National Bank	500
Astor Trust Company	200
Bankers' Trust Company	2,500
Brooklyn Trust Company	50
Chase National Bank	28,632
Liberty National Bank	928
National Bank of Commerce	5,400
New York Trust Company	250

Mr. Baker said that railroad securities were also turned over to the First Security Company by the First National Bank, which had been carrying railroad and other stock.

Bank Was Complained Of.

Q.—Had complaint been made by the department at Washington about their carrying stocks? A.—Yes, and for that reason we organized the security company and turned them over to comply with the regulations. We had been in business half a century there. We never had any complaint from the department of anything that they thought ought to be run differently that we have not rectified.

Q.—The security company itself has been the subject of complaint, has it not? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Did you know that the Attorney General rendered an opinion as to the security company's legality in connection with the bank? A.—Oh, I saw something about it in the papers, but they never complained to us.

The First Security Company, Mr. Baker said, was identical in its Directorate with the First National Bank. The stockholders of the First Security Company do not vote, but put their stock in the hands of Trustees, who are the officers of the bank and the officers of the company.

"The question of the legality of a bank holding stock," said Mr. Baker, "only came up for consideration in recent years. The National banks were authorized to deal in bonds. That's what the First National was authorized for, to deal in bonds of the Government in time of war. It was not considered out of the way then to buy stocks. The purchase of bank and other stocks was never questioned by the Controller until ten years ago, but after we were told that we must not do it we stopped it."

Mr. Baker did not regard the organization of the First Security Company and its identity of stock ownership and control with that of the First National as any mere evasion of the law. The bank could lend money to the security company, which in turn is a depositor in the bank.

"When we talked of this thing first," Mr. Baker explained, "the natural impulse, if we wanted to do it for ourselves, would have been to have it owned by a small coterie of eight or ten people, like the First National Bank itself was. We thought first of starting the security company that way, and doing its business through it. That has always been a fairly profitable part of our business."

When Mr. Baker was asked what business the First Security Company did, he replied: "Not much of anything," and a ripple of laughter was caused, when he admitted that its surplus was "about $4,000,000," and that it paid 12 per cent. dividend and 5 per cent. extra last year. It has paid 12 to 17 per cent. annually in the four years of its existence.

Q.—Explain why the First Security Company was to comprise all the stockholders of the First National instead of only the larger ones? A.—If we were looking to the personal advantage of those more nearly connected with the bank, we would have organized a company like the First National Bank. As it was, we concluded that every shareholder in the bank should have an interest, if he chose. For that reason we organized it as it was. The man that held one share of stock had just as much interest, proportionately, as the largest stockholder.

Q.—You could not have turned over the assets of the bank to the security company for the benefit of seven or eight of the large stockholders, without offering a participation to the others? A.—Yes. We would simply have sold that at auction, and those people would have bought them in.

Q.—You think that? You think you could have sold them at auction and had the insiders buy them in? Is that your idea? A.—At auction, or even on the Stock Exchange. I presume that would have been proper.

Q.—This was a means, then, of really carrying on the same business as you had been carrying on before without coming in contact with the law? A.—Yes, Sir.

Mr. Baker testified that he now owned 20,000 shares of First National stock, that his son owned something over 5,000 shares, that J. P. Morgan owned about 15,000 shares, and that Henry P. Davison and Thomas W. Lamont of the Morgan firm were stockholders. Thus the Bakers, Mr. Morgan and his associates own over 40,000 shares of the 100,000 shares of the First National Bank.

Q.—Is there a large part of the stock of the bank owned by estates of former associates of yours? A.—No; only one lot of about 10,000 shares.

Q.—Is that the Fahnestock interest? A.—The Garland interest. Mr. Fahnestock is still living.

Q.—Do you vote the stock of Mrs. Thompson and other people who were formerly connected with the bank? A.—No. The law prohibits any officer of the bank from doing it.

Mr. Baker said this last stock was voted by proxy, the proxy this year being Albert H. Wiggin of the Chase Bank, Mr. Bodell, a partner of J. P. Morgan & Co., and William Fahnestock.

Refuses to Admit He Controls.

Q.—There is no question, is there, that you yourself control the First National Bank, in its management and affairs? A.—I would not like to be so conceited as to say that.

Q.—Would you like to be so honest as to say it? A.—Yes, I would like to be honest.

Q.—There is no doubt about it, is there? A.—Oh, I think so.

Q.—You think there is doubt about what? A.—I could not control it if I wanted to do anything that others did not want to have done.

Q.—As a matter of fact, Mr. Baker, do you not, and have you not, for many years past, controlled the management of that bank? A.—There has never been any dispute about the control.

Q.—There has never been any dispute about your control? A.—No. Sir, and I have not disputed anybody else's control. It controls itself. We are a very harmonious company, Mr. Untermyer, I am happy to say, and we cannot get up any quarrels.

"Well," rejoined Mr. Untermyer, "on the basis of 226 per cent. in a few years, it ought to be."

Mr. Untermyer next turned his attention to the sale within two weeks of part of the stock of the Chase National Bank by the First Security Company to Albert H. Wiggin, President of the Chase Bank.

Mr. Baker denied that by virtue of his control of the Chase Bank's stock he ever designated its directors, five of whom were directors in the First National.

"I bought the Chase Bank shares," he went on, "with an idea of consolidating it with the First National Bank, the same as we did with the Bank of the Republic. Later it prospered so well itself, and the stock became more valuable, and we concluded that our bank was large enough of itself, and theirs was large enough of itself, and we felt that we would like to divest ourselves of some of the responsibility of it. Mr. Wiggin, as he expressed it, was willing to make that bank his life work.

Q.—Where is the control of the bank now, since last week? A.—I do not think it has been changed any.

Q.—Still, the security company did hold it? A.—That is right.

Q.—Where is the control now? A.—There is not any, in that light.

Q.—Is there any one interest that holds anything like as much as the security company still holds in the Chase Bank? A.—No, except Mr. Wiggin's interest, and I do not know how that is divided.

Q.—Do you not know that Mr. Wiggin distributed his interest, and did not take it himself? A.—Well, if he did, the understanding was he wanted to keep 10,000 shares for the officers and employes in the bank, and the other 5,000 shares were to be distributed.

Q.—Don't you know that Mr. Wiggin did not retain the 10,000 shares? A.—I do not know. I assume he did not. I did not expect he would keep more than half of it.

Q.—No; you expected he would have it distributed? A.—As I say, 10,000 shares of it to keep right inside the bank.

Q.—What do you mean by keeping it inside the bank? A.—I mean by himself and other officers and employes of the institution. He was to give every employe in the bank an interest in the purchase that wanted it, to such proportion as he thought he could afford. Whether he has done that I have never asked him, and I do not suppose it is consummated completely.

Q.—You thought it better, did you, that the First National should not continue to have control of another large bank? A.—I was very glad to get relieved of the responsibility that attaches to it.

Mr. Baker said that the Board of Directors of the Chase bank had not been changed since the recent sale of stock.

Q.—Then the First National has still a majority of the Directors of the Chase board? A.—Yes, they have.

Q.—What difference has been accomplished so far as concerns the question of actual management and control? A.—I did not say that any had.

Q.—You do not think there has been. A.—No, Sir.

Q.—It was not intended to bring about any difference, was it? A.—I should rather expect they were trying to get some influential interests to come in there.

Q.—You think it does contemplate a change in the control or management of the Chase National, then, do you? A.—No, Sir; I do not.

To the direct question Mr. Baker said that neither he nor the board contemplated any action to divorce the First Security Company from the First National Bank.

"If there should be any question raised," he said, "as to the illegality or irregularity of the security company, we would separate them in a minute. There would be no difficulty in separating them."

Against Publicity of Assets.

The committee had asked Mr. Baker to furnish a list of the assets of the First National Bank, exclusive of all loans and names of borrowers. He objected to giving this information, and when asked why a bank should not state its assets, not only to a Congressional committee but to depositors and stockholders, he replied:

"Business would come to rather a standstill. It would be exposing all the details of that business to the whole world. If you came to the First National and wanted to make a loan you would not want to see it posted upon the pillars."

Q.—We are not speaking of the names of borrowers. We are talking about the exposure of assets or investments, other than names of borrowers. Where is the objection to disclosing that? A.—We might hold a lot of bonds that we would not care to expose to the public.

Q.—Is that not a pretty good reason why people should know? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Have you ever given a stockholder who was not a Director access to your books to see what the assets are? A.—No. One reason is that they never require it. They select in our bank fifteen gentlemen to do that for them, called Directors.

Q.—How can the public be protected or the depositors be protected if you insist upon keeping secret what your assets are? A.—They are protected in the confidence they have in the Board of Directors.

Q.—Which do you think they should have, confidence or facts, or both? A.—I think they ought to have confidence without the facts in detail.

Mr. Untermyer then went into the formation of the Guaranty Trust Company. Mr. Baker said he now had 1,000 shares of the stock of the company. He did not consider this a large interest. His son has 100 shares of the stock.

When asked to explain why a prosperous concern like the Bankers Trust Company was put under a voting trust, Mr. Baker said:

"The Bankers Trust Company was organized some years ago by some of the most alert and active financial men downtown. They made a very prosperous concern. They were not Astors nor Vanderbilts, but they put this stock together, and thought that after making a prosperous company they did not want somebody to step in and buy it. They made a voting trust. They thought they would buy the Guaranty Trust and consolidate it, the same as we contemplated with the Chase Bank."

Q.—Then you understand that the Guaranty Trust Company was bought in the interest of the Bankers Trust Company, do you? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—From whom was the Guaranty Trust stock bought? A.—I think from the Mutual Life—part of it.

Q.—Where was the rest of it bought? A.—They must have bought the Harriman estate, or else Mrs. Harriman kept an interest in it. I do not know which she did.

Sees No Harm in Voting Trust.

Mr. Baker said he did not know the voting trust of the Guaranty Trust Company had been kept secret, or that it was not known in Wall Street. If that were a fact, he said, he was very much surprised. He saw nothing improper in having a voting trust for a great financial institution, remarking:

"I should not do it in that way, but I think it was all done for the purpose of putting these banks together and to facilitate it."

Q.—Do you not know the Bankers Trust has been under a voting trust since 1903, when it was organized? A.—I did not know it before.

Q.—That was not done for the specific purpose of putting it together with anything else, was it? A.—They contemplated that always, I think, for combining with some other companies when they gathered them in.

Mr. Baker said he was not a large stockholder in the Bankers Trust Company, but admitted he held 1,500 shares of its stock, besides 2,500 shares which the First Security Company holds, making altogether 4,000 shares, selling at $600 a share, or about $2,400,000.

Q.—What good reason is there for a voting trust of any financial institution? A.—I cannot see any good reason why there should be one for the First National Bank. That is the only thing I am interested in.

Mr. Baker explained to the committee the way in which the voting Trustees of the Guaranty Trust Company elect the Directors. The same men were always re-elected unless there was a vacancy. He did not think a voting trust as good a form of bank government as if the stockholders were allowed to voice their preference in selecting Directors.

The voting trust of the Guaranty Trust Company had worked very well, and, while he did not specially disapprove of it, "it could not be done in the First National Bank." He understood the purpose of the voting trust in the Guaranty Trust Company was simply to have matters in shape for prompt action in consolidating with the Bankers Trust Company, if they wanted. He thought the plan for consolidation had now been abandoned.

He was allowed to consult counsel, and after talking it over with Senator Spooner, Fisher A. Baker, and George F. Baker, Jr., decided to give the information.

"My principal individual holding," said Mr. Baker, "is 4,600 shares of National Bank of Commerce stock. I own fifty shares of Chase Bank stock in addition to what I hold through the First Security Company. I hold 1,500 shares in the Bankers Trust Company in addition to the holding through the First Security Company. I hold 1,000 shares in the Guaranty Trust Company, and 250 shares in the New York Trust Company. I have no holding in the Liberty National Bank, and am not a Director there. In the Farmers' Loan Company I have 100 shares. I own 300 shares of the Astor Trust Company."

Mr. Untermyer next turned his attention to the relations of the First National Bank and J. P. Morgan & Co. with the Bank of Commerce.

When the Equitable and Mutual Life companies each parted, in 1911, with half of their holdings in the Bank of Commerce, Mr. Baker bought the Equitable stock and Mr. Stillman of the National City Bank bought the Mutual stock, practically within a few days of each other. Mr. Baker said it was hard to guess who first suggested the purchasing of the Bank of Commerce, but he was a party to the conferences, and Mr. Stillman and the Morgan people figured in them. Mr. Baker said that Mr. Morgan had been identified with the Bank of Commerce for many years, but did not know whether the Morgan firm had any interest in that bank. Mr. Baker said that his purchase from the Equitable was about 15,250 shares of Bank of Commerce stock.

"I gave 5,000 shares of my purchase," he went on, "to the First Security Company, I kept about 4,600 shares for myself, and gave my daughter 500 shares. I think Mr. Hine and some others also bought a little of the stock."

Mr. Baker said the purchase of the Bank of Commerce stock was the result of an understanding between himself, Stillman, and "some of the people at Mr. Morgan's."

"I cannot remember," he testified, "whether it was Morgan himself or Jack—I mean J. P. Morgan, Jr.—or some others. The purchase amounted to about 42,200 shares from the two life insurance companies. I think Mr. Morgan took 10,000 shares from Mr. Stillman."

Mr. Baker said his impression was that there was an understanding that the stock was bought for division between the three interests of Baker, Morgan, and Stillman, but not for joint account, the method of division being another matter.

"Mr. Ryan had a large interest in the Bank of Commerce," he continued. "I always heard that his interest went to Mr. Harriman. I have seen it stated that Mr. Harriman insisted on Mr. Ryan giving him half of his Equitable stock, but I do not know that. I never mentioned it to Mr. Ryan or Mr. Harriman.

Q.—I understood you had made this arrangement with Messrs. Morgan, Mr. Stillman, and yourself to take one-half the holdings of these two companies in the Bank of Commerce. Will you tell why you took the Equitable stock and Mr. Stillman took the other stock? A.—I took the Equitable because I was prohibited practically from buying the Mutual Life stock. I did not want to trade with myself. I was on the Finance Committee and would have been selling to myself.

Q.—That is why you had Mr. Stillman buy that and you bought the other? A.—I did not have Mr. Stillman do it. He is quite capable of doing things himself.

Q.—But it was done pursuant to a joint arrangement? A.—Yes.

Q.—What was the different moral aspect between you three gentlemen getting together and arranging to buy the stocks of both of these companies and having him buy the Mutual stock and you buy the Equitable stock, and between your buying the Mutual stock? A.—I do not know. We never discussed that.

Q.—You do not see any difference, do you? The difference was in form. A.—One was perfectly proper and the other might be criticised.

Q.—One was proper in form, the other might be the subject of comment. Is that right? Did it occur to you at the time you were buying from the Equitable that you had a contingent interest in the Equitable. A.—No, Sir.

Mr. Untermyer here took up the acquisition of control of the Equitable Life Assurance Society from Messrs. Ryan and Harriman.

Mr. Baker testified that he was consulted by Mr. Morgan when the latter acquired the interest in the Equitable and also consulted Mr. Stillman. But no agreement was reached at that time concerning the division of interests.

"It was one of those generous things that Mr. Morgan thought he wanted to do," said Mr. Baker, "and Mr. Stillman and I felt that we should back him up in it. That's about the sum and substance of it. We knew there was no money or profit in it, probably a large loss. Mr. Morgan consulted with us at the time. We used to consult with each other a great deal about things at that time, and after the panic for several years."

Q.—Was that in 1910, three years after the panic? A.—Yes.

Q.—And you kept on consulting with one another after the panic? A.—We did, until Mr. Stillman went to Europe to live, and Mr. Morgan is there most of the time, more than half the time, so that we do not get the opportunity. When Mr. Morgan is here, we consult frequently about matters in which we are interested.

Mr. Baker insisted that he and the firm of Morgan were not "jointly interested" in many corporations in the sense of joint account, but that they had made many financial issues together, probably to the extent of fifty-six transactions of large magnitude in twenty-six corporations within the past few years.

"I acknowledge right off," said Mr. Baker, "that I have an interest in the same things with Mr. Morgan, but we do not have them jointly. We are absolutely independent, free and clear. I can sell mine and he can sell his."

Mr. Baker testified that he was a Director in the Burlington and Northern Pacific Roads, which reach competing points, also a Director or voting Trustee of the Chicago Great Western, which competes with the Burlington at Chicago, Kansas City, and Omaha. He is also a Director in the New York Central, Erie, Lehigh Valley, and Lackawanna Railroads, which, he thought, try to be competitors between New York and Chicago. He admitted that he was a Director of the Reading, Central of New Jersey, Delaware & Hudson, and New York, Susquehanna & Western Railroads, all of which operate between the anthracite mines and tidewater. Mr. Baker said in this connection that he saw no impropriety of acting on the boards of competing railroads, but did "see a great inconvenience in it."

"Jay Gould used to say, and told me once, that the greatest success he had was on being on two boards where he could adjust differences that might have created a great deal of disturbance. I consider him a good authority on that business. That is what he stated was his success, and I believed him. I never had to be placed in a position where I had to adjust differences."

Mr. Baker will resume the stand tomorrow and will then be asked about the interlocking relations of the firms of J. P. Morgan & Co. and the First National Bank and others in various public utilities, transporting and steamship companies.

FOR PROSECUTION OF HENRY.

House Authorizes Speaker to Have Proceedings Begun for Contempt.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Without a dissenting vote the House of Representatives to-day authorized Speaker Clark to ask the United States Attorney for the District of Columbia to begin a criminal prosecution of George C. Henry of New York for contempt of the House Committee, which is investigating the so-called Money Trust.

The action of the House took only a few minutes. Speaker Clark presented his certificate of the testimony of Mr. Henry, showing the latter's refusal to answer questions, and the House voted unanimously that it should be laid before the prosecuting official.

Mr. Henry is a member of the firm of Salomon & Co. of New York, which handled the California Petroleum Company syndicate. Samuel Untermyer, counsel of the Investigating Committee, tried to get Mr. Henry to give the names of twenty-four National bank officers who, without putting up any money or taking over any stock, shared in the $50,000 profits of the syndicate. Acting on the legal advice of ex-Senator John C. Spooner, Mr. Henry declined to furnish the information, on the ground of his confidential relations with his customers.

The case threatens ultimately to involve the question of the Money Trust Committee's authority to inquire into the affairs of National banks, which will probably be taken to the Supreme Court. Opinions on the subject differ among the Government's legal experts in the Department of Justice.

If the Henry case is fought out to a conclusion, the committee's inquiry into the questions to which it is related may be blocked pending a decision.

JANE ADDAMS BEST AMERICAN

She Heads the List of the Twilight Club's Most Useful.

After hearing more than a dozen speeches on the merits of candidates for a place among the "twelve most socially useful Americans," the members of the Twilight Club took a vote last night at the Hotel Marseilles on the subject. It was announced that the ballots would not be counted to-day, but Secretary Tucker said that though he could not forecast the vote totals of each he had every reason to believe that the twelve would be these:

Jane Addams, Theodore Roosevelt, Thomas A. Edison, Judge Ben B. Lindsey, Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, Kate Barnard of Oklahoma, Dr. Simon Flexner, Booker T. Washington, Eugene V. Debs, Mrs. Russell Sage, the Rev. Anna Shaw, and William Jennings Bryan.

The Twilight Club recently selected 3,000 people, intended to be representative of all classes of Americans, and requested them to send lists of their choice of the twelve most useful. More than 50 per cent. of the replies had Jane Addams heading the list. Theodore Roosevelt came next.

After them came the following in the order of the number of votes received: Thomas A. Edison, Judge Ben B. Lindsey, Dr. Harvey W. Wylie, J. P. Morgan, Dr. Simon Flexner, Booker T. Washington, Helen M. Gould, Eugene V. Debs, Mrs. Russell Sage, and the Rev. Anna Shaw. Others named more than 500 times were William J. Bryan, John D. Rockefeller, Gov. Woodrow Wilson, Louis D. Brandeis, Charles Edward Russell, Joseph Fels, Orville Wright, Dr. Charles W. Eliot, Senator La Follette, Col. Goethals, William R. Hearst, Col. W. C. Gorgas, Charlotte Perkins Gilman, Lillian Wald, Ida Tarbell, Kate Barnard, Bishop Spalding, Gifford Pinchot, Lincoln Steffens, William H. Taft, Alexander Graham Bell, and James Whitcomb Riley.

PANTHER IS SAFE IN CUBAN WATERS

CONVOY THERE AHEAD OF HER

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The United States naval repair ship Panther, about whose safety much anxiety was felt, passed Guantanamo at 2 o'clock this afternoon with all on board safe. The Navy Department received a dispatch from Commander George W. Kline, the commandant at Guantanamo naval station, saying the Panther had passed and was proceeding on her way to Cape Cruz on the duty assigned to her. The big naval tug Sonoma, which started from New York a few hours ahead of the Panther and encountered Saturday's hurricane off Cape Hatteras, passed Guantanamo Bay at 1 o'clock this morning. She reported all on board well and no damage. Cape Cruz is 180 miles west of the mouth of Guantanamo Bay, and as the Panther's wireless equipment appears to be out of order it is not likely that the Department will receive direct word from Commander Louis R. de Steiguer, who is in command of the repair ship, until some time tomorrow.

There was general relief among navy officers on duty in the Department when the news came. Older officers who were inclined to smile over the worry about the Panther said that they had never thought the Panther or the Sonoma were at any time in any great danger.

The Navy Department received continuous inquiries last night and to-day by telegraph and telephone from kin and friends of officers and men on board the two vessels.

"It is a very regrettable circumstance," said Acting Secretary Winthrop to-day, "that such rumors as have been current in regard to the Panther and the Sonoma the last few days should have been started. We have heard that yesterday it was common talk in Charleston that the Panther went down off Hatteras last Saturday afternoon. Some one must have started such a report as that, and so far as we have any knowledge there was at no time any basis of fact for it. It is true that up to yesterday the naval wireless station at Charleston was calling the Panther, and that may have started the rumor in the mind of some amateur wireless operator. But we had no information that gave us any uneasiness.

"Not that we were not anxious. I confess that I was greatly relieved to get the dispatch to-day saying the Panther had reached Guantanamo, but that was because of the endless talk about her and the constantly expressed fear that she had met with trouble. The department is always ready to give out all the information it has in regard to any of the vessels of the navy in dangerous sea conditions. We do that because we feel that the wives and families of the officers and men on board have a right to know what we know. In the future I hope, for the sake of innocent persons who suffer greatly through such groundless rumors and for the sake of the morale of the service, we shall not have a repetition of this experience with the Panther."

Whether the Panther is damaged or not the Navy Department has not ascertained. The fact that she did not put into Guantanamo Bay is not regarded as an indication that she did not get badly battered by the big storm, as Commander De Steiguer, so fellow officers say, would keep on his course to carry out his orders unless absolutely compelled to seek assistance or repairs. His seamanship is of a superior kind, it was asserted, and naval officers say that his modesty is such that his official report of what might be a thrilling experience will probably be brief and lack details.

"Great credit is due Commander De Steiguer," said Rear Admiral Philip Andrews, Chief of the Bureau of Navigation, "and to Chief Boatswain William Derington, who was in command of the Sonoma. The simple fact of the whole matter is that the Panther and the Sonoma were going well out to sea to get across the Gulf Stream, which is the customary course on the way down to Guantanamo. When the storm hit them they did just what any good navigator would do; they lay to until the worst of it wore off. They did not butt into the teeth of it or fight it. If it blew them to sea and out of their course they went before it.

"The best thing to do in such a storm is to shut down everything and stop your engines and drift with the wind and waves. If you ride square toward the wind things are a little more comfortable, and if not you will roll. Of course, the further De Steiguer went out the less likely he would catch a call from the wireless stations that were trying to get in touch with him. But he knew precisely what he was about, and went on his way, bringing up, as you see, at his destination not far out of his schedule, with everybody on board all right.

"Ocean liners that suffer in storms would undergo little difficulty if they could lie to when they are struck by storms, but they keep on their way, and it is the story of pounding against a irresistible force with engines whose power is limited. We think now, as we did yesterday, and have all along, that the Panther is an excellent sailor."

The safe arrival of the Panther justifies the following statement which the Navy Department issued earlier in the day to allay apprehensions:

"The Panther left New York at noon Jan. 2. It is 1,345 miles to Guantanamo. Under favorable weather conditions the Panther would make about nine knots an hour, making her due at Guantanamo at 5 P. M. Jan. 8. Bad weather was undoubtedly encountered, which would result in reduced speed or a change of course making the route longer.

"Last year at this time, when heavy weather was also experienced, the Panther took exactly seven days for passage from Hampton Roads to Guantanamo. New York is 235 miles further distant from Guantanamo than is Hampton Roads. Therefore it is fair to allow about eight days on this occasion for the passage, making the Panther due at Guantanamo on this basis on the afternoon of Jan. 10."

MRS. CROSBY, BEATEN, RETORTS ON HER FOES

Defeated Head of Woman's Democratic League Calls Them "Narrow-Minded Set."

WILSON'S NAME INVOKED

Said to Have Indorsed Successful Candidate, Mrs. Ayres—O'Gorman Also Figures.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Questions whether President-elect Wilson is a free trader and a single tax advocate and whether he, together with Senator O'Gorman of New York, had indorsed Mrs. Steven B. Ayres for the Presidency of the Woman's National Democratic League caused dissension in debates at the second day's session of the convention of that organization here to-day. These subjects precipitated a particular clash between Mrs. John Sherwin Crosby of New York, the retiring President of the organization, and Mrs. H. T. Scott, President General of the Daughters of the Revolution.

Mrs. Scott had ascended the platform in order to make her speech nominating Mrs. Ayres when she was asked by the President to step down and speak from the floor. The announcement caused much dissatisfaction among the delegates. Mrs. Scott, after asserting that she had been insulted, began her nominating speech, in which she made the statement that Mrs. Ayres had been indorsed for the office by President-elect Wilson and Senator O'Gorman.

Nominating and seconding speeches displayed much feeling at times, and it was with difficulty that the Chair was able to maintain a semblance of order. The greatest show of feeling came when the vote for President had been taken and the announcement made that Mrs. Ayres had been elected by a vote of 38 to 28. At this point Mrs. Crosby, from the chair, said:

"I am very glad, ladies, that you have elected a new President. Regarding the statement referring to Mr. Wilson, I wish to say that both Mr. and Mrs. Wilson are friends of mine, and I know he would not interfere in an election of this organization. I propose that he shall hear how his name has been brought into this affair. I have lost the election because of the question of whether I am a free trader and single taxer or not; and since this is the case, I do not care to preside over such a narrow-minded set of women."

Mrs. Crosby's statement was made after Mrs. Scott had risen to a point of personal privilege and attempted to defend her previous statement that Gov. Wilson and Senator O'Gorman had indorsed Mrs. Ayres.

With the close of this discussion the election of officers proceeded. They are, besides Mrs. Ayres, Vice Presidents, Mrs. William A. Cullop of Indiana, Mrs. Edward T. Taylor of Colorado, and Mrs. Duncan U. Fletcher of Florida; Recording Secretary, Mrs. John E. Raker of California; Corresponding Secretary, Miss Josephine McMahon of New York; Field Secretary, Mrs. Grace P. Hopkins of Washington, D. C.; Treasurer, Mrs. M. C. Adams of Washington, D. C.; Auditor, Mrs. C. Morton of Washington, D. C.

The old Board of Directors was re-elected. It is composed of Mrs. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois, Mrs. Henry L. Edmunds of New Jersey, Mrs. J. Hedges Crowell of New York City, Mrs. William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska, and Mrs. J. Borden Harriman of New York City.

JOHNNY O'BRIEN RETIRES.

Too Old, He Says, to Take a Ship to Venezuela—Talk of Filibusters.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, Jan. 9. — Capt. John O'Brien, better known as "Dynamite Johnny," was asked to-day to take command of a steamship which is to make a voyage from Mobile, Ala., to Venezuela. Capt. O'Brien refused to accept the command on account of his age.

Charles Hardwick, a lumberman, who arrived here this morning, said that it was generally believed in the lumber and turpentine camps near Mobile that filibustering expeditions were organizing at Mobile. He did not know whether of not Venezuela was to be the objective point of the expeditions.

on's house. I must refer you to him for a report of what was said about the Brandt case."

After a pause Mr. Whitman said:

"I have seen a statement to the effect that I recommended Brandt's pardon. I never did anything of the kind. The recommendation I made was in accordance with my views, and I was led to believe that it was in accordance with the views of Gov. Dix. That is all I will say about the matter."

STRONG PLEAS FOR CONRAD

ALBANY, Jan. 9.—Papers filed with applications for restoration to citizenship by Edward Conrad, Francis Gray Blinn, and George J. Gladman, convicted of malpractice as physicians and restored to citizenship by Gov. Dix, as stated in THE NEW YORK TIMES this morning, were made public at the Executive Chamber to-day.

In the case of Blinn the Governor granted the application despite the fact that Frank B. Gilbert, chief of the law division of the State Education Department, said in a letter to Owen L. Potter, the Governor's pardon clerk:

"This man Blinn is a bad one. There was no question about his guilt. I am not seeking to influence your judgment in this matter, but I would fully examine the proceedings before taking any action."

In a statement to THE NEW YORK TIMES to-day, Gustavus A. Rogers, a lawyer mentioned in connection with the commutation of the sentence of Louis J. Abrams, a mock auctioneer, declared that he had never made any application to Gov. Dix for executive clemency except in the case of Abrams.

The papers in the Blinn case include a letter from Mr. Rogers under date of May 20, 1911, in which he says:

"I believe that in your wisdom and understanding of human nature and its frailties, and with all things considered you will grant this application if it can be consistently done."

Blinn was sentenced by Justice Malone to serve at least a year and six months, and not more than two years in Sing Sing. He served the maximum, and was released May 38, 1910. Gov. Hughes refused to grant the application in behalf of Blinn.

In a communication from Blinn, written in March, 1911, Gov. Dix was informed that he had been offered the position of divisional surgeon on the Grand Trunk Railway provided the Governor granted the restoration. The application was indorsed by E. R. Carrington of Montreal, Justice John Hoyer of the Municipal Court, New York; Henry B. Corey of New York, Mrs. Laura Cook, and Anna Olcott Dakin.

The papers in the case of Conrad are voluminous, and show that he had many stanch friends. Other Governors had refused to act in his case, and practically the only new matter before Gov. Dix was a long letter from Asa Bird Gardiner when District Attorney of New York County.

Mr. Gardiner's letters to the Governor criticise the methods employed to secure Conrad's conviction. He declared that a woman was hired by Champe S. Andrews, who was then counsel for the New York County Medical Society, and that they were aided by two attachés of the District Attorney's office, one of whom was County Detective Reardon.

Conrad, he said, was a gentleman and a law-abiding citizen at the time that "the diabolical conspiracy was hatched against him for the revocation of his civil and professional rights."

Mr. Gardiner also charged that Mr. Andrews was impelled by dishonorable motives in his activity, and did not act in good faith with the medical society which employed him. He cited the arrest of Andrews in another case, and says he escaped in a police court on a technicality. Mr. Gardiner said the case was a charge of extortion, and that Reardon also figured in this case. He adds that Andrews was dismissed as attorney for the society after a judgment for damages in one case had been brought against it, and says that a petition for his disbarment was pending before the Grievance Committee of the Bar Association at the time he wrote the letter.

Mr. Gardiner also declared that Reardon had been arrested only at the instigation of District Attorney Jerome "on charges ranging from blackmail to assault." He added that Reardon was arrested again recently, and that the case was pending before the Grand Jury.

In another part of the letter Mr. Gardiner, referring to the manner of obtaining evidence against Conrad, says:

"Lead me not into temptation. What a farce this time honored exhortation had become in the office of the District Attorney of New York!"

The letter is typewritten, but has Mr. Gardiner's signature. In a postscript, in his own writing, Mr. Gardiner says the letter was prepared for him, and that it received his heartiest concurrence. He declared the conviction of Conrad to be "a lamentable miscarriage of justice."

The papers show that the application to Gov. Hughes for a pardon was indorsed by Senators McCall, Saxe, Page, Mullaney, Sohmer, Owens, McCarren, Hasenflug, Thompson, Travis, Fuller, Cullen, Harte, Gilchrist, Frawley, Cohalan, T. D. Sullivan, Grady, and McManus. Another petition for Conrad was signed by 550 lawyers, clerks, and business men.

The records contain the following letter from Justice Goff, who presided at Conrad's trial:

"It was a close question on the trial of Edward E. Conrad whether the acts proved constituted the crime. A conviction followed which was affirmed by the Court of Appeals. The case was an important one, inasmuch as it tested the law in its applicability.

"Now that the law has been settled, and the conviction no doubt has been of inestimable value to public justice and morals as well as having entailed upon the applicant such serious consequences as deprivation of the privilege to practice his profession, I am of the opinion that executive clemency could with mercy and justice be properly exhibited."

W. M. Olcott, who wrote to Gov. Hughes in behalf of Conrad, said that "Conrad is a very dear friend of mine, in spite of his one time obliquity."

Gladman served six months in the Onondaga County Penitentiary on a plea of guilty. The application for restoration in his case was made by Theodore Wilsnack on Feb. 6, 1912, and was granted on Feb. 15, 1912. Gladman's petition was indorsed by ex-Gov. Horace White, who said:

"I have known Dr. Gladman for about fifteen years, and have never believed that he was guilty of the crime for which he was punished."

TELLS OF CAMERA TRUST.

Witness at Tariff Hearing Says Eastman's Has Monopoly.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—A charge that a photographic trust existed in this country was made to-day in the testimony of William O. and G. C. Gennert of New York at the House Ways and Means Committee hearing on the earthernware and glassware tariff schedules. They contended that the Eastman Kodak Company controlled seven-eighths of the business in every branch of the industry in this country. W. O. Gennert said that independent companies here could not successfully compete with the Eastman Company.

"Would the removal of the 45 per cent. duty open the American market to the foreign commerce?" asked Representative Harrison of New York.

"It would enable us to compete," replied the witness. "The profits of the Eastman Company are so enormous that it would hardly be possible to state the point at which it could not afford to sell a camera at a profit."

The witness said that putting cameras on the free list would benefit everybody.

"I should like to see a competitive tariff all along the line," announced Chairman Underwood after hearing arguments aimed at a lowering of the tariff of 55 and 60 per cent. to 30 and 35 per cent. ad valorem on china, earthenware, porcelain, stone and crockery ware, including clock cases, statues, steins, lamps, and a host of similar articles taxed at the higher rate in Sections 93 and 94 of Schedule B of the Payne-Aldrich law.

M. S. Pitcairn of New York, an importer, suggested a 35 and 30 per cent. ad valorem on English earthenware and changes in the classification in the two sections involved and in the administrative part of the bill.

¶ When we bought these garments the other day the thermometer registered 55 degrees, or about 30 degrees over the corresponding day of last year. Now, the maker of these coats is just plain human, and his spirits fluctuate with the weather. He had these garments on his hands, when they should be on men's backs, and he offered the lot to us at a big reduction, rather than hold them any longer at his regular prices.

¶ As for the coats themselves, we will be brief and to the point. They are beautifully made and finished, and there is not an imperfect or an inferior skin employed in a single one of them. Entire Sixth Floor

THE TIMES'S DAILY WIRELESS AND CABLE DISPATCHES

THREAT BY RUMANIA TO INVADE BULGARIA

Peace of Europe Menaced from a New Quarter, but Powers Are Likely to Step In.

STARVATION IN ADRIANOPLE

Turkish Commander Says He Would Rather See All the Inhabitants Die Than Surrender.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Friday, Jan. 10.—Threats of action by Rumania have given a new aspect to the European situation.

Bucharest dispatches state that the Rumanian Government, finding that its negotiations with Bulgaria are making no headway, has decided on an immediate armed occupation of the territory claimed from Bulgaria as the price of Rumanian neutrality during the war with Turkey.

According to one account, the Austro-Hungarian and Russian Ministers at Bucharest, being informed of this intention, made remonstrances which induced the Rumanian Government to postpone for a couple of days the threatened step.

On the other hand, Rumania's alleged intentions are specially emphasized in Vienna telegrams, one of which suggests that Rumania's dissatisfaction with Bulgaria is chiefly due to the fact that after the war operations in Thrace were discontinued and the armistice was signed Rumania placed her military and diplomatic resources at Bulgaria's disposal and that Bulgaria declined the offer.

Hitherto it was understood that the basis of Rumania's claim for compensation was that, by abstaining from an attack on the allies, she facilitated their victory. In the light of these Vienna revelations it would seem that the Rumanian statesmen themselves were not overconfident in the market value of their benevolent neutrality, and tried to obtain additional titles on the booty of the allies by rushing assistance after the enemy had been vanquished.

In view of the secret agreement which is believed to exist between Rumania and Austria-Hungary, and the effect which a Rumanian invasion of Bulgaria in the present circumstances would have in Russia, it is obvious that such a step would be a serious menace to the peace of Europe. There is, however, every reason to hope that the powers would not tolerate such a wanton attempt to embroil them and to wreck the present negotiations.

In some quarters it is thought that the announcement of Rumania's intentions, made at a critical moment in the peace negotiations, is not intended seriously, and is merely a bluff.

Meanwhile no definite step has yet been taken by the great powers in the direction of bringing Turkey to a realization that peace must be purchased at the price put upon it by the allies.

Adrianople's State Desperate.

LONDON, Friday, Jan. 10.—Official news received by the Bulgarian peace delegation here describes the situation at Adrianople as desperate. Several soldiers who deserted and succeeded in reaching the headquarters of the allies, say that the town is at its last gasp. Provisions are so scarce that the military authorities have requisitioned all the food possessed even by private individuals, and are making only one distribution, comprising a half ration, daily.

The conditions have been rendered graver by the great number of sick, who overflow the hospitals, where the attendance is inadequate. In consequence the death rate is very high. The Bulgarians have allowed medicines and Red Cross workers to enter under the escort of a Bulgarian detachment.

The commander of the fortress has declared that he would rather see all die of starvation than surrender the town; that is why all who can do so are endeavoring to escape. The Bulgarians believe that, even independently of any action the powers may take, the question of Adrianople will soon be solved.

It is understood that Constantinople has accepted the views of Rechad Pasha, who recently asked to be authorized to reconvoke the conference, he being President for the next sitting. The difficulty now lies in the determination of the Allies not to participate in the conference unless they are notified beforehand in regard to what Turkey intends to propose. They do not wish to revive the discussion of unacceptable terms, but desire to have it as a certainty that Turkey is ready to cede what has been pronounced as the irreducible minimum of the Allies—Adrianople—after which it will be possible to discuss the frontier line, which must leave that town in the hands of the Allies.

Russian Fleet Mobilized.

The Russian Black Sea fleet was mobilized yesterday in preparation for the naval demonstration projected by the European powers if it is found necessary to appear to coerce Turkey. If the demonstration should be carried out the Russian vessels will probably appear in the Gulf of Iniada on the Black Sea, seventy-five miles to the northeast of Adrianople, while those of the other European powers will gather in Besika Bay on the coast of Asia Minor, near the entrance to the Dardanelles.

Such a demonstration, it is believed, would make easier the Turkish Government's surrender to the demands of the allies, as it could then plead coercion.

BELGRADE, Jan. 9.—Fugitives from Adrianople who have reached the Servian camp in front of that city, report that the only food obtainable inside the walls is bread, and that the rations distributed to inhabitants and soldiers have now been reduced to a quarter of a pound per head daily.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 9.—The Porte, according to an official announcement, has sent a circular to the Turkish Ambassadors abroad intimating that unless the allies accept Turkey's peace proposals by the end of the week the Ottoman delegates will be invited to return to Constantinople immediately. The circular adds:

"Whatever happens, the Ports is determined to maintain its attitude with regard to Adrianople and the Aegean Islands, in view of the fact that sacrifices made in other directions have reached the extreme limit."

A slight engagement was fought to-day in the vicinity of Lake Derkos between Turks and Bulgarians, while the latter were attempting to cut the telegraph lines. Thirty wounded were brought here.

ROME, Jan. 9.—Public opinion in Rome is deeply stirred by reports that Montenegro contemplates ceding Mount Lowehen, dominating the Gulf of Cattaro, to Austria as compensation for the latter's acquiescence in the Montenegrin possession of Scutari.

TO SHOOT FOREIGN AIRMEN.

Russian Government Warns Them Not to Cross the Frontier.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 9.—The Cabinet has issued an order prohibiting foreign balloonists and aviators from crossing the western frontier for six months.

Any one violating this order, it is announced, is liable to be shot down.

The Lowest Temperature.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—Sir James Dewar, lecturing to-night at the Royal Institution on low temperatures, said that they were now of commercial significance. Very large quantities of liquid air were produced annually for industrial work dependent on intense cold. The lowest temperature ever experienced on earth was that of boiling carbon dioxide, namely, eighty degrees on the absolute scale.

'FUTURIST' HATS LATEST IN PARIS

FRUIT AND FLOWERS AGAIN

Back in Favor for Trimmings, Apples of All Shades Being Particularly in Demand.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Friday, Jan. 10.—According to a Paris dispatch to The Daily Mail, one of the most striking features of the coming Spring's millinery will be "Futurist" hats. The Futurist painters have succeeded in covering themselves with ridicule, but Parisian milliners believe that better luck is in store for Futurist hats.

These will be of no particular shape or form, but some of the promised color combinations are almost too daring to believe. For instance, with a hat made of picot straw, leghorn, or horsehair, will be seen bright blue, cerise, indigo, and emerald combined with Spanish yellow. One creation shows red, violet, green, and yellow. Among the favorite shades will be "Bishop's purple," bright yellow, and "letterbox red."

Fruit and flowers will come back to favor as trimmings, and the apple, in all shades of green, red, and yellow, will be held in special honor. A chic Spring model is a black hat with two apples, one green and the other yellow. Plums, cherries, and peaches will also be used by milliners.

Ribbons, which were banned in women's hats last year at the same time as flowers, will come into their own again for decorative purposes.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Jan. 9.—Baroness de Forest, wife of the late Baron Hirsch's adopted son and heir, is rejoicing over the recovery of a $25,000 necklace which she lost in the snow.

The Baroness was at Alwangen, indulging in Winter sports. Returning to her hotel, after a day's tobogganing, she missed the necklace. A search was instituted, but was of no avail. All hope of the recovery of the necklace was given up, particularly as there had been a fresh fall of snow. The other day, however, the necklace was brought to the local police by a poor woman whose son had picked it up in the snow a week before. Unconscious of its value, he had been carrying it in his pocket. His mother finally saw it and took it to the police.

NO BATHROOM IN PARISH.

Vicar of a London Church Tells of Conditions in His District.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Friday, Jan. 10.—The Rev. E. Stogdon, vicar of Holy Trinity Church, Notting Hill, who wrote to The Times, stating that there was not a bathroom in the parish, and that in a hot Summer a man was observed bathing in a cistern, said yesterday that the parish had a population of 6,000 working people, and that the houses were probably built before the bathroom era. He said:

"I know my parish pretty well, but I have never seen or heard of a bathroom. As in some cases five or six families live in one house, this is a state of things which should not exist. The man who used the cistern caused a mild sensation in the district. It was in the sweltering Summer of 1910, and the cistern was on the roof.

"I am afraid I cannot say there is any strong feeling of revolt among the older generation. Traditional instincts do not warm to the bathroom theory."

IRISH PLAY A SUCCESS.

"General John Regan" Delights London Audience—Author a Clergyman.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The Irish farce, "General John Regan," produced at the Apollo Theatre to-night, promised to rival "Bunty Pulls the Strings" in popularity. It introduces many typically Irish characters, and is played by Irish actors, who kept the audience amused throughout with their delicious humor.

The play is written by an Irishman, the Rev. J. O. Hannay, a Canon of Dublin Cathedral and a well-known writer of fiction under the pen-name George A. Birmingham.

WILL SEEK ANTARCTIC AGAIN.

Lieut. Filchner Believes the South Pole Is Surrounded by Land.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 9.—Lieut. Filchner, Commander of the German expedition to the Antarctic Ocean, who has arrived here and reported a prolongation of the coast to the 79th degree, is confident that the southern pole is surrounded by land.

He reports that Officer Prizdick died on the day of the vessel's arrival in the antarctic region.

He left part of the expedition in the south. After visiting Germany he will return south the next southern Spring.

WANT HIGHER INTEREST.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, Jan. 9.—That small investors here and in other countries are looking for a higher rate of interest is shown by the fact that the Crédit Foncier loan of a million bonds of $100 each, bearing interest at 3½ per cent., has not been so largely oversubscribed as has been the case with this class of issue in the past.

The list opened to-day and closed to-night. Although no official announcement has been made regarding the result, THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent understands that 50 per cent. or more of the issue was applied for than was offered. Leading Paris banks, however, were the principal applicants, and the lack of interest on the part of the small investing class was shown by the fact that there were no crowds outside the issuing bank.

OPPOSE DR. DRACHMAN.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Friday, Jan. 10.—The election of a Chief Rabbi of this country in succession to the late Dr. Adler was to take place next Sunday, when the Selection Committee of the Rabbinate Conference will meet at the residence of Leopold de Rothschild to nominate one of the three candidates who have come forward. It is now understood, however, says The Times, that the Selection Committee has not reached an agreement.

Not the least influential of the Jewish community are opposed to the candidature of Dr. Drachman of New York, and are strongly in favor of Dr. Hertz's nomination. It is said that the opposition to Dr. Drachman is due to what is regarded as his too rigid orthodoxy.

Dr. Drachman will allow himself to be nominated only by the whole committee and will by no means enter into a contest with the other two candidates, Dr. Hertz and Dr. Hyamson.

The only solution possible, but not probable, says The Times, is that the opponents of Dr. Drachman, who are believed to be in a minority, will convert his supporters to their views. Unless that happens the meeting will be obliged to break up without result.

Ex-Empress Eugenie Ill.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The ex-Empress Eugénie is suffering from a severe cold and was unable to-day to attend the annual commemorative service for Emperor Napoleon III. at St. Michael's Abbey Church, Farnborough. Mass was celebrated in the oratory of the ex-Empress's home in her presence.

MADE UNUSUAL WILL, ANTICIPATING ATTACK

Unusual testamentary provisions are included in the will of John H. Core, late of Norfolk, Va., whose estate was appraised this week in the transfer tax office. Mr. Core had served in the civil war with Mosby's famous rangers. He died on Feb. 7, 1910.

The entire personal estate, as valued in the appraisal, is $40,732, but it appears from accompanying affidavits that the decedent had owned valuable real estate in the city of Norfolk and that there was more than sufficient to pay the numerous legacies and to leave a reasonable residue for the residuary legatees, besides allowing for a fund of $100,000 set aside in the will for the erection of a mausoleum.

That Mr. Core was aware of the unusualness of the will is indicated by a codicil which sets aside $5,000 for the purpose "of employing two of the best lawyers to defend the will in case any of the legatees attempt to have it set aside." He further provided that "if any of the beneficiaries should attempt to overthrow the will all legacies to them shall lapse."

The provisions relating to the mausoleum, for "the erecting, building and completing of which," are unusually specific. The codicil specifies that the mausoleum must be built of Vermont granite, preferably from Barre, Vt., and indicates the kind of cement to be used. It is to have two heavy bronze doors and "fashioned after the mausoleum of John W. Mackay, in one of the New York cemeteries." The will continues:

"The mausoleum must have a heavy bronze sarcophagus, large enough to hold my wife's casket and body and my casket and body. Before depositing the caskets in the sarcophagus, the caskets must be opened and my personal representative's agent shall examine the caskets in the presence of two reputable witnesses, and the agent shall report to the Mayor of Norfolk as to whether the bodies have been disturbed or stolen."

The inscription on the mausoleum is to read:

> Within this mausoleum repose the mortal remains of John H. Core and wife, Martha Anne Core. John H. Core was born in the County of Accomac, Virginia, on Nov. 12, 1838, died 1910. He was a Confederate soldier, having been a member of the Sixth Virginia Infantry; served in the company general office and with Mosby's Battalion of Partisan Rangers. Martha Anne Core, nee Tarrant, was born in Norfolk County, Virginia, May 2, 1829, died June 14, 1902. She was a faithful and devoted wife, a true friend, sacrificing self for others, full of benevolence and charity and an exemplary Christian.

The phrase "no more, no less, than $100,000" appears several times in the codicil and indicates the preciseness with which the whole matter is outlined. For advice or directions Mr. Core's personal representative is referred to H. Van Buren MacGonigle of New York.

In leaving one-twelfth of the residue of the estate to each of three nephews, Bove D. Core, Christopher W. Core, and John T. Core, the testator indicates that it is his desire that two of the nephews be educated for attorneys at law and one for a doctor of medicine. The remaining three-fourths of the residue are divided equally between two brothers and one sister. The Norfolk Protestant Hospital gets $6,000 for the establishment of a free cot. Provision is made in the will for the erection of a shaft over the grave of a brother, "a brave and unflinching Confederate soldier.'

VIBRATOR STARTS A FIRE.

Electrical Apparatus Causes Excitement in Mrs. Guggenheimer's House.

There was a small fire in the house of Mrs. Randolph Guggenheimer, at 923 Fifth Avenue, yesterday afternoon, caused by the short-circuiting of the electrical connections of a gold-mounted vibrator. A still alarm was sent in to Engine Company 44, but the fire was extinguished by servants before the arrival of the firemen.

The vibrator had just been used, and a servant was making some change in the mechanism when flames darted from the apparatus, and set fire to the window curtains. The damage to the vibrator was placed at $2,000.

UNITE IN HONORS TO LADY ABERDEEN

TRIBUTE FROM MRS. HARRIMAN

The debt of Europe in general and Ireland in particular to this country for inspiration of the campaign for the prevention of tuberculosis was expressed yesterday afternoon by the Countess of Aberdeen, the visiting Irish social worker and philanthropist, at a reception given in her honor at the Academy of Medicine by the Directors of the Tuberculosis Preventorium for Children at Farmingdale, N. J. Lady Aberdeen is the President of the Women's National Health Association of Ireland and has taken a leading part in the campaign against tuberculosis in that country.

Marcus M. Marks, President of the Preventorium, was Chairman of the meeting, and with him and Lady Aberdeen among the speakers were Controller William A. Prendergast, Dr. Herman Biggs, the Medical Officer of the city, and Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, who is one of the Directors of the Preventorium. About 200 leading men aud women attended the reception, including Dr. Abraham Jacobi, the venerable head of the American Medical Association; Dr. Alexander Miller, President of the Association of Tuberculosis Clinics; Jacob H. Schiff, Nathan Straus, Mrs. Henry Phipps, Mrs. James Speyer, and Dr. John H. Finley of the College of the City of New York.

Mr. Marks said that since the foundation of the Preventorium three and a half years ago there had not been a single child ill at the place from any cause whatever.

"We are proud to welcome here a fighter in the same fight abroad, in the person of Lady Aberdeen," said he. "Next year we propose to celebrate the 100th anniversary of peace between Great Britain, her country, and the United States. It has been a peace between mother and child, and will never be broken. Science is making the pond between us narrower and narrower, and shortly we shall fly across to exchange week-end visits. We are gradually becoming more and more civilized and more and more averse to conflict. Both countries, however, are waging a common holy war against a common foe, in the campaign against tuberculosis, and we are glad to have Lady Aberdeen with us as one of the leading figures in that war abroad."

Controller Prendergast welcomed Lady Aberdeen, both as a representative of the City Government and as the son of Irish parents, saying that under those circumstances he was as near Irish as it were possible for an American to be. He complimented the men and women back of the Preventorium project for pointing out as individuals the way which the city and State had not yet undertaken to travel in preventing tuberculosis instead of attempting to cure it after the worst of the evil had been done. Dr. Herman M. Biggs also emphasized the value of preventative rather than curative health precautions, pointing out in the case of Lady Aberdeen's own work that in the five years since the Women's National Health Association of Ireland was organized the death rate from tuberculosis in the British Isles had been cut down nearly 20 per cent.

Mrs. J. Borden Harriman acknowledged her personal debt to Lady Aberdeen by telling how, years ago, when she was still undecided as to the direction in which to turn her energies, she met Lady Aberdeen and was inspired, using her as a model, to try to devote herself to similar work for social betterment.

"You gave me a sense of direction which I have tried to follow ever since," she declared, turning to Lady Aberdeen, "and that meeting with you was one of the chief milestones of my life."

Lady Aberdeeen, in turn, declared that her country was indebted to Mrs. Harriman's for its sense of direction in many social reforms, particularly in the campaign for the prevention rather than the more difficult and too often late attempts to cure tuberculosis. She mentioned especially the guidance, advice, and help extended to the workers in Ireland's campaign by Nathan Straus, in the pasteurizing apparatus and milk stations he had set up there.

She declared that already there had been set up in Ireland a little institution somewhat resembling the Preventorium in Farmingdale, but promised that greater application of the principles of the Preventorium would follow upon her return to her home land.

"It is strange," she said, "that it is so much easier to waken interest in curative than in preventive help work—that we seem to prefer to wait until disease has found a firm lodgment and is harder to drive out."

Divorce Decree for Anna Held.

A decree of final divorce in the suit brought by Anna Held Ziegfeld against Florenz Ziegfeld, Jr., the theatrical manager, was signed yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Newburger. Mr. Ziegfeld became manager for Miss Held in 1896, and after a romantic courtship they were married in France. They now have a daughter in school in France. Miss Held made no demand for alimony.

The Climax of N. Y.'S Greatest Clothes Sale

This is the big hour of an event which has for many weeks been making clothes history.

Now the climax has arrived. In all the fifty-six years of Hackett-Carhart history the stocks were never so complete—never so beautiful. And the prices, never so low.

Plans for the complete reorganization make it necessary that every stock must be sold immediately.

It is imperative that the prices be made to represent the most supreme values. And that they do, is a fact self-evident.

Hackett-Carhart clothes have been foremost among quality clothes for more than half a century. Now they embody every perfection that all of these years of experience have taught.

In fineness of tailoring, correctness of style, excellence and exclusiveness of fabrics, Hackett-Carhart clothes easily take first rank today.

And today's assortments are most unusual. They are more complete, newer in style and choicer in fabric, than are the average assortments at the season's beginning. All are fresh from the tailor's hands—almost within the past fortnight.

So you don't have to choose here among broken sizes in left-over garments. And that's precisely what the majority of the other stores are offering today. You can prove this for yourself very readily.

Here awaits your inspection more than 15000 suits and overcoats, suitable for every service. For Business, Dress, Travel, Motor, Storm, College and School service. In sizes for men, young men and boys.

Among them, there are more than a hundred different models. Designed after the best style ideas of two continents. And made up in more than 800 fabric styles—in fabrics from the foremost weavers of the world.

WILSON CONSIDERING MOOSER FOR CABINET

TWO PRECEDENTS ARE CITED

Hayes and Cleveland Named Men of Opposite Political Faith for Places in Their Cabinets.

The plan of putting a political opponent in his Cabinet is under consideration by President-elect Wilson. The opponent in question is George W. Norris of Nebraska, the Bull Moose leader in the House of Representatives of the sixty-second Congress and a Bull Moose Senator-elect in the sixty-third. Aside from his Bull Moose divagations of 1912, his record is consistently Republican.

Lest it should be imagined that this Norris boom is one of the vagaries of politics and of no more importance than, say, a boom for E. V. Debs or William Rockefeller for Secretary of the Treasury might be, it should be explained that the boom in question is being considered just about as seriously as is that of W. J. Bryan for Secretary of State or Louis D. Brandeis for Secretary of Commerce and Labor or Attorney General.

In view of the fact that the Progressive Party was the chief opponent of the Democratic Party at the polls last November and its only important competitor both for the electoral vote and the popular vote, the proposition to put a member of that party in the Cabinet seems humorous to some politicians. Yet the Norris boom has been brought to the President-elect by Democrats as well as Progressives, and while he has not made any decision, he has not up to this time thrown the matter out of court. In fact, the Norris proposition is being considered more seriously than any other Cabinet suggestion with the exception of two or three.

The argument back of the Norris suggestion has arrested the attention of Mr. Wilson. It is that the Progressive Party is largely responsible for the change in public sentiment on economic issues, which has brought the Democrats into power, or if not the Progressive Party, then the things which brought the Progressive Party into being.

The argument has been made to the Governor by men not from Nebraska, but from New Jersey. In effect it is that there would never have been a chance for a progressive like himself to be elected Governor of that State if the progressive sentiment in the Republican Party had not forced the Democrats to meet it by the nomination of a radical. All the successes of his Governorship, it has been said to him, were due to the fashion in which the Progressive Republicans paved the way. He has been told by men from his own State that he could not have been nominated at Baltimore if it had not been for the fact that the Roosevelt bolt held a club over the Democratic Party, which made it necessary for that party to nominate a progressive Democrat. Judge William P. Martin of Essex County, one of his own appointees, is among those who have suggested this idea to him.

Pleas based on the work that this or that candidate did for Wilson's election usually find him an impatient listener, but he always lends a ready ear to arguments based on service done to the cause. It is for this reason more than any other that he has not yet thrown the Norris suggestion out of court, as he might be expected to do, but instead has given it serious attention.

The appointment, if made, would not be wholly unprecedented. President Hayes appointed David M. Key, a Democrat, to be Postmaster General, and President Cleveland appointed Walter Q. Gresham, a Republican, to head his Cabinet as Secretary of State. In both cases the impelling motive was the same as that which would actuate Woodrow Wilson if he should appoint Norris. Hayes recognized the importance of reconciling the South, alienated from the North as it had been by the two administrations of President Grant, and Cleveland wished to recognize that important element in his following which had formerly been Republican and of which Gresham, Wayne MacVeagh, and Judge Thomas M. Cooley were the acknowledged spokesmen.

Norris comes from Nebraska, and so does Mr. Bryan, and under the old custom of giving any State not more than one representative in the Cabinet this might be construed as barring the Bull Moose leader. President Cleveland was the first to shatter that tradition when he appointed Manning and Whitney, both of New York, to his Cabinet. President Roosevelt followed his example, and President Taft shattered the last remnant of the old bogy.

O'GORMAN CALLS ON WILSON.

With Culberson of Texas They Talked of Extra Session Programme.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, Jan. 9.—United States Senators O'Gorman of New York and Culberson of Texas were in conference at the State House with Gov. Wilson this afternoon. Senator O'Gorman was the first to arrive. Both declined to talk of the subjects discussed by them with the President-elect.

When they had gone Mr. Wilson said that he had taked over with his visitors some of the things to be done at the coming extra session of Congress. He said that Bryan's name had been mentioned, but only casually.

The President-elect also said that he had asked Major Gen. Wood to designate the Essex Troop of New Jersey as his guard of honor at the inauguration.

WANTS TEETH IN TRUST LAWS.

Gov. Wilson Expects State Measures to End Holding Companies.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 9.—Chancellor Walker, who, with former Supreme Court Justice Bennett Van Syckel, has been drafting for Gov. Wilson for presentation to the Legislature bills which are designed to remove the stigma "Mother of Trusts" from New Jersey, called upon the Governor late this afternoon with a completed copy of one of the measures.

Gov. Wilson said he hoped the bills would prevent the possibility of holding companies and, added to new corporation laws, would have teeth in them.

CHECK TO RADICAL SENATORS.

Wilson Will Not Join Them in War on Conservative Leaders.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The ultra-radical wing of the Senate Democrats is crestfallen to-day over what is considered the failure of the visit yesterday to Gov. Wilson of Senators Hoke Smith of Georgia and Thomas P. Gore of Oklahoma. Those Senators took with them to Trenton the outlines of a complete plan for the radical reorganization of the Senate after March 4. Their report to-day to their colleagues makes it plain that Gov. Wilson will not assist them in their war on the old conservatives, even if he approves the radical proposals in theory.

The first result following the dissemination of this impression of Gov. Wilson's attitude among Democratic Senators was a report that the 28 Senators counted for the Progressive programme had dwindled to an even 20. As there will be 49 Democrats in the Senate, their loss of strength, if as serious as reported, means the failure of the more radical suggestion of the faction represented by Mr. Smith and Mr. Gore.

Gov. Wilson has already given evidence that he expects to co-operate with the established leaders in the House. His most important conferences with Representatives have been those with Speaker Champ Clark and Representative Oscar W. Underwood. Threatened revolt against them by Northern Democrats or Southerners of radical complexion has been discouraged.

The belief now is that in a less degree the Governor means to discourage factional fights among Democratic Senators. The Senators with whom he has consulted have been almost exclusively from the Progressive wing of the party, and that very fact shows his sympathy with them. But it is not thought that he will support them in the attempt to ride roughshod over the Senators who have led their party in the upper chamber for many years.

WEEKS LEADS McCALL.

Has 73 Votes to Rival's 66 for Senator from Massachusetts.

BOSTON, Jan. 9.—Republican members of the Massachusetts Legislature balloted for three hours to-day and adjourned until to-morrow without reaching an agreement on a candidate for United States Senator.

Eleven ballots were taken. On the last ballot, the seventeenth since the caucus started, Congressman John W. Weeks had 73 votes and Congressman Samuel McCall 66.

SINGLE COMMISSION FOR UTILITIES WORK

Sulzer and Tammany Purpose to Consolidate Public Service Bodies in Present Session.

BOARD TO BE SEVEN STRONG

All Save Two of Present Commissioners Will Lose Jobs—Many Persons Call Plan Hurtful.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 9.—It was learned here to-day on good authority that before the legislative session was over the two present Public Service Commissions would be abolished and a commission of seven members to take their place would be created. Th report was supplemented with the information that the official days of the present Commissioners—with the possible exception of J. Sergeant Cram and George V. S. Williams, Dix appointees—were numbered.

The first hint came with the introduction of a bill by Senator John F. Healy of Westchester, designed to carry out the purpose of getting rid of the present Commissioners. It next was learned that the Healy bill would come before the Legislature with the approval of the organization, and that virtual agreement existed between Gov. Sulzer and the spokesmen of the organization in the Legislature.

The only reason of Gov. Sulzer's for undertaking such a change in the State's policy with regard to the supervision and regulation of the two commissions, it was said, was that it would make for economy. The Governor also was said to be of the opinion that the work of the two commissions might be done more effectively by one commission with members of his own selection.

Charles F. Murphy, Tammany leader, it was intimated, might have less benevolent reasons for desiring to see the commission consolidated. True, consolidation would cut off three of the best paid jobs in the State, but those could not be filled by the present Democratic Administration, anyhow. On the other hand, the change would create seven vacancies at once, as a result of which organization Democrats could replace Republicans.

Another reason was suggested. The consolidation and the appointment of a new set of Commissioners would extend the influence of Tammany Hall to the up-State zone of public service regulation, and incidentally place in its reach a great many jobs at present controlled by the up-State commission.

Tammany Hall always has had a hostile eye on the Public Service Commissions, as established by Gov. Hughes. The commissions have been the subject of many attacks in both houses by Tammany members ever since they were created. Thomas F. Grady introduced a bill two years ago with a view to abolishing the commissions. Gov. Dix, to supplement the Grady measure, started an investigation of the commission for the New York City district. John N. Carlisle, whom Gov. Hughes appointed a Public Service Commissioner to fill the unexpired term of Thomas Mott Osborne, was selected by Gov. Dix to conduct the investigation. Much to the disgust of Mr. Dix, it was said, Mr. Carlisle gave the Commissioners a clean bill of health.

Many persons who have studied the regulation of public service corporations in this State, have expressed the belief that it would be hurtful to cut down the number of Commissioners and consolidate the bodies at the present time. It was pointed out that the transit problems in New York City and in the rest of the State were widely dissimilar, and that there was enough construction work and mapping out of new routes in the metropolitan district to keep the separate commission busy.

A plan is on foot to extend the sphere of Public Service Commission activity by placing the private water companies, of which there is a great number throughout the State, under commission jurisdiction.

The Healy bill would not reduce the salaries of the Commissioners, nor does it propose to change the vital provisions of the law beyond what is necessary to effect the proposed consolidation.

Gov. Sulzer in discussing the situation a few days ago asserted that Associate Justice Hughes of the United States Supreme Court had told him that political influences forced him to create two commissions, where it had been his intention to create only one. That statement caused widespread surprise and comment in the Capitol. Mr. Hughes never to any appreciable degree, it was remarked, was susceptible to political influences, and never was less so than in the first months of his first administration, when he sent to the Legislature his recommendations for creation of the Public Service Commissions.

Representative Edwin A. Merritt, Jr., who was majority leader of the Assembly in 1907 and one of the sponsors of the Public Service Commissions law, which he helped to draft, told THE TIMES correspondent recently that he personally had favored one commission, but that Gov. Hughes insisted there should be two, and that it was in deference to the suggestion of Mr. Hughes that two commissions were created.

THOS F. SMITH SEES SULZER.

Governor Will Entertain Murphy, Too, in "the People's House."

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 9.—Gov. Sulzer volunteered the information when he met the newspaper correspondents this afternoon that one of his callers to-day had been Thomas F. Smith, Secretary of Tammany Hall.

"Mr. Smith called to pay his respects," said the Governor.

"Did he bring you any orders from Mr. Murphy?" asked a newspaper man.

"I told Smith that he probably would be asked that question, and told him to tell the truth," said Gov. Sulzer.

Mr. Smith said he called to pay his respects and to introduce three clergymen to the Governor.

William J. Conners, formerly Democratic State Chairman, and dethroned boss of the Democratic organization in Erie County, received an appointment from Gov. Sulzer to-day. No pay is attached to the job.

"I have appointed William J. Conners, owner of The Buffalo Courier, a member of the Perry Centennial Celebration Commission," said Mr. Sulzer to the reporters.

"Did Mr. Conners have the indorsement of the Erie County organization?" asked a correspondent.

"He was indorsed by me," said the Governor.

The Executive Mansion will be known as "the People's House" during the Administration of Gov. Sulzer. The new name developed to-day when the Governor announced he would entertain the Presidential Electors, who are to meet here on Monday, in "the People's House."

"Do you mean the Executive Mansion?" he was asked.

"Yes, that is 'the People's House,'" the Governor replied.

PLAN NEW LABOR LAWS.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 9.—Gov. Sulzer will preside at a conference in the Executive Chamber on Tuesday afternoon next to consider the proposed reorganization of the State Labor Department and new legislation restricting child labor and the employment of women. Samuel Gompers, Abram I. Elkus, Clarence J. Shearn, President Harris of the New York Federation of Labor, and a number of men and women interested in such questions have been invited to attend. Senator Robert F. Wagner and Speaker Alfred E. Smith will be present.

Senator Wagner introduced a bill to-day prohibiting the employment of children under fourteen years of age in cannery sheds and tenement houses.

SON SAYS HE WILL CORROBORATE SIPP

GROEHL WILL STAY WITH HIM

Assistant District Attorney Will Live with the Witness Until the Grand Jury Has Heard Him.

Mrs. George A. Sipp, wife of the former Raines law hotel keeper, who told the Curran Committee that he had paid graft to Policeman Eugene Fox, arrived here from Atlantic City last night, where her husband was arrested and later released on a charge which he said was trumped up by the police of this city. Mrs. Sipp said that her husband and Assistant District Attorney Groehl would arrive to-day, and that Sipp had agreed to appear before the Grand Jury and tell all that he knew about police graft in this city.

Assistant District Attorney Groehl would stay with Sipp, it was said, until he had completed his testimony before the Grand Jury. It was asserted that Sipp decided to return and lay bare all the facts he had in his possession after the Grand Jury had refused to listen to the charges made against him. Sipp said in Atlantic City:

"I'm going to go back and rest, and after I have done so I will appear before the Grand Jury and tell all I know. There won't be any 'frame-up' about it either, but everything I say will be straight facts which I can prove. My son, Howard, will corroborate everything, and I believe other facts will be brought to light which will tend to prove every assertion I make."

Mr. Whitman says that he has been extremely anxious to get corroboration of Sipp's testimony, as he does not desire to present the matter to the Grand Jury until assured that he has a good chance of obtaining one indictment at least. If this corroboration can be furnished by Sipp's son it will be doubly important owing to the fact that Howard Sipp never engaged in the business his father acknowledged he followed.

The first matter on which Sipp will testify before the Grand Jury will be the story he told before the Curran Committee relative to Policeman Eugene Fox, who was arrested on the order of Police Commissioner Waldo and later discharged by Magistrate Kernochan in the Tombs Court owing to Sipp's absence from the city. Mrs. Sipp, in speaking of the testimony her son would give, said:

"I am not in a position to say just how much corroboration Howard can give, but he has assured me and Assistant District Attorney Groehl that he will be able to corroborate much of Mr. Sipp's testimony."

Mr. Whitman was busy yesterday preparing for Sipp's return, and when he first arrived in the Criminal Court Building in the morning he held a long consultation with Assistant District Attorney Albert Perkins, who is in charge of the Grand Jury proceedings. Before this consultation was over Mr. Whitman called in his private stenographer, who stayed with him for some time and later departed with Mr. Perkins. Mr. Whitman said last night that every precaution would be taken to keep Sipp's whereabouts unknown until after he had appeared before the Grand Jury.

It was said that, after Policeman Fox was arrested on the charge of extortion made against him by Sipp, he called up on the telephone friends and asked them to force Sipp to go away from this city. Mr. Whitman has been investigating this report, and has corroborated it from several sources. Mr. Whitman is also confident that if he can obtain an indictment against a policeman, he can force the policeman to tell all he knows about the graft situation.

Mr. Whitman denied that he had offered Sipp immunity from punishment should additional charges be made against him, and he said that he had not given Mr. Groehl authority to do so. Mr. Groehl informed Mr. Whitman that Sipp returned here from Atlantic City of his own free will.

BURFEIND TELLS OF WEALTH.

Police Captain Interested in Real Estate Where Becker Built His Home.

Police Captain Henry W. Burfeind told the Curran Committee yesterday that he had a one-third interest in twenty acres of land in Mount Vernon worth $400,000, on which there was a $60,000 mortgage, $5,000 worth of stock in the Olinville Realty Company and mining stock worth a few hundred dollars. Olinville Avenue is where Lieut. Becker, now in the death house at Sing Sing Prison for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, built his new house a short time before he was arrested. It is believed that other policemen were interested in building lots in this neighborhood.

Capt. Burfeind has been a policeman for twenty-eight years and was at one time an Inspector. Emory R. Buckner, the committee's counsel, asked the Captain if he owned anything else either directly or indirectly and the Captain said that he did not. He testified that he had operated somewhat freely in real estate and at one time owned some property in Unionport, Westchester County, but he got rid of his holdings there, he said. The Captain is now in charge of the Bushwick Avenue station in Brooklyn. Mr. Buckner confined his questions to the ten months between December, 1911, and September, 1912, when the Captain commanded the Clinton Street station in this borough.

Mr. Buckner asked the witness if he knew Manny Mass, who is now under indictment on charges made by Mrs. Mary Goode, and Henry Pinkus, well known on the east side. Both of these men, according to information that has reached the committee, are hand in glove with the police. Asked how he came to know Pinkus, the Captain said that Pinkus was one of those men who nod to you first, then speak to you, and then take a little walk with you. Maas was a different kind of an acquaintance. The Captain had known him some two years. He met him, he said, when looking for a missing register in a hotel in which Maas was interested.

The Captain said that he was an Inspector in 1907 and 1908. On his staff at this time were Detectives Rickett and Cleary. They were with him when he was a Captain, he said, and he had them assigned to him when he was promoted. Cleary had been with him, the Captain asserted, when he was in command of the Sixty-eighth, One Hundredth, and East Twenty-second Street Stations. Another man who had been with him for a long time, and in whom he had unbounded confidence, he testified, was Sergt. Daniel Farrell. Mr. Buckner called on the Captain to explain the change from what was known as "wardmen" to "plain-clothes men." The former wardmen got a bad reputation in the days before the Lexow investigation. They were regarded as the "collectors" for the Captains.

The wardmen were supposed to get evidence against disorderly resorts and gambling houses. When they were replaced by the plain-clothes men the Captains had no method of getting this evidence, Capt. Burfeind said. Mr. Buckner asked about a talk the Captain had with Commissioner Waldo in October. The Captain was then in charge of the West Forty-seventh Street Station. The talk, he said, had to do with the method of making up "Form 29," which is sent to the Commissioner every month, and is supposed to contain the addresses of all suspected resorts. No one was present at this talk, the Captain said, except Inspector Dwyer. He testified that he had assured the Commissioner that all of the gambling houses in his precinct were closed with the possible exception of the poker rooms. In reply to a question the Captain said that the Commissioner told him he wanted the same rule to apply to both the gambling houses and disorderly resorts in making up the reports. The Captain was sure of this until Mr. Buckner pressed him.

"Isn't it a fact that the Commissioner didn't ask you about disorderly resorts?" asked Mr. Buckner.

"It is possible," replied the Captain.

"Isn't it a fact that when you inquired what action you should take in the matter of disorderly resorts that he gave you no answer?"

"He didn't express his views to me," the Captain admitted.

"Didn't he want you to have legal evidence against those places before you put them on Form 29?"

"I never had any specific instructions about the kind of places I should put in the report."

Then the inquiry shifted to the Thirteenth Precinct in the inspection district under Inspector Cahalane. There was one gambling house at 155 Bowery that gave the Captain much trouble, he said. A correspondent, who signed himself "J. K. Lee," kept writing letters to the Captain and to the Commissioner about this place. In one of these letters, dated Aug. 20, 1912, Lee said the resort was a "stuss, craps, and wheel house," and that Jerry Leighton, who ran it, paid the Inspector $200 a month for protection. The writer expressed irritation because, he said, he had written to the Commissioner some ten times and that no steps had been taken to put the resort out of business.

"Did you ever hear," asked Mr. Buckner, "that the police changed their testimony when a case came up in court?"

"Yes," replied the Captain.

In reply to other questions the Captain said he had investigated every resort complained of. Alderman Dowling wanted to know if gamblers didn't often complain to the police about each other. The Captain said that they did and that they often killed each other.

The first witness of the day was Capt. Frank J. Conboy of the Rapelye Station, Brooklyn. He was formerly in command of the Thirteenth Precinct, and he said that while he was in charge the precinct was kept clean of disorderly resorts and gambling houses. His report was blank when he was transferred to another precinct, but his successor reported suspected places.

Mr. Buckner gave out a statement concerning the progress the committee had made so far, and the object of the work now being done in which he said:

"Commissioners Waldo and Cropsey have testified that nothing is more important and vital to the whole police force than the character of its members. It appears that the department at present takes no responsibility as to the kind of men appointed, but leaves the investigation wholly to the Civil Service Commission. That commission has only two investigators, aided by three 'monitors,' for its entire investigation work. It may be that honest young men joining the force become grafters afterward, but if we admit men to the force who already have criminal records or instincts why should we be surprised if they become as bad as those they are set to watch.

"Any one familiar with police graft gossip knows that sources of graft are not at all limited to the so-called vices, but extend to pickpockets, thieves, and burglars—shocking as this may seem. The committee has not yet taken up an intensive study of the administrative methods of the Detective Bureau and the question of its general personnel and efficiency, but it has already received testimony in several instances of corrupt dealings between detectives and criminals. It has heard how detectives plan a burglary and set a stool pigeon to recruit criminals to commit it; of a stool pigeon's using his own father's store as a means of getting an entrance into the place to be robbed; of the police lying in wait until the burglary was completed, and of catching the thieves at the door with their entire loot.

"The committee has learned from reputable witnesses of a policeman's arresting a man for carrying concealed weapons and demanding money to testify so as to throw out the case. Mrs. Goode has testified before the committee that there are thousands of disorderly resorts in the city and that, in her opinion, as keeper of a disorderly resort, policemen must always be paid. George A. Sipp has testified that for many years he ran a hotel and was forced to pay a member of the Police Department a sum monthly for the privilege of doing business."

FEDERAL VICTORY IN THE LUMBER SUIT

DEFEAT FOR THE MIDDLEMEN

"Official Reports" Violate Sherman Act, Judges Rule—Cases Against the Secretaries Pending.

Judges Lacombe, Coxe, Ward, and Noyes sitting together yesterday in the Federal District Court, granted a permanent injunction on the petition of the Government against the Eastern States Retail Lumber Dealers' Association, the New York Lumber Trade Association, the Building Material Men's Association, the New Jersey Lumbermen's Protective Association, the Retail Lumbermen's Association, the Lumber Dealers' Association of Connecticut, the Massachusetts Retail Lumber Dealers' Association, the Lumber Dealers' Association of Rhode Island, the Retail Lumbermen's Association of Baltimore, the Lumber Exchange of the District of Columbia, and their officers and Directors.

The petition of the Government charged that the associations had formed a conspiracy among themselves for the restraint of trade, contrary to the Sherman act, by enforcing the division of the lumber trade into hard and fast classes. They drew a sharp distinction betweeen the wholesaler and the retailer, and they blacklisted all wholesale dealers who seemed to them to trespass on the field of the retail man. Moreover, it was alleged, they expelled from membership in their associations "poachers" or retailers, who invaded the territory of another retailer, and "scalpers" who cut prices, and they arbitrarily fixed the prices of lumber and lumber products.

The court in its decision went at length into the organization of the lumber trade. The manufacturer or mill man, it said, was the man who felled the trees and turned out rough lumber for sale to the wholesalers, or to the large consumers of a particular class of lumber.

The wholesalers were usually to be found in large centres, such as New York and Chicago, and generally acted merely as agents to transmit orders from the retailer to the mill man. But the court pointed out that though it was undoubtedly a very large part of the wholesalers' business to sell large lots, such as car loads or schooner loads, to the retailer, and some made it a rule to sell only to the retail yards, there were others who sold only to the large consumers, and others who habitually sold to both retailers and consumers. The court found that the allegation of the Government was absolutely substantiated.

Wholesalers' Sales to Consumers.

"There is and always has been a large class of reputable manufacturers and wholesale dealers who sell lumber to large consumers in any city where such manufacturers and wholesalers have no customers among retail yard dealers, or where the large consumer is not a customer of any yard at retail prices."

The court fully recognized that the retailer was put to heavy expense which the wholesaler generally avoided in having to carry many kinds of lumber in his yard, and that he was the natural person with whom the smaller customers would deal. Moreover, it noted the friction which always existed between the wholesalers and the retailers as the result of one side or the other considering that the other had been invading its special field.

The court would not, however, go into this controversy, but declared that the "official reports," of which the Government complained, were adopted by the retailers in order to check what they considered the unfair competition of the wholesalers. These "official reports" contained lists of the wholesale firms, which had been reported as having solicited, quoted, or sold direct to consumers, and requested the members of the associations to supply, if possible, information of any such acts on the part of the wholesalers.

The court noted that the retail associations did not require their members to refrain from dealing with the wholesalers thus listed and did not fine or discipline them for so doing, but it pointed out that the circulation of the "official reports" had practically as great an effect as a system of punishment.

The Court refused to consider the consequence of its decree upon the business prosperity of the retailers, as its duty, it considered, was only to enforce the law. "Congress," it said, "has considered the results and chosen what seemed to it the wisest course."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The Government's victory at New York to-day against the lumber dealers' associations is regarded by officials of the Department of Justice as one of the most important accomplishments under the Sherman anti-trust law, because it limits in large measure the power and privileges of the much discussed "middleman" in commerce.

The Lumber Trust cases still pending, constituting in the aggregate a Nation-wide move, are directed against the Michigan Retail Lumber Dealers' Association, filed at Detroit; the Colorado and Wyoming Lumber Dealers' Association, filed at Denver, and the Lumbermen's Bureau of Information, filed at St. Paul. In addition there is pending at Chicago an indictment charging the Secretaries of fourteen retail lumbermen's associations, covering twenty-three States, from Pennsylvania to the Pacific Coast, with conspiring to control the marketing of lumber through the retailer.

FACTORY OWNERS ACCUSED.

Seven Held for Working Women and Girls More Than Nine Hours a Day.

The State Labor Department charged a number of manufacturers in the Jefferson Market Court, before Magistrate McQuade yesterday, with employing female minors and employing women over nine hours a day and over fifty-four hours a week. Seven concerns were called upon to make appearance in court. The defendants waived examination and were held in $25 each for trial in Special Sessions. Frederick H. Cunningham appeared for the State Labor Department.

The defendants were Charles H. Darrow, Jr., candy, 137 Prince Street; Harry Reisner, dress goods, 144 West Twenty-seventh Street; Paul Valenuno, laundry, 236 Mercer Street; Harry Bokel, shirtwaists, 627 Broadway; G. F. A. Hat Company, 28 Bond Street; C. E. Sheppard, printing, 311 Hudson Street, and Arthur Freidenheidt, neckwear, 878 Broadway.

PRINCETON NEEDS $4,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 9.—That Princeton University is planning the establishment of schools of mechanical engineering, mining engineering, and forestry, and is seeking the establishment of a central endowment fund of approximately $4,000,000 was made known in President John Grier Hibben's first annual report to the Board of Trustees of that institution to-day on the first anniversary of his election to succeed Gov. Woodrow Wilson as President.

Dr. Hibben's programme calls for the erection of a large university hall to serve as a common rendezvous for all graduates, undergraduates, and members of the Faculty; a new dormitory, with low-priced rooms, a new chemical laboratory, a systematic development of the library, and a considerable increase in the number of scholarships available for self-supporting students.

The request for a central endowment fund comes as a surprise to some who were of the opinion that the recent Wyman and Procter gifts were available for the uses of the university. These were made to the Graduate College solely, and are being used for its development.

ANNA STRAUSS CONVICTED.

Woman Mrs. Goode Called Member of Vice Trust Gets Off with $50 Fine.

Mrs. Anna Strauss, who was named by Mrs. Mary Goode as a member of the so-called vice trust, was fined $50 in Special Sessions yesterday following her conviction for keeping a disorderly resort.

The complaining witnesses against Mrs. Strauss were Patrolman Alexander Hall and Cornelius J. Dwyer, who testified they had entered her resort.

Mrs. Goode asserted that Mrs. Strauss was receiving protection from the police. A peculiar fact about the case against Mrs. Strauss is that her place was raided on the very day that Mrs. Goode made her revelations before the Aldermanic Investigating Committee.

Rose in Supplementary Proceedings.

An order for the examination in supplementary proceedings of Jack Rose, the gambler who was one of the chief witnesses against Lieut. Becker on his trial for the murder of the gambler Rosenthal, was entered in the City Court yesterday. Rose, according to the petition filed by the law firm of House, Grossman & Vorhaus, owed two Municipal Court judgments, one of $828, for money borrowed, to Eugene Walter, and one for $115 for dresses supplied to his wife by a dressmaker. Rose will be examined on Saturday as to his sources of income.

An Unjustifiable Strike.

THE clothing strike was started by a handful of self-seeking agitators and against the real interests of the workers.

Many thousands of operators have been driven unwillingly out of employment.

The members of this Association have continuously improved the working conditions of their employes in every possible way.

ROOSEVELT FROWNS ON MUNSEY PLAN

TAFT'S VICTORY RANKLES

Until Republican Managers Learn That Theft Won't Do, There Can Be No Union with Them, He Asserts.

Col. Roosevelt issued a statement yesterday containing his views on Frank A. Munsey's proposal that the Progressives and Republicans should unite through a "holding company." Mr. Roosevelt did not like the idea at all. The only way for the two parties to get together, he said, was for the Republicans to join the Progressives. The Colonel showed that he was still bitter over the way President Taft was renominated.

"I am simply speaking as one of the men in the ranks of the Progressive Party," said the Colonel. "Personally, I strongly feel that we should no more enter into a combination with the Republican machine than with the Democratic machine.

"I firmly believe that all good Progressives who may happen yet to adhere to either the Republican Party or the Democratic Party will in the end see that the chance for honest government and for the practical achievement of social and industrial justice lies in the Progressive Party, and only in the Progressive Party.

Welcomes Individual Recruits.

"We welcome all honest men who believe in our principles. If they come in with us they shall have exactly the share that any other people have of the party management. I hold that we are under the same obligations to ex-Democrats, like Judge Lindsey and Don Dickinson, as to any ex-Republicans. To my mind the whole attitude of those at present responsible for the leadership and management of the Republican Party shows that it would be folly to try to combine with them. Last Saturday Mr. Taft stated in his speech that 'the result of the Chicago Convention was a triumph for the permanence of republican institutions.' This is equivalent to the statement that the permanence of republican institutions depends upon the success of barefaced political theft and fraud, engineered by men of the type of Mr. Barnes and Mr. Penrose in the interest of the perpetuation of bossism in politics and privilege in business.

"The Republican Convention of last June was deliberately stolen from the people by the bosses on behalf of the privileged interests. Part of the 'triumph,' of which Mr. Taft speaks, was in seating Taft delegates from the Ninth District of Alabama. When the people had the chance to vote in November that district gave us 2,830 votes and President Taft 1,320. Another part of the 'triumph' was seating six delegates for Mr. Taft from Arizona. Arizona gave us 7,000 votes and Mr. Taft 3,000, he running fourth in that State, even behind the Socialists. Another part of the 'triumph' was in seating four Taft delegates at large from Indiana and two from the Marion County Congressional District.

"Whether Indiana went for or against Mr. Taft depended upon the vote in Marion County. At the November election he received 12,000 votes in that county, and I received 18,000. Another part of the 'triumph' of which Mr. Taft speaks was seating the Taft delegates at large from Michigan. When the voters could speak in that State I beat Mr. Taft nearly two to one; that is, by a majority of close on to 70,000. Another part of the 'triumph' of which Mr. Taft speaks was in giving him fourteen delegates to which he was not entitled from Washington. When the voters voted in November in Washington I had over 40,000 majority over Mr. Taft. In California Mr. Taft's 'triumph' took the shape of unseating two legally elected delegates, and in California in November there was practically no Taft vote at all.

"The Taft people refused to go on the ballot in that State, although they had every opportunity to do so by petition, precisely as we went on the ballot in New York and in some forty-six States of the Union. They simply did not dare to show their weakness by going on the ballot, and preferred to vote with the reactionary Democrats.

"These votes I have mentioned would have changed the convention by themselves. If it had not been for them Gov. McGovern would have been elected Temporary Chairman, the Progressives would have adopted their platform and would have nominated their candidates.

Calls Taft Victory a Fraud.

"The 'triumph' for the permanence of republican institutions, of which Mr. Taft speaks, was the triumph of fraud and theft, and it was rebuked by the figures I have given above in the various districts in which it was perpetrated.

"Until the managers of the Republican Party learn that theft and fraud and swindling the people and imposing the will of the bosses when they declare by a two-to-one majority at the primaries in the reverse way is not the method in which to achieve the triumph of the permanence of republican institutions, it is idle to discuss getting together with them. The present managers of the Republican Party have shown in this city, at the National Convention, everywhere they have been given a hand, their purpose to cheat at the primaries and in the conventions, and they have adopted deliberately as a rule of party government the rule that the National Committee, fifty-three politicians under the lead of Mr. Barnes, many of them representing the swindles on decency and against the majority of the people of which I have spoken above—that these fifty-three politicians have complete control of the next National Convention and are not to be bound in any way by any action held at the primaries under the State laws."

"We stand for the Progressives who vote under our banner in the South just as we stand for the Progressives who voted under our banner in the North. We recognize no difference between ex-Republicans and ex-Democrats. We stand unalterably for the principles of our platform and for the principles of party government as we have enunciated them and lived up to them. All honest men who believe in these principles, both as regards those set forth in the platform and those in accordance with which we manage the party, will be welcomed into our ranks. We will treat them on an entire equality with ourselves, and will work hand in hand and shoulder to shoulder with them for the betterment of the social, industrial, and political conditions of this great Nation."

WIRELESS MEN GUILTY.

Three Promoters of Extension Telephone Scheme Are Convicted.

After being out for more than eight hours yesterday, the jury which has been hearing the Government's prosecution in the Federal District Court of Cameron Spear, Charles L. Vaughan, and A. Frederick Collins for the last two months, on the charge of using the mails to defraud, returned a verdict of guilty on all five counts. Their associate, Joseph H. Read, was acquitted on every count. The sentences will be pronounced at 10 o'clock this morning.

Collins alleged that he had invented a wireless telephone, and in 1907 organized a company to promote it, which Spear financed. A great deal of stock was sold throughout the country, and subsequently the Collins Company was merged with the Massie-Clark Company and Pacific Coast Wireless Telephone Company as the Continental Wireless Telephone Company. According to the evidence of the Postal Inspectors, the public subscribed $945,000 to the Collins Company and $110,000 to the Continental Company.

The trial has cost the Government $40,000, hundreds of witnesses being examined, some of whom had come from distant parts of the country. The original indictments against the defendants were found in 1910, and on Nov. 21 of that year their office at 56 Pine Street was raided. The indictment on which they have been convicted, however, was found only last July.

ARTIST STONE SEEKS DIVORCE

Apart from Complaint, He Gives a Novel Reason for Desiring It.

Lewis Stone, an artist well known in Paris, St. Louis, and this city, who is also a dealer in art goods, his studio being at 34 West Twenty-eighth Street, yesterday gave "sex antagonism" as a reason why the Supreme Court should grant him a divorce from Florence Stone. He described "sex antagonism" as being the unknown rock on which so many marriages have foundered.

"You may personally love each other—man and wife—but be opposed sexually," he added. In 1896, he said, they were married in Paris, where they had both gone to study art. After that they lived happily together for fourteen years, dividing their time between Paris, St. Louis, and New York, until their third daughter, Patricia, was born.

"I know now that it was then that she discovered and I, too, that 'sex antagonism,' which had always existed between us, but which neither of us had ever understood," he said, with a very grave face. "My wife began to show a passion for wine and did not seem to love our last child. The child developed paralysis. Last September I asked my wife to go to a Summer home in Hastings with me. She refused, so I went with my two eldest children instead. When I returned to our town house I found that she had left with our crippled child, Patricia. I instituted a search through a lawyer, Matthew Carmel, and finally located them with her mother, Mrs. Keller, at 207 East Thirty-fourth Street. They were sub-letting part of the house to Leonard Passano, who is still in this city, and Harry Washington, who is now in Japan."

Stone names both these men as co-respondents in the case. He says that he does not ask for the divorce in a spirit of vengeance, but because he feels that he can no longer live with his wife.

Army Dines American Instructor Who Is Recalled to Regiment.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, Jan. 9.—The Cuban army officers gave a farewell banquet to Capt. Phillips Golderman to-night.

Capt. Golderman, who has been their instructor, returns to join his command in the United States after Cuba had made repeated efforts to retain him.

WIDER CENTRAL PARK WEST.

Seven Feet to be Cut from Easterly Sidewalk to 110th Street.

The Board of Estimate voted yesterday to widen the roadway of Central Park West between Columbus Circle and Cathedral Parkway seven feet by taking this much from the easterly sidewalk. No action was taken regarding the relaying of the street car tracks, as James J. Quackenbush, counsel for the New York Railways Company, said the company did not have the money to make the improvement. He also stated that he did not know where the company could get the money.

ALL MILLER ESTATE TO WIFE.

The will of Roswell Miller, late Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad, who died Jan. 2, 1912, was filed for probate yesterday at the Surrogates' Court. The property was estimated in the petition to be worth more than $10,000 personalty, all of which was left to his wife, Mary Louise Miller of 19 East Sixty-second Street. Provision was made in the will that in case his wife should die before him, $25,000 should go to his sister, Frances H. Edgar, and the residue should be equally divided between his two sons, Roswell, Jr., and Charles Roberts Miller.

Imported Mash Filtering Machines

THIS picture roughly represents one of the many important departments in the new Brew-House at the Jacob Ruppert Brewery. The four machines in front are mash filters, the first of their kind ever built in any brewery in the United States. The machines were made in Germany, at Frankfort-a/main, and are the largest ever installed in this or any other country, having a capacity of filtering over 600 barrels an hour, or 1,800,000 barrels a year. After the wort has been filtered by these machines it goes on to the large copper brewing kettles on the floor below, where it is boiled. Then it flows through the most up-to-date cooling apparatus in this country into glass lined steel tanks, where it becomes aged and clarified before bottling.

SEES ONLY POLITICS IN ARSON EXHIBIT

F. H. Ross Tells Fire Commissioner It Is Only to Get More Money for Bureau.

JOHNSON BLAMES COMPANIES

Says in Open Debate That Overinsurance Is Responsible for 40 Per Cent. of Fires.

A large and well-entertained crowd of men, women, and boys elbowing their way into the Fire Department's "Arson Exhibit" at 16 Chambers Street yesterday heard Fire Commissioner Joseph Johnson accuse the fire insurance companies of responsibility through overinsurance for 40 per cent. of the fires in this city, and then heard F. H. Ross, a fire insurance expert, who had agreed to meet the Fire Commissioner in debate, denounce the entire agitation and the "Arson Exhibit" started by the Fire Commissioner as "buncombe" and an unseemly attempt to play secret politics and procure a larger appropriation and provide more jobs in the Bureau of Fire Prevention.

"We assert that the fire insurance people are responsible for incendiary fires," said Commissioner Johnson. "In every other country every applicant for insurance is examined carefully and every fact concerning his business or previous losses by fire is ascertained. But in this city any one who makes an application can get insurance. Lieut. Howe here, a nice looking man, went for insurance and they gave it to him because he looked all right. Every firebug in this city did what Lieut. Howe did. He got insurance just by asking. Is that right?"

"A man came to our office," he said. "It was Lieut. Howe, I learn, and said he was a workingman and married, and we gave him insurance. They say we were wrong, but if that was wrong we will do it again. We spend $2,500 a year on personal inspection.

"If a man is going to set fire to his place you cannot stop him, and to prove it by sending around a man at $1,400 a year is buncombe. In the past four months I have sent to the Fire Commissioner 400 letters calling attention to places where the law is being violated. Why does not the Fire Department stop that? There are laws for fire prevention, and it is up to the insured and the City of New York to enforce them. The laws of the State regulate arson, yet again and again when I have presented to the District Attorney cases of plain arson nothing was done in the matter. After examining a man and finding that he had even told others he was going to commit arson, and had shown one man the lamp with which he was going to set the fire, the District Attorney, to whom we presented all the evidence, would do nothing unless we personally charged the man with arson.

"I think this whole exhibit is buncombe and is not done in the right way. The action of Lieut. Howe was bad. Is it right to go around lying for the purposes of such an exhibition? I thing this is a disgrace not only to the public but also to the Commissioner."

Commissioner Johnson declared that most of the cases submitted to him by Mr. Ross had been found free of the violations complained of.

SMILE COST RAILROAD $5,000.

Employe Took It as Invitation to Jump Aboard and Lost Leg.

In giving $5,000 damages to Carmine Graeco of 30 Forest Street, Brooklyn, in a verdict against the Long Island Railroad yesterday a jury in the Queens County Supreme Court approved of an employe jumping on a moving train after he had received a friendly smile from the engineer.

Graeco testified that he hailed the engineer of a moving train and the latter replied by smiling and waving his hand. With that Graeco tried to jump aboard the train, but fell beneath the wheels and lost his left leg. He sued for $30,000.

HOW HE STOLE OIL LETTERS.

Son of Archbold's Butler Will Testify in Washington To-morrow.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—William W. Winkfield, the negro who was an employe of the Standard Oil Company and assisted in purloining the Archbold letters that eventually reached the public through William Randolph Hearst, to-day ridiculed the report that $34,000 was paid for the letters, and brought into the story a new name, that of Frank Morell, who was an office boy and file clerk in the office of the oil company.

Winkfield said his connection with the letters was partly accidental. He caught Morell and Charles Stumph, he said, taking letter copy books from the files one day after office hours. This occurred in 1903 or 1904, he did not remember which.

Morell and Stumph, Winkfield said, were so startled when he suddenly confronted them that they promised to "let him in on the deal" if he would keep quiet.

Winkfield departed for Washington to-night and simultaneously with his leaving there came to light a story of a fight two weeks ago between an attorney named Stewart, who came here as a representative of former Senator Foraker, and alleged agents of persons who have been connected with the publicity given to the letters.

Stewart was badly beaten, and letters and telegrams sent him by Foraker were taken from him, it is said. The originals of the letters were not found in Stewart's possession, but other telegrams and letters which are believed to throw more light on the case were obtained, it is said, and they probably will be turned over to the Senate Investigating Committee when Winkfield testifies.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The Clapp Committee on Campaign Funds will resume its investigation on Saturday into the theft of the Standard Oil letters that came into the possession of William Randolph Hearst. To-day the committee was informed that the last of three witnesses who were wanted had been located in Chicago and would reach Washington in time for examination on Saturday.

The three witnesses are Gilchrist Stewart, the lawyer who worked up the details of the information presented to the committee two weeks ago by ex-Senatr Foraker of Ohio; William Winkfield, son of John D. Archbold's butler, and Charles Stumph, who assisted Winkfield in marketing the letters. According to Mr. Foraker's testimony Stumph and Winkfield hawked the letters about New York until a sale for approximately $30,000 was arranged with Mr. Hearst's agents.

Mr. Hearst has sworn that the letters did not cost him or any agent or employe of his a single penny. He said that he did not know how the letters came into the possession of his newspaper, and that John L. Eddy, the only man who did know, was in London.

STOTESBURY FAILS TO WIN.

Jury Disagrees in His Suit to Recover $40,000 from Hammerstein.

After considering the case of E. T. Stotesbury against Oscar Hemmerstein for three hours and fifty minutes yesterday afternoon the jury failed to agree and was discharged by Judge Mayer in the Federal District Court. It is understood that on the first ballot the jury stood four for Mr. Stotesbury and eight for Mr. Hammerstein, but that when the deadlock occurred the jury stood eight for Mr. Stotesbury and four for Mr. Hammerstein.

In summing up for the plaintiff James H. Beck compared the public statements of Oscar Hammerstein with those of P. T. Barnum. He recalled that Mr. Barnum had said, "The American people like to be fooled," and he also reminded the jury that when some one asked Artemus Ward what his principles were Ward had replied: "I have no principles. I am in the show business."

"The language of show men," continued Mr. Beck, "is similar to that of impresarios. When you read of the 'greatest show on earth, which has played before all the crowned heads of Europe,' you don't call the showman a liar. That's just show language, and it's impresario language, too.

"Then why should Edward T. Stotesbury pay $40,000 to be eulogized by Oscar Hammerstein as a public benefactor, when every one knows that extravagant language is natural to opera impresarios and no one pays any attention to their outbursts from the stage or in interviews?"

EMPIRE BUILDERS' TROUBLES.

Canada now knows exactly the terms upon which it is to be admitted to the imperial councils. The present proposal is neither more nor less than that which Sir WILFRID LAURIER rejected when he was Premier, and Premier FISHER on Monday rejected it for Australia. The proposal is to admit representatives of the various dominions to the proceedings of the Imperial Defense Council "when questions of naval and "military defense affecting the over-"sea dominions are under considera-"tion." Furthermore, both Premier ASQUITH and LEWIS HARCOURT, Secretary for the Colonies, pointed out to the Right Hon. ROBERT BORDEN that the Council to which the dominions are to be admitted "is a purely advisory "body, and is not and can not under "any circumstances become a body to "decide on policy, which is and must "remain the sole prerogative of the "Cabinet." Upon which the Premier of Australia tartly says "as no ques-"tion of policy is involved it is not "necessary to send an Australian Min-"ister to London." It seems hardly reasonable to expect that Premier BORDEN can induce Canada to accept what has already been so condemned.

The London newspapers last week threw light on the nature of this Anglo-Canadian bargain. The assertion is that Premier BORDEN bargained with the Unionists for a naval contribution in consideration of taxes on British food for the benefit of Canadian farmers. This is the explanation of the Unionist flounderings which come over the cable. BONAR LAW and Lord LANSDOWNE are so entangled that they can go neither forward nor backward, and Mr. BORDEN is in like plight in Canada. In the words of The Toronto Globe, "of all the foolish and danger-"ous methods of empire building ever "put forth by addlepated enthusiasts "this is the worst." A bargain requiring that the British electorate must eat dear food, and the Canadians must tax themselves for the imperial navy, is putting an excessive strain on loyalty. Neither side will do anything of the sort, and the empire is the weaker for the rejection of the proposal. The demonstration is somewhat too complete that Premier BORDEN made no idle boast when he said in London that Canada is not disposed to be an adjunct of even the empire. In fact, the demonstration goes some way toward reducing the empire to the status of the Dreibund or the Triplice. If the empire is made up of an alliance of nations each of which considers its own interest rather than the empire's the union may be a strong one, but it is no longer that of empire and colony as it is generally understood.

The London Morning Post urged yesterday the execution of the compact because its rejection would throw Canada back upon the United States. That is not the information which Canada is receiving from Washington. Canadian newspapers inform their readers that they are to get for nothing from the Democrats what they bought from the Republicans. In other words, Canadians are expecting that the Democrats will open the American market to Canadian products without Canada's opening its market to American products. It would be our gain to buy Canada's foodstuffs cheap, and it would be Canada's loss not to treat itself to cheap goods from the United States. We could buy more if we were free to pay in goods, and Canada could buy more if it did not obstruct the exchange in kind by compelling the bargain to be one-sided, and in cash instead of in barter. No wonder Canada is dazed by the argument that it is loyal to sell to the United States but treason to buy, and that it is consistent with imperialism to ask the mother country to submit to taxation for the benefit of the colonies. The empire did very well before this sort of loyalty was born, and it will do better yet after it dies, as it shortly must.

TAXATION FOR INTEREST ON TAX MONEY.

The Washington investigators have listened to an expert who assured them that if the Treasury had received 2 per cent. on all its bank deposits the yield would have been $100,000,000 since 1886. We can recall estimates of other experts to the effect that the loss to the country in 1907, largely through the Treasury's absorption of tax money, the only source of the Treasury's bank deposits, amounted to the debt due to the civil war. It does not seem to be necessary to throw in any other estimate to show that any interest money earned on the Treasury's bank deposits comes too high for even Uncle Sam to covet.

The Treasury ought not to have any money for special deposit. To tax in order to produce a surplus to lend to the banks at 2 per cent. in order that the banks may lend several times the same amount at 6 per cent. is finance of which the less heard the better. Tax money is not investment money, and no other sort of money ought to earn interest. As a general principle the banks ought not to pay interest on deposits subject to check at sight. If the Treasury has any surplus above a working balance it is bank money, and ought to go back to the banks in the manner of greatest public service, interest being of no comparative importance.

THE CZAR OF THE PRECINCT.

STEPHEN MCDERMOTT is an old-fashioned New York policeman, who has served in all capacities, from patrolman to Captain, for 38 years, under many forms of administration and many Commissioners. He has memories even of GEORGE MATSELL, Chief as long ago as 1850, and a Commissioner in the year MCDERMOTT joined the force. DISBECKER, VOORHIS, JOEL ERHARDT, STEPHEN FRENCH, FITZ-JOHN PORTER, CHARLES F. MACLEAN, JOHN C. SHEEHAN, THEODORE ROOSEVELT, JACOB HESS, MCADOO, and BINGHAM are only a few of the Commissioners whom he may remember as trying, more or less ineffectually, to control the police. WALLING, "BILL" MURRAY, BYRNES, and DEVERY have been Chiefs in his day. And his experience has led him to believe that the Police Captain is the Czar of his precinct, whose actions nobody has a right to question.

His delusion is understandable, in view of the confusion which has reigned in the government of the police for many years. A Police Captain of the McDermott type, not overburdened with judgment to begin with, undergoes a poor sort of education to fit him for actual service to the public. He is permitted to assume, except in periods when the public is alert to police mismanagement, a measure of responsibility which he ought never to be allowed to bear, which, indeed, in most cases, he is quite incompetent to bear. MCDERMOTT is a policeman of the kind described by Mr. BUCKNER, in his report yesterday, as a "grizzled veteran, who "has seen Police Commissioners go in "bewildering numbers."

He has interpreted orders according to his own poor judgment. Whether or not he has often interpreted them to his own profit is another matter, and, in the circumstances, of less importance. The implication of "grafting" in MCDERMOTT's case is not as important as his revelation of himself on the stand as a dull, domineering, shortsighted officer, who has torn up complaints when it did not suit him to act upon them, and bears himself in office in the manner of one who considers himself above the law, and all his critics and judges persons who cannot possibly know as much about his work and his precinct as he knows.

How many more of our police Captains are men of this sort? No measures of permanent reform can be relied on while such men are endowed with power, permitted to ignore law-breaking at their will, and to bear themselves arrogantly toward citizens. If Mr. BUCKNER's examination serves no better purpose than to show up this Czar of his precinct as a police type, it will have been worth while.

PAPER PULP FROM CANADA.

Paper pulp is rising, and United States consumers are seeking supplies for 1914 and even 1915. Accordingly Canadian exporters, under disability to take advantage of the market by the restrictions of their Government against export, are seeking relief. Canada restricted the export of pulp in order to encourage the manufacture of paper, and it worked that way until the enactment of reciprocity gave entrance to the United States for certain classes of the Canadian product. That caused a prejudice against the wood subject to the export duty in favor of the produce from the freehold lands which were entitled to the privilege of entry into the United States market, with the result that the enactment intended in favor of the Canadian industry operated disadvantageously.

Upon this condition of affairs The Quebec Chronicle remarks: "It re-"mains to be seen if the astute Uncle "Sam is likely to be flimflammed by "any such transparent device." The meaning is that the Canadian "order in council" opens our market only to four producers and does not remove the restrictions on the export from Crown lands in general. Our law giving privilege of entry to normal Canadian products has enabled certain American interests to establish themselves in Canada and to export thence to this market in competition with the Canadian interests, which were embarrassed by the Canadian legislation. The privilege extended to them, therefore, would put them in competition with Americans, the reciprocity law having lighted a fire under them as was intended. They perceive that it is now time for them to "cut wood" in earnest, and not extort scarcity prices from our consumers. On our part it is for us to consider whether we wish to avail ourselves of the enlarged supplies thus offered, or to press the advantage and ask for the removal of the export duty altogether as the price of admission to our market. It is irritating to reflect upon the conditions which prevent both countries from enjoying the promised stimulus to trade in general corresponding to the realized benefit in the pulp trade.

THE TOMBS.

The attempt of five members of the December Grand Jury unofficially to nullify the report upon the Tombs Prison and its wretched condition, made by the October Grand Jury, calls attention to the fact that nothing has been done by the Mayor or the Governor to better its condition.

Under Deputy Commissioner of Correction WRIGHT and Warden FALLON the official presentment declared gross favoritism prevailed in the prison, together with a discipline so lax that prisoners committed violent assaults upon each other, and the rights of those presumably innocent were unguarded. The prison is congested, the surroundings of its inmates are indecent, insanitary, and dangerous. Why have not the cases of the Commissioner of Correction and of the Warden been disposed of properly? Why have not steps been taken to make the Tombs a place fit for the confinement of human beings?

PUNISHED, BUT INNOCENT.

The cases of JOHN BOEHMAN, committed to Sing Sing for life because of a murder for which he was later found innocent, and of ANDREW TOTH, who spent twenty years in a Pennsylvania prison before the authorities found that they had the wrong man, have revived the agitation to recompense such men for the injustice and the anguish suffered by their wrongful convictions. The bill printed in Senate Document 974, following an able presentation by EDWIN M. BORCHARD, Law Librarian of Congress, seeks to remedy only the most flagrant cases of injustice.

It does not undertake to grant relief to all persons who are legally innocent or whose conviction is reversed on appeal. Within the narrow limits prescribed the person entitled to indemnity in Federal cases must show either one of two things, namely, that the crime was not committed at all, or that it was not committed by him, and he has the burden of proof. Any participation in the crime bars the right to relief. Of course, if Congress passes this bill, its example should be followed by all the States.

THAT BRIDLE PATH PLAN.

The announcement that Park Commissioner STOVER intends to extend the bridle path in Central Park northward from McGown's Pass Tavern to 110th Street and Seventh Avenue, is coupled with the assurance that the plan has been "under advisement" for twenty-five years. It has, indeed, and much longer, and the best advice ever given in regard to the matter is not to extend the bridle path. The length of the bridle path in Central Park is now 5¼ miles. Doubtless many habitual equestrians would like to have it extended.

Many pedestrians would like to be privileged to walk over all the lawns at all times. Many peddlers and showmen would like "concessions" in the Park. Ball and tennis players would like more of the Park space set apart for them. Polo players and golfers would like some consideration in our great city pleasure ground. But these things are not to be, and it is not easy to see why the horseback riders, who already are so well taken care of, should have destructive changes made in Central Park, for their exclusive benefit, at a cost of $1,000,000. They can go anywhere they like, all over the city, on horseback, and 5¼ miles of soft pathway in our best park is enough for them.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

His Story Is Only Half Told. Although The World has deemed it right, for several reasons which it gives, to exert all the influence it possesses for the purpose of getting the Brandt case before the Board of Parole and so securing the prisoner's release, one cannot but notice an important and therefore strange omission of fact from its appeal. Of BRANDT himself The World says:

> We have no sympathy with BRANDT personally. He seems to be a blackguard and a scoundrel, for whose conduct no excuse can be made, except possibly that of mental unsoundness.

Yet in neither its editorial nor its news columns has The World found it expedient to devote a single line to telling just why BRANDT "seems" to deserve the description he receives. That suppression was wise, or at least it was necessary, if even a colorable excuse for setting the fellow free was to be made out.

It was after, not before, BRANDT was convicted and sentenced that he gave the culminating demonstration of the fact that he is, not seems to be, a blackguard and scoundrel of the basest as well as of the most dangerous sort. To escape from punishment which was not the less legal or just because it was [illegible] he concocted a hideous slan[illegible] colossal lie, of the sort that ca[illegible] this instance did, bring cruel [illegible] and lasting humiliation on pe[illegible] nocence.

That is the man in whose behalf the present efforts are making—whose continued incarceration is said to bring our administration under suspicion and to disgrace the State!

Fortunately one can hope, and with some confidence believe, that Gov. SULZER will not be moved to take the action demanded. His first and natural impulse was to reopen the case and to make all the documents public, but as soon as his attention was called to the quality of the charges which form all there really is to the case he promptly ordered them to be sealed again, a single glance having revealed to him the enormity of the crime which BRANDT, in coldest blood, had added to his first and sufficiently atrocious assault.

BRANDT is not reformed and he is not repentant. He has, therefore, no claim for the substitution of mercy for justice.

What Would Happen to the Fisheries? When C. L. RIKER, a Brooklyn engineer, first brought to attention his plan for changing radically and permanently the course of the Gulf Stream, an oceanic river in comparison with which a dozen Mississippis united would make a mere brook, and proposed to do it by building a few miles of submerged jetty out from Newfoundland, his plan seemed to be about the wildest ever devised by human imagination. Those of us, however, who read through Mr. RIKER's little book on the subject recognized surprisingly numerous indications of practicality in the huge scheme, and could see, plainly enough, that the author was not a crank or crazy man, but a real scientist, experienced in handling and solving large engineering problems.

Evidently this is the impression which he has made on the members of the New York Board of Trade and Transportation, for they have lent the weight of their name in support of a bill, prepared for introduction in Congress by Representative CALDER and providing money to be spent by a Government commission in investigating the worth of Mr. RIKER's big idea.

As has already been explained by THE TIMES, Mr. RIKER expects, if he gets his jetty built, greatly to improve the climate of the world's whole upper end, and to do this by utilizing instead of wasting the almost incalculable stores of heat which the Gulf Stream carries toward the arctic from the tropics. Apparently it can at least be said that the thing is possible and that the construction of the jetty in the way Mr. RIKER suggests seems almost easy.

But what, after the great change has been made, will become of the Grand Banks fishery? Perhaps no like area on earth produces a larger or better supply of human food than do, and have done for centuries with no signs of exhaustion, those few square miles of shallow water. Presumably the conditions there now are exactly what the fish need and must have, and probably enough any alteration of those conditions would spoil the fishing forever. Several Labradors would have to blossom with more than roses to make up for that. Even though this probability of loss were a certainty it would not necessarily involve the condemnation of the Riker plan, but it does deserve consideration from him and others. The Grand Banks as they are now are worth a hundred gold mines, and the chance of destroying their value must be taken into account in estimating the cost of the jetty plan.

Abolition Highly Judicious. More than the attention it has yet attracted is deserved by the fact that at its meeting on Wednesday the Board of Education by unanimous vote decreed the abolition of all fraternities and secret societies in the New York high schools.

There has never been here the impassioned discussion of these organizations that has caused so much of bitterness and excitement in many smaller cities where the school population is different from ours. Our high school societies have been neither as numerous nor as attractive as they are elsewhere, and as exclusion from them has involved no very great joys or easily measurable advantages of a social sort, it has been endured with comparative composure. Yet the growing evil of the high school fraternity, its violation of the fundamental principle of public education, its tendency to establish false standards of superiority and inferiority, and to create in adolescence the snobbishness that is nowhere else so offensive and so demoralizing—all these things have been noted here by close observers.

The board has done well, therefore, to take decisive action betimes—before, that is, the evil has become a sort of "vested interest," with a kind of right to persist simply because it has been long in unforbidden being.

College fraternities have been hotly criticised, but they have had able defenders, too, and whether or not their detrimental influences are more than counterbalanced by their asserted benefits can be treated for the present as an unsettled question. The school fraternity, however, when secret and exclusive, has been declared almost with unanimity by those best competent to judge to be an unmitigated nuisance, with practically no redeeming features. There is, indeed, nothing to the high school societies except their secrecy and their exclusiveness. They create no permanently binding ties and carry no promise of future help and co-operation in the battle with the world. Harmful as well as worthless, they should everywhere be abolished.

A BERKELEYAN PHILOSOPHER

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Recently there appeared in THE TIMES an account of Mr. Edison's latest achievement, to wit, a machine which will project not only a so-called moving picture, as we now have it, commercially used, but one in which the figures speak and make sounds. This Wizard has now, therefore, produced that which satisfies the senses of sight and hearing—and if it is not perfected as yet, to bring it to perfection is but a matter of time.

This causes a curious question to arise. Suppose Mr. Edison or some one else were to construct a machine which would not only satisfy the two named senses, but would satisfy also the senses of touch, taste, and smell. Wouldn't he have made a real man—as mortals go? If not, why not?

To satisfy the sense of smell should be no more difficult than to satisfy the two senses already named and satisfied! And if these three be satisfied, why not the other two?

And if this is done, and there seems to the writer that there is no reason why not, how could any one tell it wasn't a real mortal? Have any of us any evidence that there is such a thing as a mortal other than the testimony of the physical senses? Not so far as I am aware.

This being so, does it not bear out in a remarkable way the statements of the philosophers that material things are but the objectification of the human mind; or, to put it differently, that material things are but projected thought and have no reality save in the chambers of imagery.

It would seem to the writer that the human mind is nothing but a machine that is projecting similar thought pictures—moving pictures that satisfy the five physical senses in all ways, and are perceived only by those senses, even as a machine may be perfected that will project a picture even as is now done, but that will satisfy all five physical senses instead of two.

It is curious, isn't it? I wonder if the present mortal is any more real than would be the one made by the coming inventor? If the physical senses are so easily satisfied, maybe they are too easily satisfied, and maybe this mortal isn't the real man at all.

Do you suppose the philosophers are right and we are letting the physical senses fool us?

"TOOTH-STRAIGHTENERS."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A recent letter to THE TIMES, headed "Brutal Orthodontists" and signed "A Practitioner," calls for a reply in the hope of minimizing the ill-effects of the misstatements it contains.

If the writer is well informed he knows that no orthodontist, recognized as of good standing by his fellow specialists, will pay a secret commission for cases referred to him and that exposure of such practice would cause his expulsion from the Society of American Orthodontists and loss of caste among his fellow-practitioners.

For his information, and that of others interested, I desire to say that orthodontists do prevent mouth breathing and remove the cause for its continuance, with the co-operation, when necessary, of the rhinologists, and that they also remedy its ill-effects.

The orthodontist does not base his work on cosmetic reasons, nor do well-informed general practitioners refer cases to them for those reasons, but because arrest of development and abnormal development of the teeth and jaws involve permanent impairment of efficiency of the masticating organ, and consequent malnutrition, malformation of nasal passages and permanent impairment of the respiratory function, and malformation of that portion of the skull containing most of the nerves of special sense, with resulting reflex nerve stress of most serious import.

Skilled orthodontic work causes no such results as "A Practitioner" cites, but, on the contrary, close observation of children undergoing such treatment shows them steadily and happily progressing toward better health, as the orthodontist carefully lifts the hampering burdens of their physical disabilities.

In conclusion, permit me to say that I am not an orthodontist, but a practitioner of general dentistry of more than twenty-five years' standing, and that I know the orthodontists of this section as a class of men unsurpassed in earnestness, humanitarianism, and devotion to the highest interests of their patients by any class of men among those practicing the healing arts.

G.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

That some so-called orthodontists are brutal, commercial quacks, whose ignorant methods may produce direful results, no one will deny—possibly "Practitioner" has one of these in mind. But it is also true that there are orthodontists, and it is not difficult to find them, who give no rebates, who believe that beauty is an incidental result and not the chief end of their labors, and who know that the digestive and nervous character of their patients is improved and not disturbed by their efforts.

It requires no argument to convince a fairly educated person that malformed jaws put upon a few teeth the burden of mastication which should be distributed among the entire set. The idle teeth have no function but decay. Such a condition may fatten the purses of "Practitioner" & Co., but is disastrous to the general health and happiness of the patient. A practitioner who fails to give his patients relief from this abnormal condition is as useless as a kakodontist, who would take regularly shaped jaws and make them crooked. What I have invested in orthodontry for my children is already showing such happy results that I am sure I shall have spared them such suffering as, without this relief, I have endured, and for which my father paid long bills for many years.

MITCHELL AND GOMPERS

To the Editor of The New York Times:

THE TIMES's editorial under the caption of "Gompers's Plea" is strong, convincing, and true. The record of criminal unionism in this country during the past few years justifies the impatience of the American people with Mr. Gompers and his utterances. His leadership has been malodorous. His specious and poorly veiled pleas for trades unions find no response in the hearts and minds either of honest union or non-union workingmen. It is futile for Mr. Gompers to simulate a saintly and benign attitude toward the American workingman. To him and his co-leader, John Mitchell, is clearly traceable the discredit into which the forces of trades unionism have sunk in this country. Upon their shoulders rests a responsibility so grave that even their well-known shifting tactics will not exempt them from the universal contempt into which they are surely falling or have fallen.

The undisputed utterances of Mr. Gompers in attacking our institutions and authorities are the chief gravamen against him. Openly defiant of constitutional powers vested in our judiciary; ceaseless in his virulent assault upon orderly society; capacious in tearful and pseudo solicitude; arrogant in the crudity of his power, Mr. Gompers is the embodiment of the most dangerous forces in our body politic. He justifies the use of brute force; explains away violence committed under his implied sanction, and cunningly beclouds the issue of security of property and human life by adroit appeals to maudlin benevolence.

"CONSOCIATION OF COLONELS."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I observe that Col. Lampton is forming a Consociation of Colonels. I desire to inquire as to the rules of eligibility. I hold a duly engraved certificate to the effect that I was appointed to serve with the rank of Colonel in the parade in the City of Washington at the inauguration of McKinley and Roosevelt on March 4, 1901,

all civic and military organizations participating in these ceremonies give due respect to such orders as may be issued.

It is true that this commission was for one day only; it is also true that during the existence of my authority I did not know I had it, for the commission did not arrive until some ten days after it had expired. Doubtless this was due to the fact that the participants feared that if I knew I had the authority I probably would have turned the whole blooming parade around and marched it away from the Capitol instead of toward it; a strategic move which subsequent events show would have been warranted. However, under Col. Lampton's theory that "once a Colonel always a Colonel," am I not entitled forevermore to be addressed as "Colonel" and to become a member of the new organization? I await the decision of the founder.

Central Park West.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your stand on the question of widening Central Park West is well taken. I have lived on that thoroughfare for many years, and can testify to the danger of crossing it, for northbound and southbound vehicles both go on the same side of the car tracks. The danger is increased by the autos and taxis that enter the avenue from the side street, and which cannot be seen until they are close upon you. They of course also go north or south on the same side of the car tracks, and add to the bewilderment.

A few years ago a young physician, a cousin of mine, was riding on his bicycle southward. A cart going northward ran into him and inflicted such terrible injuries that his death was the result. If that cart had been on the easterly side of the car tracks there would have been a valuable life saved. That man's death was due to stupidity, or worse, of the civic authority responsible for the car tracks being so close to the easterly pavement that there is no room for any vehicle.

During the last few years the traffic has increased enormously. Far better sacrifice the feeble trees on the easterly side of the street, as you suggest; turn all or part of that wide sidewalk into a roadway, and make another roadway or path for pedestrians, even if the little stone wall is to be taken down. To remove the wall may not be necessary, and certainly would not be necessary if openings were made in it at every block. As it is, that stone wall is rather a temptation for a thief to snatch a purse or watch and jump over it into the shrubbery, where he would quickly find safety, especially if his victim were a lady. I think there was a case of this on Fifty-ninth Street not so very long ago.

A MINISTER.

[The removal of the unsightly Park wall is a question of the future. Central Park West can be widened by removing 12 or 15 feet of the easterly sidewalk, leaving ample space for pedestrians on that side of the street. EDITOR.]

Under the terms of a bill introduced in the United States Senate and printed in Senate Document 974 any person convicted of any crime or offense against the United States who shall be able to establish his innocence of the crime with which he was charged—the burden of proof being upon him—and who has not been found guilty of any other offense against the United States, or who has received a pardon from the President on the ground of innocence, shall have the right to apply by petition for indemnification for the pecuniary injury sustained by him because of his erroneous conviction and imprisonment. This bill is limited, naturally, to convictions in the Federal courts, and for offenses against the United States.

If it shall be passed by Congress, however, it will set a pattern all the States might very well follow if justice is to be administered. Under the terms of the Senate bill it is provided that the claimant must establish his innocence affirmatively, must show that the crime with which he was charged was not committed at all or if committed was not committed by the accused. Having establishd his innocence, the question of indemnification and the amount to which the accused is entitled would be determined by the Court of Claims. Upon proof satisfactory to this court of the inability of the claimant to advance the costs of court and of process, the Secretary of the Treasury would be required to pay such costs on the order of the court. Another provision of the proposed law is that "in no case shall the relief granted exceed $5,000." This, it seems, is a wholly arbitrary sum and wholly unwarranted if it be the purpose of the law to see that fair recompense is made for the damage done to the claimant whose innocence has been established. It is explained that the reason for so limiting the relief granted is "to limit any exorbitant claims which may be brought." A further provision is made that the claims made under the law and properly certified by the Court of Claims "shall be paid out of any general appropriation made by law for the payment and satisfaction of private claims on presentation to the Secretary of the Treasury" in due and proper form.

The proposed legislation is in the right direction; but it does not appear why the relief should be limited to $5,000 without regard to the merits of the case before the court, seeing that the Government is amply protected by the requirement that the Court of Claims shall pass upon the claims presented. Take the case of Andrew Toth, for instance, the Hungarian steel worker who was unjustly convicted and was imprisoned in a Pennsylvania penitentiary for twenty years. His earning capacity was doubtless not less than $2 the day, and a little calculation will show that counting out the Sundays he was working for the State 6,260 days, and that he would have earned during his long period of confinement not less than $12,520. It would appear that he should be paid by the State for its mistake in his conviction not a dollar less than he would have been able to earn had he not been deprived of his liberty for a crime he did not commit. Even such an award would not be a fair compensation for what he suffered from the State. It would not take into account the "mental anguish" or personal disgrace inflicted upon him by the State. Instead of limiting the "relief" to the sum of $5,000 the law should provide that the relief should be in exact proportion to the earning capacity of the petitioner during the time of his incarceration, and even that would be an inadequate return for the injustice done by the State.

There is nothing new in the theory that the State should be held liable for the injury it does to its citizens by erroneously depriving them of their liberty. Throughout the Middle Ages it was admitted that the private complainant was liable to the defendant in damages for a wrongful accusation or prosecution. The movement for the indemnification by the State of erroneously convicted persons was begun in France about the close of the eighteenth century. The first legislative expression of the obligation of the State to indemnify unjustly arrested and detained persons was contained in a decree of the Prussian Parliament in 1766, which provided that not only should the person taken into custody because of suspected crime be released, his innocence having been established, but that he should have all the costs of his case restored to him and a just indemnity in money payable from the funds of the trial court. This provision probably did not long obtain, but of its justice there can be no question. Jeremy Bentham was the first champion of the doctrine of State indemnification in England for errors of criminal justice. A bill was introduced in Parliament by Samuel Romilly in 1808, but was afterward withdrawn, and since then there has been no further effort to regulate the question, although Parliament has admitted, in a sense, the liability of the State by granting lump sum indemnities to various innocent individuals released after having suffered imprisonment upon erroneous conviction. These grants have been made as a matter of grace rather than as a matter of right. There is now a demand for definite legislation upon the subject in England. "The principle was first accepted in modern legislation in the cantons of Switzerland, where so many modern political reforms have received their first legislative expression." Within the last twenty-five years the countries of Europe have legislated upon the subject. In Sweden, Norway and Denmark, in Austria and Hungary, and in Germany various laws have been passed providing some measure of relief for the victims of the errors of criminal justice. It is held by Mr. Borchard, the Law Librarian of Coongress, in his most excellent study of the question that "society rather than the individual should bear the risk of accident in the administration of criminal justice."

The European statutes, which are various in their terms, but all of which admit the principle of State indemnification for State mistakes, strictly define the class that has the right to receive indemnity, exclude the undeserving, generally confine the injury indemnified to the pecuniary loss only, and so restrict the indemnity that the burden on the State Treasury will not be oppressive. In Austria, France, Portugal, and Geneva an indemnity is granted for the injury suffered through unjust conviction and imprisonment where on retrial there is acquittal. Indemnification for both acquittal on appeal after conviction and for detention pending trial followed by acquittal or discharge is provided for in Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Germany, Hungary, Berne, Fribourg, Neufchâtel, Basle, and Tessin. The award of an indemnity is compulsory in case of acquittal after a conviction—that is, a right of action is given to the individual—in Germany, Norway, Denmark, Hungary, Portugal, Mexico, Neufchâtel, and Basle. In all these countries a great advance has been made in doing justice to those who have been the victims of the mistakes made by the State in the adminstration of criminal justice. Adequate legislation is required by the United States and by all the States of this country. A safe rule to follow is this, that while we do justice we must also show mercy.

ACADEMY OF DESIGN.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The National Academy of Design has three-quarters of a million in real property and securities, which includes a site of ample dimensions just south of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, in a portion of Manhattan of imposing elevation, and bound to be, at no far distant day, a stately centre of the great city. That is not bad to start with. Let us erect on our property a series of galleries of one story in height, around a square, bringing into the system our present school building on 109th Street. We could insure ideal galleries in this way, with ample proportions and unobstructed light. The central court could be covered with an arched or domed roof of steel and glass and laid out as a garden to be used for the exhibition of sculpture.

I rejoice to say we now have a number of men in the National Academy of Design who represent one of the highest walks in art—architecture—one of the most distinguished is on our Council. They are men of affairs as well as artists, and handle large projects. Certainly their advice, together with that of our sculptors, should be invaluable, and their artistic skill can devise a plan which would make such temporary structure not only useful but beautiful. Such a structure might be erected at a nominal cost—well within our own means—and would last for a quarter of a century, if need be; then it would not be necessary to keep jingling continually our small change in our hat to attract attention of passing millionaires.

The argument, which has been so often urged, that "our site is too far up town, is out of the way," &c., will no longer hold water. We are ten miles from the northern limit of our city, and every day and every year that space is being filled by thousands of new residents, and thousands more from beyond those limits come through one of the chief portals to our city proper—the station at 125th Street. We are one block from the Subway station, one block from the Sixth and Ninth Avenue Elevated and Broadway surface roads, and the Amsterdam Avenue cars pass our western front.

It has been demonstrated that if the people are given a good exhibition they will go anywhere to see it. When the Spanish, the German, and the Dutch picture exhibitions are mentioned as evidence of this, it is met with a shrug and "Ah, those were exhibitions!"

Now, why shouldn't the Academy have exhibitions, too? With the combined strength of all our art societies, as represented in the now chartered National Academy Association, we can do it. We have been asleep—dreaming complacent dreams about good fairies doing our work for us. If the artists, through the length and breadth of the land, and our compatriots abroad were assured that we had the means of giving their works a good showing here, in a good light and ample gallery room, which would give every worthy example a show, and demonstrate it for a year or two, we would have all the artists from Portland, Me., to Portland, Ore., and from the Sault Ste. Marie to the Rio Grande, tumbling over one another to exhibit here.

With the harmonious working together of all our art societies our exhibitions would be made more comprehensive, covering the principal output of the year in the different fields of art work. We call ourselves the National Academy of Design; in our displays we have represented, up to this time, little more than the art of Manhattan, and that only in the two branches of painting and sculpture. Our aim should be to influence and develop the art that enters into our everyday life and so create an atmosphere of art that would become the breath of our life—of the poor as well as the rich and cultured.

THE NEGRO SOLDIER.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Will you please allow me through the columns of THE TIMES to place myself on record, as former Major of the Ninth United States Colored Regiment and one who well knows and appreciates the negro soldier, as protesting bitterly against the proposed movement to eliminate the negro soldier from the army?

The records of the War Department will prove my contention that no soldiers ever served the Government with greater fidelity or more loyalty than the colored soldiers of the United States Army from the time of the assault on Fort Fisher in the civil war up to the present moment.

The gallantry of the Ninth and Tenth Cavalry and the Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth Infantry and the various volunteer colored regiments that were sent to the front in the Spanish-American war could never be questioned. Even their meanest enemies and most bitter racial haters could not impugn their fidelity and discipline.

I will venture to stake all that I possess that if properly investigated it will be proved that the reported dissatisfaction against the negro soldier emanating in the far away Philippines and in Hawaii only exists in the vivid imaginations of those whose racial prejudice is the foundation of this effort.

Pension for Mrs. MacArthur.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A bill will be at once introduced in Congress to provide a pension of $2,500 a year for the widow of Lieut. Gen. Arthur MacArthur. I was a member of the Twenty-fourth Wisconsin Infantry, in which MacArthur enlisted when a boy under eighteen. That was in 1862. He continued in the service of his country not only during the entire four years of the civil war but up to the time of his retirement for age a year or two ago.

This close devotion to the service of his country put it entirely beyond his power to make any money to provide for his family after his death, and his widow now needs the support of the Government to which he devoted his life. A Nation that has been so generous with men who served four years, and others who, in the Spanish war, served only a few months, will certainly be just enough to promptly provide the pension now proposed for Mrs. MacArthur. I understand Senator Stephenson of Wisconsin will introduce a bill making a proper provision, and I hope that readers of THE TIMES will communicate with friends in the Senate and in the House of Representatives expressing their approval.

THE HARDEST LESSON.

You may figure costs to fractions;
  Overlook to loss no clue;
You may manage your collections
  So no bills are overdue;
You may so conduct your credits
  That your house can't lose a cent;
You may know by your accounting
  Just where every penny went;

You may frame your advertising
  In a most seductive guise;
You may know the legal phases
  Of all questions that arise;
You may learn to handle labor
  Till its furthest point you've solved;
You may win o'er competition
  By the tactics you've evolved;

Still there comes another matter
  When the troubled day is done,
And on this depends the outcome
  Of the battles you have won;
You will find your greatest triumphs
  On success a sad burlesque,
If you can't lock business troubles

COSTUME BALL A SOCIAL SPECTACLE

The costume ball given last night at Sherry's, the proceeds of which are to be given to the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Lying-In Hospital, was a social spectacle of splendor and brilliancy. The ball, which is now given annually, has become the pet philanthropic affair for society, and each year it grows in point of distinction and elaborate costumes.

Given under the patronage of more than 200 women of recognized social standing, it serves to bring together the fashionable sets of New York as no other function does, and last night found the society dowager and matron, young married people, buds of yester-year, the season's débutantes, and titled visitors of distinction in a glittering riot of color.

From the opening, at 10 o'clock, a picturesque procession of social notables, like a colored phantasmagoria, but with the rapidity of moving pictures, passed through the portals of Sherry's until midnight. Flower girls of the Empire period, Spanish dancers, pierrots, court ladies, gypsies, Italian peasants, American Indians, cowboys, Arabians, and Persians were among the predominating costumes worn, and there were many who wore only the conventional evening gowns, and the men who did not care to don fancy costume wore hunting coats.

Cabaret Performances.

The cabaret performance this year was an added feature, and this as well as the minstrels for the supper hour were planned by Mrs. Austen Gray and Mrs. Arthur Iselin, who formed the Executive Committee. Mrs. Iselin was unable to be present last night, having left town for a fortnight's rest in the mountains.

MRS. CLEVELAND IN WASHINGTON AGAIN

DAUGHTER ESTHER WITH HER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—A reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hays Hammond this afternoon gave Washington society its first glimpse of Mrs. Grover Cleveland, widow of the former Democratic President, since that March day nearly sixteen years ago when, accompanied by her three little daughters, she left for Princeton, escorted by the late Henry G. Thurber, then private secretary to the outgoing President. Mrs. Cleveland has made one visit to Washington since then, but was here for twenty-four hours only a few years ago to attend the funeral of Col. A. A. Wilson. On her present visit Mrs. Cleveland was accompanied by her débutante daughter, Miss Esther Cleveland, who was born in the White House, and Prof. T. J. Preston of Wells College, to whom she is to be married.

More than 1,000 visitors went to the Hammond home this afternoon. Mrs. Hammond, Mrs. Cleveland, and Miss Cleveland stood at the head to receive them. The reception lasted from 4 to 7 o'clock. Mr. Hammond and Prof. Preston were also present during the afternoon, and Prof. Preston remained to dine with the family party there. Mrs. Cleveland, who came as a bride to the White House nearly twenty-seven years ago, looks little older than when she left it at the close of her husband's second term in 1897. In greeting this afternoon's visitors she surprised scores of men and women by her prompt recognition of name and face.

CARUSO GETS HIS RELEASE.

Will Not Sing at Monte Carlo for at Least Another Season.

At the beginning of the present season, although the fact was not announced, Mr. Gatti-Casazza thought that he was going to lose Enrico Caruso on March 1, with the opera season still six weeks to run. Mr. Caruso had engaged himself to sing at Monte Carlo some time ago, and the weeks of his contract as yet unfulfilled he had agreed to fill this year. For two seasons this unexpired contract had been postponed and he thought there was no way out of it this time.

Mr. Gatti-Casazza advised him to let the matter drop until he heard something definite. Definite news came a few weeks ago when Raoul Gunsbourg, the director of the fortunes of the Monte Carlo Opera, cabled that he would rather Mr. Caruso came next season for a longer contract. The tenor cabled back a refusal and asked what rôles he would be wanted for this season. The operas "Tosca," "Rigoletto" and "Pagliacci" were named.

Then the tenor and Mr. Gatti-Casazza had a conference. More cablegrams were exchanged and finally the result reached was that Mr. Caruso be released from his contract at Monte Carlo for at least another season.

To Men and Women Who Drive Motor Cars:

¶ Millions of words, libraries of books and magazine articles have been written about automobiles.

¶ Have you found in them a brief treatment of the things you want to read about your favorite recreation—brief enough for the busy man and the busy woman, yet comprehensive enough to post you on what is newest and best in motor development?

¶ An effort to furnish just this sort of information—authoritative, but concise—will be made in the Annual Automobile Section of The New York Times next Sunday. It will not be a collection of reading notices, or a catalogue of statistics, or a hasty compilation of dry facts. The articles and pictures have been prepared with care for the intelligent automobilist, who cannot fail to be interested in one of the most remarkable developments of the last quarter-century. The story of the motor car—from "horseless carriage" to palatial limousine—is like a fairy tale in the magic speed of its movement. The story of every year in the last two decades has been one of triumph in automobile improvements. The year just past was no exception. You can read the story in all its phases in the special motor car section of

NEXT SUNDAY'S TIMES

CHANCE PROMISES A CHAMPIONSHIP TEAM

TEAM TO TRAIN IN BERMUDA

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—Before leaving for New York to-day Frank Farrell, owner of the New York American Baseball Club, had another talk with his new manager, Frank L Chance, at which details for the team's training trip to Bermuda were discussed along with other matters pertaining to the club's welfare.

Chance asked Farrell many questions about the regular players and those on the reserve list, but no definite plans to line up the team will be made until the Spring training trip is begun.

"I will win the pennant for you before I get through in New York," Chance said to Farrell. "That may sound like a bold statement to make at this time, but I ask you to remember my promise."

Chance has been given full authority in the management of the team, so that if he should fail he will have nobody to blame except himself.

Farrell declared to-day that he would do everything possible to aid Chance.

Chance expects to manage the team from the bench, although he may get into the game if he considers it necessary.

Chance spent the day receiving congratulations from friends. The messages came from all parts of the country. He will leave for his orange orchard in California next Saturday and will report for duty in New York on Feb. 11.

The first official act of Frank Chance as manager of the Yankees was to wire his approval of Bermuda as a training camp to Arthur Irwin, the business manager. As soon as Irwin heard from Chance yesterday he cabled to Bermuda and engaged the Brunswick Hotel at Hamilton. The club has leased the entire hotel for the use of the ball players during their stay on the island. The Yankees will probably remain the whole month of March at the training camp.

The club has arranged to engage cooks for the baseball party, and the food and water will be sent from New York, so that the players will experience no change in their regular eating routine. A training table will be established, and Trainer Charley Barrett believes that the club will return in better shape than it has been in in previous seasons. Barrett was trainer of all the athletic teams at Williams College and is familiar with the conditioning of the men.

It is expected that the party will contain about fifty men, including players, trainers, club officials, and newspaper men. The hotel is only four minutes' walk from the Hamilton Cricket Field, where the teams will play. The field is as smooth as a baseball diamond, and will be in the best condition by the time the players are ready to use it.

Jack Warhop, the diminutive pitcher, was the first player to sign a Yankee contract this season. Warhop is spending the winter at Freeport, Ill., where he began his baseball career in 1906. He went to the Williamsport club of the Tri-State League. Warhop is very much pleased that Chance has been engaged as manager. He has taken on weight and now weighs 170 pour. Warhop predicts that he will have the best season of his career during the coming Summer.

Many letters, telegrams, and telephone messages were received at the office of the club yesterday extending congratulations to President Farrell in signing Chance as manager. Mr. Farrell will return to the city this morning, and he expects that Chance will be in New York to take charge of the club on Feb. 11, the date of the schedule meeting for the two big leagues.

There is much discussion about just what salary Chance will receive. Baseball men rather discredit the $25,000 figure that has been named. It seems absurd to every one. Chance got $7,500 for managing the Cubs. It will not be consistent with a good business policy for a club like the Yankees to pay such a large salary for a manager. The cost of running a club nowadays reaches very high figures, and its affairs have to be handled with the same careful, economical policy that must be followed in other commercial enterprises.

There is always a tendency in baseball to credit players with getting higher salaries than they really receive. This is especially true of the star players and managers.

Secretary John B. Foster of the Giants yesterday sent out contracts to the players on the club's roster. Some of the veteran players, of course, have long contracts. Herzog, Mathewson, Doyle, Marquard, and Merkle all have contracts for more than a year. No hold outs are looked for among the Giants this year.

LAJOIE FOR THE YANKEES?

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 9.—The story from New York that the Cleveland Baseball Club is preparing to trade the famous second baseman, Napoleon Lajoie, and Terry Turner, once star shortstop, for Harry Lord and Rolla Zeider of the White Sox has caused much comment here. While the club officers deny the story, it is said upon authority that some deal of this sort is in the air.

President Somers of the club has often said that Lajoie would end his ball-playing days in Cleveland, but recently the many rumors that the big Frenchman might go elsewhere have not been strongly denied.

Lajoie during the past two years has slowed up considerably. In fact, he slows up the entire infield, and speed is what Cleveland is after. The most insistent rumor here for weeks past has been that some sort of a deal might soon be pulled off that would send Lajoie to New York to help Chance strengthen the Yankees. Larry is a great drawing card and a hitter that would help any team, while Turner has several years of good baseball in him yet.

Shortstop Martin Takes a Bride.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Jan. 9.—John C. Martin, the shortstop for the New York American League Club, and Miss Myra E. Hinkle, a daughter of Luella Hinkle of this city, were married last evening at the parsonage of the First Baptist Church. The Rev. Dr. Phillips B. Strong officiated. Miss Julia McCann and J. J. V. Emery were the attendants. The couple will reside in this city. The groom's gift to the bride was a diamond brooch.

College Pitcher for Washington Club.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Jan. 9.—Robert Austin, a freshman at Wesleyan University, is to leave college and join the pitching staff of the Washington American League team when the squad goes South, according to an announcement made here to-day. His home is at Corning, N. Y.

Seek Boxing Law for Ohio.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 9.—A bill to legalize boxing in Ohio has been drawn up by Cleveland lawyers, representing boxing clubs here and at many other places in the State, it was announced here, and the bill will be introduced at once in the Legislature. Since the issuance three weeks ago of Mayor Baker's order prohibiting boxing matches here local promoters have visited nearly every city in the State to arouse interest in the bill. The bill, similar to the Frawley law in New York, authorizes the appointment by the Governor of an athletic commission which would have control of all clubs holding boxing matches and the boxers participating. Local promoters believe the bill will pass by a big vote.

PHILLIES OWN NO GROUNDS.

Therefore, Locke Says, They Will Not Sell but Will Play in Shibe Park.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., Jan. 9.—That Will H. Locke has no plans to sell the Philadelphia baseball grounds he announced to-day after reading a story from New York to the effect that he had some understanding with the Balfour and Chandler syndicate. Locke said, too, that the report that William Shettsline would be retained as secretary of the Phillies was at least premature.

"The best evidence that I will not sell the grounds," said Locke, "is that I never contemplated buying them, hence do not own them. We have a ninety-nine year lease, which is considerably better than owning the park. The dream about the Phillies playing on the Athletic Grounds is another midwinter dream."

Nothing has been done as to the selection of officers, Locke said. He made it plain that Shettsline had been given no assurance that he would remain in his present position. Barney Dreyfuss will be in Pittsburgh to-morrow and Locke will wind up his affairs here and move his household to Philadelphia next week.

WOMEN TO BACK BALL CLUB.

Keokuk Y. W. C. A. Girls, However, Would Bar Sunday Games.

KEOKUK, Iowa, Jan. 9.—Local Young Woman's Christian Association members to-day agreed to finance a local club in the Three I League, providing the baseball enthusiasts of the city would agree to dispense with Sunday games.

Miss Edna O'Harra, Secretary of the Y. W. C. A., said that leading business men of the city were recently consulted and the majority of them were in favor of eliminating Sunday baseball. The idea of the Y. W. C. A. members conducting a campaign for baseball funds was conceived when the men of the city lost interest in backing the local team for a berth in the Central Association during the present year.

"We can get the $3,000 necessary to begin the season without difficulty," said Miss O'Harra. "These men haven't enough spirit to do anything. If the Directors want us to, we can begin raising funds at any time. We won't stand for Sunday baseball, however."

CORNELL TO GO TO MICHIGAN.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Jan. 9.—One of the most difficult schedules a Cornell baseball team has ever been called on to fill was announced to-day by the Cornell Athletic Association management. Twenty-eight games will be played in all, seven of them on the early Southern trip. For the first time in years no professional teams will be played on the trip South, other college games being substituted. An innovation is a home-and-home series with Michigan, the Cornell team going to Ann Arbor for the first time. The schedule:

April 3—Virginia, at Charlottesville; April 5 and 7—Georgetown, at Washington; April 8—Catholic University, at Washington; April 9—Naval Academy, Annapolis; April 10—Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia; April 12—Niagara, at Ithaca; April 17—Tufts, at Ithaca; April 19—Holy Cross, at Worcester, Mass.; April 26—Columbia, at Ithaca; April 28—Dartmouth, at Ithaca; April 30—Lafayette, at Ithaca.

BROOKLYN HORSE SHOW.

Riding and Driving Club Members to Exhibit in Ten Classes.

The Riding and Driving Club of Brooklyn will hold a horse show for members next Wednesday evening, during which judgment will be passed upon ten classes, the horses to be owned, driven, or ridden by a member or one having the privileges of the club. Members making entries will be permitted to use the carriages or harness of another member or ride or drive for another member.

Horses will be judged on their manners, conformation, and quality, and their general usefulness and adaptability to the purpose shown. One of the rulings is that a novice horse is one that has never won a blue ribbon or first prize under any conditions. Four ribbons will be awarded in each of the classes, which are to be as follows:

(1) For saddle horses 15 hands and not exceeding 15.2 hands. First prize, silver cup, offered by Edwin Gates Babcock.

(2) For saddle horses over 15.2 hands. First prize, silver cup, offered by Miss Margaret Rouss.

(3) Combination horses, to be ridden and driven. First prize, "Fantasy Cup," to be won twice by same owner, offered by Mrs. Charles F. Hubbs.

(4) Saddle ponies, 15 hands and under, to be ridden by owners or members of owners' families, with rider not to exceed the age of 16 years. Prize, "The President's Cup," to be won twice by same rider, offered by William N. Dykman.

(5) Saddle horses, up to 200 pounds. First prize, silver cup, offered by Mrs. Charles M. Higgins.

(6) Saddle ponies, under 15 hands. First prize, silver cup, offered by Frederic T. Parsons.

(8) Pair of saddle horses, any height, property of one or two owners, one to be ridden by a gentleman and one by a lady. Each horse of the winning pair will be awarded a ribbon. Prize, two silver cups, offered by F. W. Lafrentz and Jacob Meurer.

NEW SWIMMING RECORD.

H. J. Hebner Does 150 Yards Back Stroke at Chicago in 1:50 4-5.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—H. J. Hebner of Chicago, world's champion back-stroke swimmer at 150 yards, set a new mark for the distance here to-night at the Central Amateur Athletic Union swimming championships. Hebner swam 150 yards in the Illinois Athletic Club's tank in 1:50 4-5. His former record was 1:52. The mile Central A. A. U. championship was won by Perry McGillivray of the I.-A. C. in 24:54.

NOTES OF THE ATHLETES.

The relay races for college teams at the games of the Fordham University Athletic Association, which will be held at the Twenty-second Regiment Armory on Saturday evening, Jan. 25, should prove very exciting contests and worth a journey to witness. One of these events is a two-mile relay, in which teams from Yale, Harvard, Cornell, University of Pennsylvania, and Princeton are expected to compete. Last year at the Columbia indoor meet Cornell, University of Pennsylvania, and Harvard fought it out, and it was only through the great running of John Paul Jones that victory was finally obtained by Cornell. The one-mile relay race will probably have Georgetown, Holy Cross, Columbia, and Fordham as contenders. The Fordhamites are going around with that quiet, confident smile on their countenances which means so much, for they have a great mile relay team this year.

The Public Schools Athletic League will hold the high schools indoor track and field championships on Saturday afternoon, Jan. 25, at the Twenty-third Regiment Armory, Brooklyn. Entry blanks have been sent to the eighteen public high schools in Greater New York, and a record entry is expected. The programme will consist of 100-yard dash, junior 220-yard dash, junior 100-yard dash, senior 220-yard dash, senior 440-yard run, 880-yard run, one-mile run, 440-yard relay, 100 pound class; 880-yard relay, 120 pound class; 880-yard freshman relay, putting 12-pound shot, and running high jump. Music will be furnished by the schoolboy band of Public School 24, Manhattan, before and during the games. Invitations have been extended to all prominent educators and city officials to witness these games.

Owing to the large number of requests for a Sunday afternoon walk the Walkers' Club of America will hold a "hike," starting from Fifty-ninth Street and Eighth Avenue at 3 P. M. sharp next Sunday, around Central Park and the reservoir. A moderate pace will be set, and all lovers of walking are cordially invited. On Washington's Birthday the race from City Hall to Coney Island, closed to members, will be held. Twenty-five prizes, including novice, will be given.

J. R. PRICE PLACED ON BOXING COMMISSION

Gov. Sulzer Does Not Commit Himself to Policy of State Regulating the Sport.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 9.—Gov. Sulzer to-day appointed James R. Price, a New York sporting writer, as the third member of the State Athletic Commission, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of James E. Sullivan. Sullivan resigned soon after the commission was appointed by Gov. Dix. The latter, although he signed the Frawley law creating the commission, asked the Legislature to repeal it. The Legislature took no action and the Governor declined to fill the vacancy.

Gov. Sulzer said the appointment should not be construed as committing him to the policy of State regulation of boxing contests.

At present the members of the commission serve without compensation, but have an allowance for expenses. To-day a bill was introduced to give each Commissioner a salary of $2,000 a year.

A copy of the new regulations of the State Athletic Commission is now in the hands of the State Printer at Albany and several hundred copies are expected at the commission's office in a few days. As soon as they are received they will be distributed to all club promoters and boxing managers in order that all may obtain a thorough understanding of the new rules. It is planned to have at least one copy of the rules posted in each of the various clubhouses.

One of the new regulations that is being quite generally discussed in boxing circles is that relating to bandages to be worn during a bout. The new code provides that only cotton or woolen cloth may be used to bandage a boxer's hands. It was announced yesterday at the commission's office that notice would soon be sent to all the referees instructing them to see that this ruling is not violated. For the last ten days, or since the new rules were sent out, some referees have been insisting on soft bandages, but others have not realized that the old style tape is barred.

In the ring contests of several years ago cloth was used to bandage the hands, but when tape came into use its advantages were quickly realized, and for the last fifteen years it has been used almost exclusively by boxers in preparing their hands for bouts. The new ruling bars its use in this State, but it is still allowed in all other States in this country, as well as in foreign countries where boxing flourishes. Referees have had the privilege of barring it, but they have seldom exercised this right.

Although the rule against the use of tape has been in force less than two weeks, several of the boxers are already up in arms against it. This is especially true of boxers who have been in the game for a number of years. Constant work has caused broken bones or misplaced knuckles in the hands of these veterans, and they naturally need all the protection that can be afforded them to prevent recurrence of old injuries. The combination of tape over a soft bandage has furnished this protection in the past by keeping the knuckles well bound and covered with a fairly strong substance. Now the cloth has neither the binding nor the protecting powers of the tape, and the battle-scarred hands are paying the penalty.

The new ruling was made partly for the purpose of preventing the practice of "too much tape." This has resulted in long-drawn-out arguments between rival boxers and their seconds, and in some cases bouts have been called off after the principals entered the ring because one boxer insisted on using too much tape, thereby making a hard bandage. This also added to the chance of a knockout when a hard blow was delivered. Some of the boxers say they expect no difficulty in boxing under the new regulation, but others insist that they will have to give up the game or box outside of the State. Two or three of the veteran class are now forced to give up boxing until their injured knuckles are again in shape.

SWISS RIFLEMEN WON'T COME

National Association Had Expected Them to Compete at Camp Perry.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—National Rifle Association officials to-day expressed surprise at the decision of the Swiss riflemen not to participate in the association's contests at Camp Perry because no expense provision had been made. They explained that the expenses of all foreign riflemen would be paid from the time they reached New York or any other American port until after the contests, $38,500 having been provided for this purpose.

The National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice at its annual meeting at the War Department to-day completed arrangements for the rifle competitions, beginning at Camp Perry on Aug. 25 between teams from all branches of the United States Army and Navy and the various State militias. These matches will precede the international contests.

Clinton Interclass Football.

A new system of training boys for scholastic football teams was announced yesterday by Coach Hooks of the De Witt Clinton eleven. Beginning shortly after the Easter vacations Coach Hooks will take teams from the various classes at Clinton and put them through a light drill on the gridiron of Van Cortlandt Park. He will be assisted in this work by members of the school's team, who will each be given charge of a squad of men. In this way Mr. Hooks hopes to arouse more spirit and develop better men to represent the school. There are several changes he may make in the game in order to train such a large squad of new material. The halves will be reduced from twenty-five minutes to ten.

Manhattan Revolver Club Leads.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 9.—Official scores for the eighth, ninth, and tenth matches and unofficial returns in the eleventh and twelfth rounds in the Indoor League series of the United States Revolver Association were announced to-night. The Manhattan Club of New York has a clear title to first place, having won all matches to date. The Spokane team, which has been setting the pace all the season, is unofficially tied at 1,119 with Denver in the twelfth round. Some very close decisions have been referred to the members of the Executive Committee for settlement.

Bowling Club Loses Case.

Justice Greenbaum in Special Term of the Supreme Court yesterday denied a motion to restrain the New York Bowling Association from expelling the Corinthian Bowling Club from membership in the association. The expulsion of the Corinthians, which is characterized by their attorney, Edward W. Drucker of 299 Broadway, as "a deliberate attempt to deprive good sportsmen of their deservedly won championship," grew out of charges that the Corinthians, in winning the championship cup for 1912, had used a "loaded" ball. The issue as to whether the ball was loaded or not will be decided at a trial term later.

NOTES OF THE BOXERS.

Jess Willard has declined an offer to box "Gunboat" Smith in California, giving as his reason that he is waiting for a chance to box Luther McCarty before he signs with any other boxer.

Scotty Montieth, manager of Johnny Dundee, has declined the offer of Manager Jim Coffroth for a bout between Dundee and George Kirkwood at San Francisco next month. Dundee will clash with Willie Jones of Brooklyn at the Royale A. C. to-morrow night, and this will probably be his last bout in New York before he figures in the twenty-round bout with Johnny Kilbane in California in April. He is planning to make a tour through Eastern and Middle Western States before he starts for the Coast.

Fifty-two rounds of boxing have been arranged for to-morrow night's show at the Fairmont A. C. In the feature event George Cheney of Baltimore will hook up with Kid Murphy of the New Haven for ten rounds. In the ten-round semi-final Mike Clancy and Young Glourey will do the honors. Two six-round bouts and five four-round bouts complete the card.

WILL SHOW POMERANIANS.

Third Annual Exhibition at the Waldorf-Astoria To-day.

More than four hundred entries have been received for the third annual show of the American Pomeranian Club, at the Waldorf-Astoria to-day. The entry list includes many American champions and several recent importations. The largest entry has been made by Mrs. Frank Smyth, who will be represented in twenty-five classes, among them being champion Prince Charming, which won the gold trophy in 1911 for the best of the breed.

Much interest is centered in Afon Admiral, which as Afon Ginger had a successful career in the English shows. Mrs. W. C. Wiedersheim will rely upon Ch. Kew Marco, which won championship honors last year, to represent her in blacks and Afon Honey's Mite in sables. Among the other competitors will be Dottie Blue, shown by Mrs. Stewart Hall; Nowata Vixen and Nowata Judy, from the Nowata Kennels; Oak Hill Dainty Fluette, entered by the Misses Browning, and Pom Patch Lady Bluey, Mrs. F. W. Vanderbilt's nomination.

The whites will have strong competition, George H. Ford of New Haven, Conn., having entered Tulipano, Violetta and Bello Bianco Bambino Caesar, which were bred in the Royal Kennels, owned by Queen Margherita, at Rome. Little Prince of the Stars, last year's winner, will compete for the Misses Browning, Snowball III., for Mrs. Stone, and several good ones from Canada.

Mrs. Hartley Williamson, has entered Lakewood Sprite and Lakewood Tonio. Mrs. Frederick Holder will handle Lakewood Sable Prince. Miss Elizabeth Maben has entered Piccina, an exceedingly small orange, bred by Queen Margherita, which will compete with Miss M. Kennedy's Pomeria Wasp and other good ones. Miss Lena Schilling has entered the colored Haughty Chocolate Prince, against whom will compete Ridgeway Chocolate King, entered by Mrs. George W. Quintard, Eastney Dickens, and Eastney Elf, the property of Mrs. De Ruyter M. Hollins, and Mrs. Mayhew's Chocolate King.

TO STIMULATE ATHLETICS.

Columbia Alumnus Wants More Meets Held at Home—Offers Prizes.

On the condition that the Columbia track management arrange for a suitable series of handicap meets, both indoor and outdoor, a Columbia alumnus who has not divulged his name says he will supply the necessary funds for prizes in the nature of medals and cups. This fact was learned yesterday through a letter to The Columbia Spectator, from an undergraduate track enthusiast, who has several interesting things to say in regard to the general track situation at Columbia.

According to the writer the university does not see enough of the track team. He asserts that if more of the meets of the team were held at home and more university meets were held in which many more students could participate, the interest in the sport would be very much increased on Morningside Heights. He points out that Cornell, Harvard, Dartmouth, and many other institutions where consistently good track teams are developed, follow out the plan of holding university meets of the kind for which the alumnus stipulates his prizes.

Crescents and I.-A. A. C. in Hockey.

The Irish-American A. C. hockey team will play its first hockey game in the championship series to-night at the St. Nicholas Rink, and the followers of the Winged Fist will see their representatives in a new game in which the characteristics of the sports for which the Irish are famous will be splendidly exploited. Their opponents to-night will be the Crescent A. C. team, champions of the Amateur Hockey League, and it will be a clash of old rivals, for the Irish team is mainly composed of the old Wanderer players, who last year tied the Crescents in the race for the amateur cup and were just barely beaten in the play-off.

The game to-night will be no certainty for the Crescents, who have lost Liffiton, Mills, Dobby, and Wall, four veteran players, who were always factors in winning games. Reinmund, who formerly played with the New York A. C., is the only real acquisition to the team, and he, with Dufresne, Sheriff, and Scarborough, will be mainly depended upon to win the game. The Irish team, besides such experts as Garon, Harmon, and Kinsella, will have McDonald, a new Canadian player, on the forward line, and the other positions will be so well filled that Jimmy O'Brien, the Irish coach, is already congratulating himself upon a probable victory. President P. J. Conway, Martin Sheridan, and all the famous Irish-American athletes will be on hand to root for the team.

William Hayward, a member of the Harlem Yacht Club, has issued a challenge for the Brooklyn Cup, which is now held by the New Rochelle Yacht Club. The cup was presented to the Brooklyn Yacht Club by Sir Thomas Lipton as a challenge cup for small yachts for ocean racing. The Harlem Yacht Club has a number of yachts suitable for such racing. The club has elected the following officers for the coming year: Commodore—Fred D. Newton; Vice Commodore—Allan Gibson; Rear Commodore—Newell Mead; Chairman Race Committee—Walter S. Sullivan; Treasurer—John Jarshow; Secretary—Edward Smith; Financial Secretary—John Fegan; Measurer—John Winnur; Trustees—Fred Burdick, John A. Crowley, Carl Seiffert. On Jan. 18 the club will hold its annual reception at the West End Restaurant.

Otis Defeats Philadelphian.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 9.—Charles Otis of Brooklyn defeated Frank Jones of Philadelphia in a National Three-Cushion Billiard League match here to-night, 50 to 41. Otis had a high run of 5, while Jones had one of 4. Otis forged ahead after the fiftieth inning, when both players were tied at 36, and won in the sixty-eighth inning.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9.—"Knockout" Brown, the New York lightweight, and Joe Rivers of Los Angeles were matched to-day to fight twenty rounds at the Vernon arena on the afternoon of Feb. 22.

KID BLACK WINNER IN SPORTING CLUB BOUT

Kid Black outpointed Babe Davis over the ten-round route, Harry Tracey of Philadelphia gained the honors over Jack Doyle of New York in another bout that went the same distance, and George Chaney of Baltimore stopped Reddy Moore of Philadelphia in the all-star boxing tournament at the Forty-fourth Street Sporting Club last night. Davis was a substitute for Young Fitzsimmons, and Doyle substituted for Kid Herman, both of these boys being unable to appear because of injuries.

The final bout, which brought together Davis and Black, was the most interesting of the three contests, although Black held the lead practically all the way. It was announced that both boys weighed 127¼ pounds, but Black had the advantage in height and reach and seemed at least five pounds heavier than his opponent. In the opening round Davis did the cleaner hitting and was entitled to the honors. Beginning with the second round Black assumed the aggressive, and he held the lead during the remainder of the bout. Davis fought back hard, and occasionally landed on Black's jaw with sufficient force to shake up the latter. In three rounds Black seemed to have his opponent in distress, but each time Davis came back smiling after taking a heavy onslaught of blows, apparently none the worse from the punishment. Neither scored a knockdown. Davis's face bore many marks of the encounter when he left the ring.

An exciting finish was the best thing in the bout between Harry Tracey and Jack Doyle, which was the semi-final of the show. Doyle weighed 126 pounds and Tracey 128½ pounds. Doyle was taller than Tracey and had a longer reach, but he had no desire to do any mixing until the closing minutes of the contest. Tracey did all the forcing, and had a busy time chasing Doyle around the ring in his efforts to land effectively. During the first six rounds Doyle's failure to do anything except back away spoiled the contest. In the seventh he began to show more of a desire to stand and box, and he did some effective jabbing with his left hand. In the tenth round he stood toe to toe with Tracey, and they engaged in some high-class slugging, both boys working their arms like trip-hammers. At the conclusion of the bout Doyle addressed the spectators, telling them that he had taken the bout on short notice and was not in condition to do his best.

The opening ten-round bout proved a big disappointment. It brought together George Chaney and Reddy Moore, and the latter acted as if it was his first appearance in a ring. During the fourth and fifth rounds he failed to land an effective punch on his opponent, devoting all his time to backing away or covering up. Chaney worked hard all the time, and was always forcing matters. The crowd began to shout in the fifth round for the referee to stop the bout, and when he answered the demand in the next round his action met with general approval.

NEW BAN ON JACK JOHNSON

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 9.—O'Connell's gymnasium, the largest private gymnasium in Chicago and the training place of all of Chicago's fistic four hundred, to-day closed its doors against Jack Johnson, the negro heavyweight.

At least a dozen of the well-known knights of the gloves, including Packey McFarland, Jess Willard, Charley White, Charley Cutler, and more of the same class of men, went to O'Connell and said that unless the negro was barred from the use of the gymnasium they would feel compelled to look elsewhere for accommodations, as they would not train in the same quarters with Johnson.

No ban was placed upon Johnson by the other fighters because of his color, for "Kid" Cotton and Cleve Hawkins, negro fighters, were training there, and it was expressly stated to O'Connell that the objectors did not care to have them barred, only Johnson, the man who had disgraced the "profession" by his conduct.

Johnson when told over the 'phone of his being persona non grata is said to have been almost broken-hearted. He had never before realized how deep-seated was the feeling of men of all walks of life and all colors against him.

Boxing at St. Bart's Smoker.

The St. Bartholomew's Athletic Club held their quarterly smoker in the clubhouse, 209 East Forty-second Street, last night, and a crowd of about 600 attended the entertainment. The programme was arranged by Bill Symmons, the club's trainer, and Major George McVicker, Superintendent, and their efforts were rewarded by the enthusiasm displayed by the spectators. A series of three-round boxing exhibitions, which brought together some of the best-known local exponents of the game, and two foreign champions, featured the programme. Billy Bennett defeated Kid Henry, Young Otto defeated Lew McDermott, Young Cothe defeated Young Kane, Young Brown defeated Eddie Staunton, Jem Kendrick defeated Mike Moran, and Andy Cortez defeated Frankie Neil.

NEWS OF THE TURF.

The Saratoga Association for the Improvement of the Breed of Horses held its annual election yesterday in its offices at 6 and 8 East Forty-sixth Street. The following Directors were elected to serve for 1913: Perry Belmont, Robert McClay Bull, Frank B. Burton, Thomas Hitchcock, Charles Kohler, Clarence H. Mackay, Andrew Miller, Schuyler L. Parsons, Frederick H. Von Stade, Charles H. Waring, Harry Payne Whitney, Richard T. Wilson, and W. W. Worden. Of these Mr. Burton was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of J. H. Alexandre and Mr. Von Stade to fill the vacancy caused by the death of James R. Keene. The Board of Directors will be called together within a short time to elect officers and transact the business for the coming season.

Henry T. Oxnard, who now has King James at his Virginia farm, reports that the horse has grown and improved greatly since being put into the stud. He now weighs 1,290 pounds. George B. Eustis, who returned to the turf in earnest recently, has said that he will send a number of his mares to King James this season.

Mr. Eustis recently received word from France that Alfred Noble, the steeplechaser that he purchased last season, is now perfectly sound and training satisfactorily. The Eustis horses in France are being trained by Preston Burch, who is also handling the horses of William Astor Chanler.

TRAVIS OFF HIS GAME.

PINEHURST, N. C., Jan. 9.—Metropolitan golfers were the stars of two matches in to-day's second round of match play in the tenth annual midwinter golf tournament for the President's Trophy, and the honors were even—a win and a lose.

The closest match was a twenty-two-hole victory by Harold Slater of Fox Hills over T. B. Boyd of Algonquin. Boyd was one down at the turn, who could do no better than even the score on the homeward journey in an uphill fight. A single stroke on the twenty-second green decided the match in Slater's favor. Slater will play L. S. Robison of Oak Hill to-morrow.

Catching Walter J. Travis off his game, Robert Hunter of Wee Burn eliminated the Garden City player 2 and 1. Turning home in a forty-two, each with five holes halved and two each won, Travis lost the tenth, halved the eleventh, lost the twelfth and thirteenth, won the fourteenth and fifteenth, halved the sixteenth and lost the match on the seventeenth.

In the second division S. A. Hennessee of Cooperstown lost to T. A. Ashley of Woodland by four and three, and S. H. Patterson of Plainfield won by the same score from Arthur H. Shaw of Brookline.

In the third division equal disposition was made of New Yorkers, J. L. Toppin of Canoe Brook losing to H. W. Hemphill of Atlantic City by 4 and 3, and John G. Todd of Upper Montclair winning from William C. Freeman of Dyker Meadow by 3 and 2.

C. W. Harman of Wykagyl and J. D. C. Rumsey of Brooklyn pulled through in the fourth and last division in opposite ends of the bracket.

Princeton-Columbia Basket Ball.

Columbia's basket ball five will play the Princeton quintet to-night in the Morningside Heights gymnasium for the second intercollegiate contest on the Blue and White schedule. The Orange and Black combination has played together in two games, in both of which it was defeated, while Columbia lost in its opening contest to Cornell. The local aggregation will be without the services of "Danny" Meenan, who has a bad ankle, which does not seem to lose its lameness, and Coach Harry Fisher said yesterday that it was possible that he would be kept out of the game all season because of it. "Kid" Benson is in better shape than he was in the Cornell game, where, however, he did the bulk of the scoring for the Blue and White, and apparently reliance for a victory will have to rest on him and Charlie Lee, who will probably play forward in Meenan's place. The Princeton team will rely heavily on De Witt's handling of his team to carry them to a victory.

Old Cathedral Club Wins Fast Game.

The quintet of the Old Cathedral Club defeated the five of the Adelphian Y. M. C. A. on the former's court by the score of 30 to 23 in a contest that was marked by clever and hard playing on both sides. The features were Rocco Marrone's and R. Bruen's goal shooting, the former getting 5 and the latter 3 for the Old Cathedral Club, and Hoffman caging 4 for Adelphia. The line-up:

Old Cathedral Club.	Position.	Adelphian.
R. Marrone	Left forward	T. Rich
H. Colwell	Right forward	P. Feed

Clinton Wins at Basket Ball.

The basket ball team of De Witt Clinton High School succeeded in keeping their slate clean with eight victories by defeating the quintet of Cathedral College on the victor's court yesterday by a score of 37 to 21. The line-up:

Church A. L. Basket Ball Games.

The 135-pound basket ball team of the Bronx Church House defeated the Madison Square Men's Club in an exciting game last night in the Church Athletic League tournament, by the score of 52 to 33, on the Bronx Church House court.

The East Harlem Presbyterian Club 135-pound team defeated the St. George A. C. quintet in a close game last night on the former's court, by the score of 32 to 25. In a preliminary game the Christ Church Club 120-pound representatives defeated the home team by the score of 38 to 17.

Stafford of Grand Junction, Tenn., Secretary Treasurer.

Jockey Club Deplores Keene's Death.

At the annual meeting of The Jockey Club, held at 6 and 8 East Forty-sixth Street yesterday afternoon, resolutions deploring the death of James R. Keene, former Vice Chairman, were ordered spread on the minutes. There were present at the meeting Alfred Hennen Morris, F. Gray Griswold, Frank K. Sturgis, Henry T. Oxnard, H. K. Knapp, Andrew Miller, Ral Parr, Jr., Capt. E. B. Cassatt, George B. Eustis, and Philip J. Dwyer. The resolutions on the death of Mr. Keene were prepared and offered by Mr. Sturgis. It was intended that there should be a meeting of the Stewards at the conclusion of The Jockey Club meeting, in order that a successor to Mr. Keene might be elected, but it was found impossible to obtain a quorum and that meeting had to be deferred.

MORNINGSTAR WINS AT 18.1 BILLIARDS

PITTSBURGH, Penn., Jan. 9.—Ora Morningstar of Pittsburgh successfully defended his title of world's champion at 18.1 balkline billiards to-night in a match with George Sutton, the Chicago veteran. The match went thirty-two innings. The score was 500 to 478.

A crowd that packed Old City Hall Auditorium sat for four hours and thirty minutes while the two famous cue experts produced one thrill after another. It seemed either might win right up to the finish. Sutton played a steady game, with no limit to his confidence. He had the breaks in the luck, too, and many of his table shots were of the kind that looked almost impossible.

Morningstar played brilliantly. Nothing but his daring brought him through a victor. Time and again he played the most difficult table shots in an endeavor to gather and missed by a hair's breadth.

Not discouraged, the champion took chance after chance. Frequently he was successful, and these instances were followed by long runs. Sutton played with a touch as soft as a feather.

There was more dash in Morningstar's game. His efforts to get himself out of bad positions were spectacular. Notably, in the seventh inning he made a cushion carrom and double kiss shot that brought the spectators to their feet. They applauded this vigorously.

When Sutton got himself into trouble he invariably resorted to the inimitable massé. What he did with the massé to-night cannot be described. Morningstar entered the thirtieth inning with the score 469 to 378 against him. His run of fifty-eight was followed by a miss of an easy one, then followed with forty-three. The last point needed he missed. But Sutton missed after making one, and Morningstar scored the point and won. Morningstar's high run was sixty-five and Sutton's fifty-eight. Score by innings:

Morningstar—0 13 24 3 1 8 47 1 4 13 0 0 2 31 15 13 0 65 12 0 8 29 16 3 0 34 17 38 0 59 43 1—500.

The amateur pool tournament at Doyle's Billiard Academy was resumed last night, J. H. Shoemaker defeating Edward Raynolds in the deciding game for first place by the score of 100 to 57. Shoemaker displayed excellent form, and led from the start. He made high runs of 18 and 14. Raynold's highest run was 15 balls. Dr. William G. Howe, Felix Olando, and Raynolds are now tied for second place.

In last night's game of the amateur Class B 18.2 balk-line billiard tournament at the Morningside Billiard Academy, 125th Street and Lenox Avenue, Sylvester Levy defeated Charles Cerf by the score of 150 to 139 in thirty-nine innings. The winner averaged 3 33-39 for his 150 points, and made the high run of 21 three times. Cerf had a high run of 16 points, and one of 14, which he made twice. His average was 3 22-39.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—George Slosson apparently clinched his 2,000-point 18.2 balk line billiard match with Koji Yamada to-night by winning the fourth block, 400 to 215, and bringing the grand score up to 1,630 for himself to 1,197 for the Japanese player. The game went nineteen innings. High runs: Slosson, 66, 56; Yamada, 69, 41.

Pittsburgh Cueist Defeated.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 9.—E. V. Calmer of St. Louis defeated C. A. McCourt of Pittsburgh, 50 to 41, in the National three-cushion billiard tournament to-night. Eighty-five innings were played. Calmer's high run was 5; McCourt's, 8.

BALTIMORE & OHIO TO ISSUE $63,250,000

ANOTHER ISSUE PROBABLE

The most important piece of railroad financing in many months was officially announced by the Baltimore & Ohio yesterday, when the Directors authorized an issue of $63,250,000 of twenty-year 4½ per cent. convertible gold bonds, dated March 1, 1913. The bonds are to be convertible at the option of the holder at any time after issue into the common stock of the company at 110. The privilege of subscribing to the issue is to be tendered to holders of the preferred and common stock at 95½ and accrued interest, to the extent of 30 per cent. of their holdings.

While the new issue had been expected, the announcement created surprise in the financial district in respect to the purposes for which the proceeds are to be used. The Baltimore & Ohio has an issue of $50,000,000 of short term notes maturing on June 1 next, and it had been popularly supposed that the payment of them would constitute the first claim on the money to be raised through the bond sale.

An officer of the company said after yesterday's meeting that it seemed desirable to make use of the present market to recoup the treasury for money expended for construction and equipment, and to provide for the further requirements of the company hereafter.

"Whether these funds will also be used in connection with the retirement of the $50,000,000 of notes will depend on circumstances and conditions at that time," he said.

The entire issue has been underwritten by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and Speyer & Co., who will invite participation of other bankers and investment firms. The underwriters have already received subscriptions for a large proportion of the issue, and a considerable share will be taken abroad. The favorable response elicited by inquiries made in London and other foreign centres on behalf of the new issue was taken as an excellent indication that not only are money conditions abroad rapidly improving but that the political tension has been greatly relieved.

Samuel Rea, who has been a Director of the Baltimore & Ohio for the past twelve years, resigned from the board yesterday on the ground that his duties as President of the Pennsylvania, a position which he assumed on Jan. 1, will prevent him from giving the time required by the B. & O. He was succeeded by Robert Garrett of Baltimore.

The new Director is the head of the banking house of Garrett & Sons, and is a grandson of the famous John W. Garrett, founder of the Baltimore & Ohio and for thirty years its President. The elder Garrett converted the road from a local line to a trunk-line system. Robert Garrett is the largest individual stockholder of the company, and his election marks the re-entry of the family so long identified with the property into the active management of its affairs. By the retirement of Mr. Rea the Pennsylvania's representation on the board is reduced from three to two in a total of twelve Directors.

CHEAP PACIFIC COAST RATES.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—In view of the opening of the Panama Canal, and the big expansion of business between Europe and the Pacific coast of North America, that is expected when the waterway is ready for traffic, two German lines are credited with the intention of carrying steerage passengers from Hamburg, Bremen, Cherbourg, Plymouth, Genoa, and Naples to San Pedro, San Francisco, Seattle, and other Pacific ports at the same rates which at present are charged to New York, in addition to the dues that will have to be paid for the privilege of passing through the canal.

All the companies interested in the route have made a thorough investigation of the facilities available at likely ports of call.

Despite Protests, Assessment Plan Is Approved—Subway Route.

By authorizing yesterday the extension of Seventh Avenue from Greenwich Avenue to Carmine Street and the widening of Varick Street from Carmine to Franklin and its extension to West Broadway, the Board of Estimate took an important step toward preparing for the construction of the new subway system. It is under this new avenue that the Interborough's west side line will run, and the company had been observing the delay in sanctioning the extension with some anxiety.

As things are so much progress has been made with a large portion of the Lexington Avenue line that it is likely to be hitched up with the present Subway some time before the lower part of the west side line can be constructed. There is fear that with the Lexington Avenue road feeding thousands into the present Subway at the Grand Central Station the congestion from there to Brooklyn Bridge will be terrific till the west side line is completed to take care of the passengers from the upper Broadway section.

In spite of much opposition the Board of Estimate adhered to its original arrangement for the area of assessment. The improvement will cost $7,000,000, and this has been divided so that the Borough of Manhattan will pay 40 per cent., Brooklyn 11 per cent., the Bronx 4 per cent., the property on the immediate frontage of Varick Street 12 per cent., and the secondary area directly benefited 30 per cent.

SKYLINE SIGNS DANGEROUS.

Mayor's Commission Will Urge Changes in Them and Billboards.

The Mayor's Billboard Advertising Commission, headed by Robert Grier Cooke, President of the Fifth Avenue Association, after a meeting yesterday afternoon at the Aldine Club annonced that it would be ready soon to make a report to the Mayor recommending radical restrictions on advertising signs, especially on billboards.

Members of the commission said they had been greatly impressed by the recent storm with the necessity of protecting pedestrians from skyline signs.

The commission will protest against the present method of constructing billboards close to the ground. In some cities, it will point out, billboards are required to be built three feet from the ground, so as to prevent offenders against public decency from depositing filth and rubbish behind them.

Another meeting will be held next Tuesday evening in the offices of Walter Stabler in the Metropolitan Life Insurance Building.

Dr. Muck carried out his ideas as to unity of style in the programme of the third evening concert of the Boston Symphony Orchestra given last evening in Carnegie Hall. It was made up entirely of modern works, except for two of the airs sung by Miss Elena Gerhardt, who was the soloist. She fulfilled that function because of the illness of Mme. Margarete Matzenauer, who had originally been announced for this concert, but was unable to appear. The orchestral music comprised Max Reger's "Concerto in the Ancient Style," Op. 123; Glazounoff's "Ouverture Solenelle," Op. 73, and Borodin's second symphony in B minor.

Reger's work, one of his most recent, had not been heard publicly in New York before, though it was played at an invitation concert given by the Philharmonic Society to its associate members last November. He has made his music resemble in some degree the old form of a "concerto grosso," with solo passages for certain instruments alternating with passages for the whole orchestra. The beginning is promising, with a stoutly built theme that might suggest the manner of Bach, but there is little besides the manner, and even this is very soon cast aside. The music in all three of the movements wanders from key to key in Reger's jaunty fashion, and though there is a complex contrapuntal fabric woven and the treatment of the orchestra is unusually transparent, the general effect is fragmentary and disjointed, with little coherence or true development.

The first movement ends its tonal peregrinations, in fact, with an effect of not getting back to the key of the movement, but of staying in the dominant. So inconclusive was the end that the audience failed to recognize that an end had come, and sat at first, as though bewildered, without giving a hand. It did not seem as though Reger's attempt to put new wine into this old bottle has been a success—and that not because the new wine was strong enough to burst the old bottle. The performance was one of the greatest subtlety and finish.

Of the two modern Russian compositions, Glazounoff's "Solemn Overture," no doubt, made the most agreeable effect, for, though he says some things in it that come dangerously near the commonplace, he does it with resounding brilliancy, and his efforts in this direction were splendidly seconded by the orchestra, which played the music with a tonal magnificence worthy of a better cause. Borodin, on the other hand, made not the slightest attempt to beguile either by any lascivious pleasings of his musical ideas or by seductive orchestral coloring. He was one of the most determined of the new Russian school to be uncompromisingly Russian, and this symphony may be called a classic of its kind, and is almost wholly made up of short themes, rude and angular in their form, endlessly repeated rather than employed for musical development.

They have the suggestion of the Orient. There are obstinately recurring figures, long, persistent single notes, that summon up a vision of the monotony of the steppes. That there is an aggressive vigor, even violence, in the music that makes an impression of its own, is undeniable; but its impression is not of musical beauty. The symphony had been heard before in New York—the Philharmonic Society played it under Anton Seidl's direction in 1897; it is not likely to be heard again in a much briefer interval.

Miss Elena Gerhardt's singing gave great delight. It had all the beautiful qualities of voice, of profound appreciation and penetration, and of fine phrasing and artistic delivery that are remembered from her performances of last season. Her singing of the two old Italian airs, one by Benedetto Marcello, "Il mio bel Fuoco," and Gluck, "O, del mio dolce Ardor," was especially notable for the perfect command of the style to which they belong.

She sang also three songs by Richard Strauss, "Morgen," "Wiegenlied," and "Cäcilie," all with accompaniments transferred to the orchestra by the composer. Only in the last, however, is the transfer a success; and the first two, even if "Cäcilie" be not included, sound better with the pianoforte accompaniment as originally conceived and written. Miss Gerhardt sang them beautifully, and they were accompanied beautifully.

MISS SCHNITZER'S RECITAL.

Miss Germaine Schnitzer, who gave a piano recital in Aeolian Hall yesterday afternoon, is no stranger to New York, though it is some time since she has played here, and her first appearance before a New York audience was made six years ago. Much promise was found in her playing even then, and the improvement shown in her last appearances here has been continued. She plays less as a virtuoso and more as an artist whose primary concern is in the "true performance" of what she plays. She has distinguished musical feeling and artistic sincerity, and although there were points in which her conception of some of her numbers yesterday might arouse dissent, it seemed clear that she had entered into their inner spirit as music and was not considering them as a means of display.

And yet Miss Schnitzer is unusually well equipped with a brilliant, fleet, and well controlled technique; with power that does not force the tone, but is nevertheless ample for imposing effects, and abundant gradation of dynamics between that and an extreme of delicacy. The most important piece on her programme was Schumann's sonata in F sharp minor, Op. 11. She played it with vigor and romantic feeling, with an appreciation of its variety of moods; and made it interest and delight the listener. It may be a question whether she did not exaggerate the spirit of the slow movement, the passionless aria, and retard its flow; or whether certain of her quieter episodes of the finale were not taken at a pace so slow, in contrast with the rest of the movement, as to rob them of their evident connection and coherency. Her performance of Busoni's elaborate amplification of Bach's chaconne for solo violin was the best which this piece has yet had here; but it did not carry conviction of its value or necessity, or quiet the longing to hear Bach's clavier music upon the piano in its original form.

Miss Schnitzer gave some musical and poetical performances of twelve of Chopin's preludes and a Sarabande and Toccata by Debussy were charmingly played. Ole Olsen's "Papillons" and Liszt's Venezia e Napoli closed the programme, which, it may be said, Miss Schnitzer carried out through difficulties presented by the hammering incident to the building operations next door, and the titter of a telephone bell still nearer.

Weber and Fields to Tour the South.

The engagement of the Weber and Fields stock company will terminate at the Weber and Fields Music Hall with the performance of to-morrow night. The production will then be prepared for a Southern tour, opening shortly at Norfolk, Va., and extending for six or more weeks. This tour will be somewhat similar to the Weber and Fields Jubilee tour last Spring.

"Girl of Golden West" Sung Again.

"The Girl of the Golden West" received another performance at the Metropolitan Opera House last evening. The principal rôles were sung by Miss Destinn, Messrs. Caruso, Amato, and Gilly, and Mr. Toscanini conducted.

LIVING COST HITS COLUMBIA.

The high cost of living is beginning to be felt by the Columbia fraternities, and they have decided to band together in an alliance aimed at lowering the meat and grocery bills. This was learned yesterday in an announcement to the effect that there would be a meeting of the house managers of the fraternities on Morningside Heights in the afternoon.

The meat and grocery bills of some of the fraternities mount up to a total of anywhere from $60 to $100 a week, and it is often found that the board bills do not meet this and other expenses which go to make up the cost of operating tables.

It is further found that the managers acting alone do not buy very economically. This was amply demonstrated when they got together and related their experiences and what they were paying for certain articles. They decided that if they all banded together and arranged for buying the majority of supplies needed in bulk at wholesale, the cost of living could be materially cut down. A Buying Committee is to be appointed.

AUTOMOBILE MEN INVADE NEW YORK

Additions to the floating population of New York are being made with great rapidity these days. The cohorts of the motor car have come to town, vanguard, main body, and rearguard; only the stragglers are yet to come. These visitors are attacking Gotham in force, in preparation for the Thirteenth National Automobile Show, which will fill two buildings for two weeks, beginning on Saturday evening. From many points on the map, but chiefly from the Middle West, the army of automobile men has borne down. Detroit, Indianapolis, Cleveland, Akron, and other centres of gasoline, electricity, rubber, and metal have sent their quota. Presidents, Vice Presidents, factory managers, sales managers, advertising managers, and a double supply of press agents have swooped upon the hotels from Times Square down and taken possession. New models, new accessories, new affiliations; above all, new orders and new figures of production fill the air. Except for the show itself it might be show week.

The principle of stopping moving vehicles which has been so successfully applied to the railroad train and the street car has been applied to the automobile. A young manufacturer of San Francisco is now showing to the Society of Automobile Engineers an automobile air brake which is said to be successful. If a practical and dependable air brake has indeed been found, it may be expected to mean the banishment of the familiar foot and emergency brakes altogether.

A man who has had much experience in the used-car business, Louis Mansbach, had a word to say yesterday about this side of the automobile trade:

"Eighty per cent. of the second-hand automobiles offered for sale are in good condition as far as running is concerned," he said, "but mechanically they need a general overhauling. To-day, the dealer is required to thoroughly overhaul every car that he offers for sale, because his reputation is behind every sale he makes, and it is not like former days, when a person would buy an automobile on the manufacturers' reputation, irrespective of its condition. In order to overhaul these cars at a reasonable figure, it requires a thoroughly equipped organization, which so few of the small dealers in second-hand cars can afford to maintain. To be successful in the used car business to-day, one must not only carry cars, but motors, bodies, tops, windshields, parts such as frames, radiators, coils, magnetos, &c. In fact, the average used car dealer must carry enough parts to virtually build a car."

Pyramidal raisures, forming sharp V's and joining in the centre a pyramidal ridge, form the tread of the newest entrant in the non-skid tire field. The raised parts are of rubber and are five-eighths of an inch thick. It is claimed for this construction that much more of the shock of the road is absorbed without jar either to passengers or machinery than in the ordinary pneumatic.

⁂

THIRD AVE. EARNINGS GOOD.

President Whitridge Thinks Security Holders Should Feel Encouraged.

The Third Avenue Railroad Company has issued its first annual report for the calendar year 1912. It contains a consolidated income account for the eleven months ended Nov. 30 last showing a surplus over charges, including depreciation of $355,000, of $1,209,429. President Whitridge, however, says that estimating December earnings at $110,000, the net for the year ended Dec. 31 last was about $1,319,000. He continues:

"The company has sufficient funds on hand to meet all these expenditures for the current year as well as to pay $350,000 on account of the purchase of the New York City Interborough and upward of $100,000 which will be necessary to expend upon the Mid-Crosstown road, in case the owners of that property should conclude to accept our offer to purchase it. It may probably be desirable to apply to the Public Service Commission for consent to issue 4 per cent. refunding bonds for part of these capital expenditures. It will not be necessary to market such bonds, and it should be our policy, so far as possible, not to increase our fixed charges.

"Finally, I think it may be said, notwithstanding the large expenditures shown in this budget, and which will probably hereafter be shown in similar budgets, that the outlook for the owners of Third Avenue securities is encouraging."

Mr. Whitridge said that since the Public Service Commission had disapproved the proposal to buy the Twenty-eighth Street cross-town line for $500,000, the line had been offered to the company for $250,000.

DIPS POISON PEN IN COFFEE.

For the second time within the last four or five weeks the "poisoned pen" of the coffee trade, the possessor of which is the source of considerable speculation in the local market, was at work a few days ago, and the roasters came to business Wednesday morning to find the second of what is apparently a series of anonymous postal cards in their mail. Under the caption "Coffee Mutterings" the roasters were advised to adhere to the hand-to-mouth method of buying their raw product.

"'Hand to mouth,'" the card read—"that's the policy! With the exception of a few henchmen being used temporarily, no one in the roasting business is making any money.

"Two more failures from the West. Exchange holds burlesque meeting. Voting truckmen, panmen, and clerks denouncing Attorney General's effort to restore equity. It's to laugh! But coffee continues to decline. Interior offerings increasing. Valorization stock piling up—950,000 bags coming onto the market for private syndicate to 'nurse.' Bulls planning excitement to induce January buying. 'Hand-to-mouth' policy will touch off the fireworks. Note the decline since the last card. Let the other fellow be the 'goat' for a while. How about 12 cents for No. 4 Santos?"

The card was signed "Committee," with the postscript "This card goes to every roaster in America."

While certain factors in the local trade locked on the card and its predecessor as bits of harmless humor, there were others who attached more or less significance to them. Their object is said to be obviously an attempt to make a failure of the sale of the 950,000 bags of valorized coffee that are now held in this city, and which are expected to be sold at auction shortly after the meeting of the International Valorization Committee in London on Jan. 16.

SILK IMPORTS INCREASE.

Statistics covering dutiable silk imports at New York in the five weeks ended Dec. 28, issued yesterday by the Silk Association of America, show their total value to be $2,236,298, against $1,825,800 in the corresponding period in 1911. Of this amount, $611,580 was contributed by fabrics woven in the piece, an increase of $55,486. Velvets, chenilles, and pile fabrics, cut or uncut, showed a decline of close to $13,000, being valued at $27,833. Velvet or plush ribbons or other pile fabrics entered were valued at $174,806, against $118,445, a year ago. Imports of ribbon under 12 inches wide, with fast edges, suffered a decline of close to $38,000. Silk laces, embroideries, and trimmings continued to gain, and, in the period specified above, totaled $303,562. Receipts of artificial silk yarns for the period were about $37,500 greater than those of the same time last year.

Raw silk, valued at $1,925,046, headed the list of free raw materials entered, compared with $1,254,774 a year ago. Imports of cocoons were practically nil, while in 1911 they were entered in the closing month to the value of $3,430.

WALLPAPER BUYING GOOD.

Japanese Grass Cloth Popular—Novelties in Better Demand.

Retail buying of wall paper has continued much later than usual this season, and, according to a well-known factor in the local trade, there was a demand for goods up to the last minute before the holidays.

"As a rule," he said, "we come in the day before Christmas merely as a matter of course, and to take care of the mail. One or two salesmen on the floor are more than sufficient to attend to customers, but in 1912 we had six men waiting on customers all day. I have never seen this happen before, and it cannot all be explained by the warm weather. In other years there has been continued mild weather, but business was practically at a standstill."

The trade as a whole is seemingly in a very healthy condition. Orders for Japanese grass cloth are said to be greater than ever, and the demand for this kind of wall covering has increased 50 per cent. over a year ago. Japanese novelties are generally in better demand.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

The Board of United States General Appraisers yesterday overruled several claims for lower duty on white dental rubber by the International Forwarding Company and A. H. Ringk & Co. Collector Loeb held it under the Tariff act of 1909 at 35 per cent. ad valorem as a manufacture of rubber.

The board also threw out protests by Butler Brothers on sewing machines taxed as toys at 35 per cent. ad valorem. The firm asked 30 per cent. on sewing machines. The board found them too flimsily constructed.

A protest by G. W. Sheldon & Co. was sustained on material called weinasbest returned as a manufacture of asbestos at 25 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 462, act of 1909. It was held properly dutiable as a non-enumerated manufactured article at 20 per cent.

The board overruled a claim by the Cuban and Pan American Express Company on telegraph code books assessed at 25 per cent. ad valorem as books. The importers asked free entry for them as being printed in foreign languages.

BIG FURNITURE SHOW.

Most of the interest in the local furniture trade is now turned toward the coming convention and exposition, which will open at the Furniture Exchange on Monday. Manufacturers are engaged in preparing their displays and getting everything in readiness for the arrival of the buyers. Samples are being received in large numbers, and the representatives of the factories showing merchandise are already on the ground supervising the arrangement of goods. Some of the early buyers from New England have arrived, and the trade in general is anticipating a larger attendance than ever before. The registration to date is reported to be above the average.

The outlook for Spring is apparently very promising. Stocks are generally low, and as a result, heavy buying is expected. The majority of the manufacturers and local buyers are still at the expositions in Grand Rapids and Chicago, but many of them are expected back in this market within a day or so. Others will undoubtedly return in time for the opening of the new lines.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Horace B. Cheney, Chairman of the Revenue Laws Committee of the Silk Association of America, and Ramsey Peugnet, Secretary of the association, will leave to-day for Washington to attend the hearing on Schedule L before the Ways and Means Committee on Monday. Among other well-known silk men who will be present at the hearing are Jerome C. Read and Sydney Blumenthal.

Millen, Aitkenhead & Co., shirts, now located at 814 Broadway, will shortly take new quarters on the ninth floor of the building at 470 Fourth Avenue. They expect to be located at their new address some time between the middle of the month and the 1st of February.

Last week's sales of raw silk at Yokohama amounted to 2,400 bales. Shipments totaled 1,700 bales, of which all but 100 came to the United States. Stocks were nominally unchanged.

SIDELIGHTS ON SELLING.

Although quantities of oatmeal paper are used each year, there seems to be a difference of opinion in the wall paper trade regarding its popularity. In some quarters orders for these goods for Spring are said to be double those of last year, while reports from some sections of the country are to the effect that imitation grass cloth and other papers are entirely taking the place of the oatmeal variety.

Manufacturers of underwear report that conditions in this trade were never better than at the present moment. Orders have been heavy for Fall and Spring, and not in years have so many goods been sold at this time of year.

In the opinion of a well-posted wall paper importer, strong colors are no longer wanted in this line. The demand is now for mutual tones generally, and for the better class of goods.

CONSULAR TRADE NOTES.

According to a report from the British Legation at Mexico, a contract has been made between the Ministerio de Fomento and C. G. Teruel for the establishment of five or more factories for the production of fuel from petroleum, benzine, and residual oils, in combination with peat or vegetable pulp.

The 1912 potato crop in Ireland is estimated at 2,546,710 tons, or 95,077,173 bushels, as compared with 3,694,856 tons, or 137,941,291 bushels, in 1911. The average yield of the 1912 crop is estimated at 161 bushels per acre, as against 231 bushels per acre in 1911, and the average yield of 179 bushels per acre for the ten-year period of 1902-1911.

A new industry projected for Matanzas, Cuba, is that of manufacturing stockings, shirts, corset covers, and other articles of underwear by modern machinery and methods. The projectors hope to secure facilities from the City Council in furtherance of the work, which will afford employment to many women and men now idle in the city.

Membership of Their Association Doubled by Recent Campaign.

The total membership of the Merchants' Association was raised yesterday to 3,297 by the reports of the membership workers at their final luncheon at Delmonico's Beaver Street restaurant. When the campaign to enlarge it began on Nov. 18, the association had 1,480 members. The fifty-four membership committees added 1,817, more than doubling the strength of the association.

President Henry R. Towne announced the appointment of a committee of twenty-four to organize the Members' Council, which will be formed in the near future. William C. Breed is its Chairman. Mr. Towne explained that after the Members' Council had been organized it would become a self-perpetuating body.

"In closing," he said, "I want to add my word of appreciation of what all of you have done. The result is not only satisfactory, but it is beyond what many thought possible in this city. It is a splendid demonstration of the fact that the business men of New York, when properly appealed to, will act together for the welfare of the city."

JAPANESE RAWS OPEN WEAK.

The opening of 1913 business in raw silk at Yokohama showed a decline of about 5 yen from the closing prices of the old year. There was slightly more activity in tram stock, especially sinshiu silks, the production of which will now be interrupted for the next two months. The better sorts were not overactive. Canton remained firm, with a fair business for American account. There was a fair demand for steam filatures at Shanghai, and some tussahs were taken at slight concessions. Tsatlees were quiet.

According to H. L. Gwalter & Co., the Milan market was quiet, but steady, with a moderate business from American buyers. There was a fair inquiry for spot silks in the local market, which was just beginning to recover from the holiday interruptions. Prices were generally steady, and early and general improvement in buying was looked for.

PRINTCLOTHS INACTIVE.

Very little trading was reported in the local printcloth market yesterday. Prices for the most part were unchanged, but sellers were asking for bids. The day's quotations follow:

Twenty-seven inch, 56-52s, 3 3-16c bid; 27-inch, 56-56s, 3⅝c; 27-inch, 64-60s, 3¾c; 28-inch, 64-60s, 3 15-16c; 28-inch, 64-64s, 4 1-16c; 38½-inch, 60-52s, 4¾c; 38½-inch, 64-60s, 5¼c; 38½-inch, 64-64s, 5⅝c; 39-inch, 68-72s, 5¾c; 39-inch, 72-76s, 6½c; 39-inch, 80-80s, 7¼c; brown sheetings, Southern standard, 8@8½c; brown sheetings, 4-yard, 56-60s, 6¼c; brown sheetings, 3-yard, 7⅜c@7½c; brown drills, standard, 8@8½c; denims, 9-ounce, 14@16¾c; tickings, 8-ounce, 13@13½c; standard prints, 5½c, and standard staple ginghams, as value, and 6½c.

PLAN FOR SOUTHERN PACIFIC.

Wickersham Said to Favor Transfer of Central Pacific to Union.

Following the return from Washington, where they had gone to consult with Attorney General Wickersham, of Judge R. S. Lovett, Mortimer L. Schiff, and F. A. Vanderlip, there were meetings yesterday of the Union Pacific Directors and of the Wallace Protective Committee, formed to look after the interests of the Southern Pacific stockholders in the Harriman dissolution proceedings. At both meetings the possible methods of disposing of the Union Pacific's $126,000,000 of Southern Pacific stock were discussed in the light of the Attorney General's suggestions.

It was learned that Mr. Wickersham was favorably inclined toward the sale of the Central Pacific to the Union Pacific, insuring the Union Pacific its own connection from Ogden to the Coast. One of his suggestions was that the Union pay for the $67,000,000 of Central Pacific stock with Southern Pacific shares now held in its treasury, the stock tendered in payment to be delivered to the Southern Pacific Company and not to its shareholders. The Southern Pacific, according to one plan, would then be free to reduce its capitalization by cancelling this stock. As the Central Pacific paid larger dividends than Southern last year, it is likely that more than $67,000,000 of the Union's $126,000,000 of Southern Pacific stock would be required in the exchange, and the Attorney General might consent to allow the Union Pacific to hold the balance of Southern Pacific stock, since the amount would be too small to carry control. In this process the $20,000,000 indebtedness of the Southern Pacific to the parent company would also be extinguished.

Mr. Wickersham is the more favorably inclined to this plan since he regards the Central Pacific as in a measure a competitor of the Southern Pacific. It is known that some of the Union Pacific interests hold that the Circuit Court has the right to compel Southern Pacific to sell Central Pacific to make the dissolution effective, but this view is disputed by Southern Pacific holders, who say that this action could not be forced on them without another suit. Rather than fight such a suit, it was said, they might accept a compromise agreement.

The conference with the Attorney General is said to have cleared away some of the main difficulties in complying with the Supreme Court's decree.

INVESTIGATE TAX APPRAISERS

Lawyers' County Association Votes to Have Its Committee Undertake the Job.

The New York County Lawyers' Association voted unanimously last night to instruct its Committee on the Surrogates' Court to make an investigation of the competency of the inheritance tax appraisers. The vote was taken after a speech by John Brooks Leavitt, in which he described the Appraisers' office as a "sink hole of iniquity."

Mr. Leavitt spoke after the reading of the report of the committee, of which William G. Peckham is the Chairman. The report stated that the committee had investigated complaints against the conduct of affairs in the office and communicated the assurance of State Controller William Sohmer that he would take steps to expedite business in his local headquarters.

According to Mr. Leavitt, some of the Appraisers are incapable of performing their duties and leave their work to stenographers. He mentioned none by name and said his remarks applied only to those with whom he had come in professional contact.

Joseph H. Choate presided at the meeting, which was held in the belvedere of the Hotel Astor, and attracted an attendance of some 600 attorneys. Supreme Court Justices Thomas F. Donnelly and Edward G. Whitaker, who have just taken their places on the bench, and City Court Judge Robert L. Luce, appointed last week by Gov. Sulzer, were guests on the rostrum and made speeches.

Justice Whitaker declared that his motto on the bench would be "brevity." He asserted his belief that one of the greatest evils of the courts is the "incessant writing of opinions, long opinions." As a result of this opinion writing, he declared, "Judges cannot now comprehend one another," and the law is confused.

Justice Donnelly followed with a plea for the simplification of procedure. He said that the practice of all courts of concurrent jurisdiction should be the same, and pointed out from his experience on the City Court bench the confusion which results from the chaotic state of the statutes and decisions controlling that court. This situation, he said, had been intensified by the recent decision of the Appellate Division, which held unconstitutional the statute increasing the jurisdiction of the court from $2,000 to $5,000.

Judge Luce assured the association that he would pattern his conduct on the City Court bench after that of Judge Donnelly, whose place he is taking in the court from which his predecessor was elevated to the Supreme Court.

John R. Dos Passos reported that the committee on law reform would present in three or four months a scheme to revise criminal procedure. He said:

"The law to-day is an insoluble mystery. It is contained in thousands of books. Its administration is expensive and delayed. The reform of the law is inevitable. Many of the remedies pointed out in the last Presidential campaign are superficial. All reforms of the law must be radical. When men talk of the recall of Judges they forget that if they recall John Smith they get John Jones, and that both belong to the same class. If the bar doesn't reform the law, if it does not apply itself to the remedy of conditions which have caused criticism, the people through the force of a moral revolution will do it, and it will be worse for the bar."

Mr. Dos Passos paid a tribute to President Choate as a man of many notable achievements, and added:

"Nothing will be a greater element of your renown than to be the head of this county lawyers' association when this subject of law reform is concluded as it ought to be."

The association heard the written report of Abram I. Elkus as Chairman of the Committee on Calendar Practice, in which it was shown that recent reforms of the calendar had resulted in finishing 1,000 more actions in five months of 1912 than in the corresponding months of 1911.

The meeting passed a resolution, introduced by Benno Lewinson, providing for the admission to the association's privileges, with the exception of the right to vote, of members of the bar in other counties. There was some discussion as to whether this would curtail the rights of lawyers in the Bronx, but Mr. Lewinson prevailed in his plea that this aspect of the resolution be disregarded until the legality of the act creating the county had been decided by the courts.

Mr. Leavitt presented a partial report of the committee designated to investigate the practice of law by corporations, and said that progress had been made. He said the practice of casualty companies employing counsel to defend actions against those they insured could not be upset. He said trust companies had generally discontinued the practice of drawing gratis wills in which they were named as executors, and that the title companies had abandoned seeking retainers to reduce or avoid assessments.

SHIPS HAD WORKING PLAN.

Witness Daniels's Definition of Understanding Between Lines.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Agreements between the Lamport & Holt, Prince and Hamburg-South American steamship lines to maintain rates and regulate sailing dates were produced to-day before the House Merchant Marine Committee which is investigating the workings of the "Shipping Trust," by Lorenzo Daniels, New York agent of Lamport & Holt. He denied they were agreements to control trade, but said the lines had "working arrangements."

All three companies are defendants in the Government's pending suit against the Shipping Trust. The agreements produced were to expire on Dec. 31, 1913. He declared there were no such agreements in force now and that special rebates were abandoned in 1905 on the advice of attorneys, who said they were illegal.

Mr. Daniels said that some contracts made by his company were made conjointly with the other steamship lines, fixing the freight rates charged. The United States Steel Corporation, the Baldwin Locomotive Company, the Singer Sewing Machine Company, and the Barber Asphalt Company at one time had contracts.

When letters were read from the American Locomotive Company and from other shippers declaring that they had been discriminated against in rates, Mr. Daniels vigorously denied the charge, declaring that the American Locomotive Company had tried unsuccessfully to get concessions.

ACCEPTS BID FOR U. S. MOTOR

Judge Hough filed yesterday in the Federal District Court a memorandum directing W. E. S. Strong and Roberts Walker, the receivers of the United States Motor Company and its subsidiaries, to accept the second of the two bids put in on Wednesday by the Reorganization Committee, through George H. Holt and William McAllister, Jr. This bid covered the payment of percentages of the claims against the six companies.

Judge Hough said that the bid included payment of all unpaid expenses and obligations incurred by the receivers in the administration of the properties, all compensation of the receivers and ancillary receivers and their attorneys, and these percentages on all claims as finally adjudged against these companies:

United States Motor Company, 32½ per cent.; Alden Sampson Manufacturing Company, 24 per cent.; Brush Runabout Company, 23 per cent.; Columbia Motor Car Company, 91 per cent.; Dayton Motor Car Company, 39 per cent., and Maxwell Briscoe Motor Company, 60 per cent.

The court then compared this offer with all that could possibly be realized on the assets, supposing it were possible to realize their full appraised value, that is, $8,475,000. Then the amount realized would be:

United States Motor Company, 30 per cent.; Alden Sampson Company, 26 per cent.; Brush Runabout Company, 37 per cent.; Columbia Motor Company, 100.05 per cent.; Dayton Motor Company, 42 per cent., and Maxwell Briscoe Motor Company, 58 per cent.

LACKAWANNA WAYS ANNOY THE EXCHANGE

EXTRA DIVIDEND CLOUDED UP

Complicated System of Realizing Calls for Use of Funds Not Available in All Cases—Protests Filed.

Some of the stockholders of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, which recently decided to issue $12,000,000 of new stock at par, have been wondering how they are to collect the 135 per cent. extra dividend which the right to subscribe to the new shares practically accorded them. The peculiar terms under which the new stock is offered has subjected the management of the Lackawanna to a great deal of unfavorable criticism from the New York Stock Exchange and other interests concerned, it was learned yesterday.

As a rule, when a company offers its stockholders new shares at less than the prevailing market price, it issues warrants to subscribe, and these "rights" find a ready market. Shareholders who do not desire to increase their holdings, or who are unable to finance further purchases, are thus enabled to convert their "rights" into cash at once. The Lackawanna's shares were selling around 580 when the decision to issue $12,000,000 of new stock was announced, and the privilege of buying one new share at par for every two and a half shares of old stock held meant an extra dividend of about $135 for every $100 of stock held.

In the company's notice to stockholders it was stated that holders of record on Jan. 4 would be allowed to subscribe at par to new shares to the extent of 40 per cent. of the number standing in their names. No warrants were issued, the company explaining that 50 per cent. of the subscriptions would be payable on or before Feb. 15, in return for which 6 per cent. receipts would be issued. The Stock Exchange at once took up the matter of having warrants distributed, but failed to convince the Lackawanna management that this way was better than the one adopted.

It is understood that the Exchange thereupon notified its members that "stockholders who may wish to dispose of their privilege to subscribe will be required first to subscribe for their proportion of stock, paying 50 per cent. of the par value and getting from the company a receipt for money paid. The stockholder will then sell his subscription receipt and thereby get paid for the value of his subscription privilege."

This roundabout way of realizing on the "rights" brought out a strong protest from Trustees who did not have funds in their charge sufficient to pay the 50 per cent. on the new shares. The matter was taken up yesterday by the Directors of one large trust company which has Lackawanna stock in its care.

An officer of the Lackawanna said yesterday that it was true that the company had received many complaints, but that the management believed it was distributing the new stock in a fair and honest manner. He said that the issuance of rights would have entailed the employment of a large number of extra clerks to handle transfers, and that most of the faultfinding had been done by brokers who wanted a profit on handling the "rights." He pointed out that two previous dividends of 15 per cent. and 50 per cent., paid in 1909, had been distributed in this way, and that substantially all of the new stock so allotted had been taken up by those entitled to it. This officer ventured the prediction that in spite of the inconvenience to which Trustees and others who had pledged their stock as collateral, or who for other reasons found the company's method awkward were subjected, all but perhaps $50,000 of the new stock would be taken up before the privilege expired.

COMMODITIES MARKETS.

There was decided improvement in wheat yesterday, the advance which was consistent throughout the session having an apparent basis in export demand. Corn, too, owed its firmness to the strength of the foreign markets, though there were developments in the statistical situation in the interior which were bullish factors. These conditions elsewhere in the grain market had naturally a stimulating effect on oats, which closed at a small net advance. Cotton made declines, which brought some new low records for this downward movement.

WHEAT.

Prices in the wheat market advanced steadily throughout the day, and at the close were ⅞c to 1⅛c net higher. Offerings were small, and there was good buying by prominent commission houses, as well as covering on the part of nervous shorts. It had been the opinion for the last two weeks that it would require some new feature to move the market out of the rut in which it had been moving, and it was the general impression that an improved export demand would be the most probable development along bullish lines. This has apparently taken place, though exporters were loath to give out information and guarded sales very jealously, as it was feared that reports of a large export business would send the market above an export basis. There appears to be little room for doubt, however, that during the last two or three days a large export business has been done in American wheat. Sales reported yesterday at all positions amounted to about 65 loads, with a fair proportion of full cargo engagements from Atlantic and Gulf ports. The foreign markets were firm, and reports that the Continent was buying Canadian and Australian cargoes and that the Argentine market was very firm, in the face of very favorable weather, indicated that Europe is in the market for foreign wheat. This bears out recent predictions by foreign authorities that European requirements will be much larger than had been estimated. Weather conditions over the West were more favorable for the Winter wheat crop, it being somewhat warmer, and the snow map indicated an extensive covering, especially over the far western section. Broomhall estimated Argentine shipments for the week at 1,200,000 bushels, compared with 560,000 bushels last week and 416,000 bushels last year. In the local market No. 2 red Winter wheat was quoted at $1.06½, elevator, and $1.07½, free on board, afloat; No. 1 Northern Spring, 99¾c, free on board, afloat.

CORN.

Europe appeared to be in the market for corn as well as wheat, and the market during the day was firm, closing at a net advance of 1c. Export sales amounted to about 53 loads, including a cargo of 28 loads out of Baltimore. The cash demand was fairly active, and shipments at interior points were in excess of the receipts. Weather conditions were more favorable for the movement, but there appeared to be little pressure of country offerings. Argentine exports were estimated at 3,400,000 bushels, compared with 3,230,000 last week, and nil last year. In the local market export corn was quoted at 56½c f. o. b. afloat.

OATS.

The firmness in the other markets had a stimulating influence on prices for oats, and while price changes were not very wide, the market closed at a net advance of ¼@⅜c. Receipts at interior points were smaller, and while this may have been due in part to the weather, offerings in the interior were not heavy. The local cash market was steady; standard white quoted at 40c; No. 3, 38½@39½c; No. 4, 38@39c; natural white, 37½@39½c; white clipped, 38½@41c, all track.

PROVISIONS.

The provision market was inactive, but prices were firmly held and advanced to a slightly higher level owing to comparatively small receipts of hogs and in sympathy with the advance in corn. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 28,000; estimated for Friday, 23,000; Kansas City received 10,000 and Omaha 10,500.

COTTON.

There was a further sharp break in the cotton market yesterday, with prices selling into new low ground for the movement, and with March contracts at 12.30, showing a decline of $3.50 per bale from the high record of last month. The close was steady and a few points up from the lowest, but last prices still showed net losses for the day of from 6 to 13 points.

The census report, showing 12,919,000 bales ginned to Jan. 1, for the reason that it was in excess of 12,900,000 bales, seemed to release some selling orders that had been placed around the ring contingent upon the figures, and the fact that ginning returns for the last half of December were comparatively full, appeared to add to the bearishness of sentiment as adding to the probability that the mills would buy slowly long enough to thoroughly test the stability of Southern spot holders. The average amount of cotton ginned after Jan. 1 for the past seven years has been about 840,000 bales, and unless ginning this season should exceed the average the present outlook would appear to be for a crop of about 13,760,000 bales of lint, to which about 3 to 3½ per cent. would be added by linters and repacks, making a commercial crop of around 14,250,000 bales. But as it is believed ginning during December was restricted to some extent by bad weather, the report seemed to create sentiment that the commercial crop was likely to be fully 14,500,000 bales. At any rate, such an opinion was freely expressed around the ring, and the chief support in the market was attributed to realizing by shorts or trade buying against calling by spinners, as there was no sign of any revival of bullish confidence in speculative circles.

The market opened easy at a decline of 2 to 14 points, and the active positions sold 13 to 16 points net lower either on or immediately following the call. Realizing by old shorts and trade buying with the assistance of arbitrage orders from Liverpool steadied prices up 6 or 7 points right after the call, but the market soon weakened again under continued liquidation, and broke to a net loss of 13 to 18 points on the old crop months during the middle of the day. At this level there was a good demand from spot houses, and prices rallied 6 or 7 points from the lowest in the late trading. It was reported after the close that spinners had bought very heavily during the day to fix prices, and the late rally was encouraged by the continued steadiness of Southern spots so far as reflected by advices from the interior. Southern spot markets, as officially reported, however, were generally ⅛c to 3-16c lower.

COTTONSEED OIL.

There was a more active trade in the cottonseed oil market, but, while offerings were liberal, the absorbing demand was also good. Price changes for the day were comparatively narrow, the market closing at a net loss of 2 to 4 points. The census report on the amount of cotton ginned up to Jan. 1, which had a bearish influence on the cotton market, was a factor of the decline, and there was also considerable selling, believed to be against increased offerings of crude oil in the South. The crude market, however, showed little change, and the firmness in lard had a tendency to check the decline.

COFFEE.

At the outset near positions were 4 to 8 points higher, owing to a firmer tone to the spot situation, while the late months were unchanged to 2 points higher. Longs sold September quite freely. Total sales were 90,000 bags, part exchanges. An easier feeling developed, and the close was 1 point net lower to 2 points higher. The European markets were very steady early, but lost part of the advance, Havre closing at a net gain of ¼ franc, while Hamburg was ¼ to ½ pfennig higher. Rio advanced 50 reis, while Santos was 100 reis higher. Cost and freight offers from Brazil were firm at unchanged to 10 points higher.

Spot coffee: Rio 7, 13⅞c.

Business on the Consolidated Stock Exchange throughout the day was well distributed. Prices reflected a tendency toward improvement, with the market giving evidences of broadening on the advance. Commission houses handled a good volume of orders covering not only the standard stocks but a wide variety of the specialties. Profit taking exerted an influence toward the close, with prices generally ending off from the best.

WOULD WIPE OUT FOOD TARIFF

At the annual meeting of the Mercantile Exchange, held yesterday, Julius D. Mahr, the newly elected President, asked the members to write to members of Congress and urge elimination of duties on food products.

"If the consuming public would only follow producing conditions," said Mr. Mahr, "no necessity for criticizing or attacking the egg and butter trade would be found. There are 90,000,000 people to be fed in the United States, and the hardship of high prices falls principally upon 30,000,000 people in the Middle, Atlantic and New England States, who produce practically nothing.

"For a number of years I have advocated reciprocal relations with Canada looking to the removal of the tariff on butter, cheese and eggs. The past year's conditions have convinced me of the necessity of repudiating such a means of aiding the consumers and general handlers of dairy products, and I believe the present situation demands the immediate removal of the tariff from all ports of the world on butter, eggs, cheese, poultry, meats and other food products."

SAFETY and INCOME

Other considerations being equal, it may be said that the best investment is the safe investment with the highest income.

We offer a type of investment for income which, in our opinion, yields the highest conservative interest return:

First Mortgage Bonds Netting 5½ to 6%

These bonds are secured by an absolute, direct first lien on the highest class of improved, income-producing, centrally-located real estate, the total loan not exceeding 50% of a conservative appraisal of the security.

During the thirty-one years of our business life, no investor has ever lost a dollar of principal or interest on any security purchased of us—a fact which should indicate to prudent investors the soundness of these bonds and the care with which we safeguard the interests of our clients.

We recommend these bonds as safe, stable in value and attractive in income, and will be pleased to explain to conservative investors, in detail, the precautions we take for protecting investments in this class of securities.

Denominations $500, $1,000 and $5,000

Fact No. 10
(About Investments)

Buying a stock or bond which later shows a profit is not the whole of successful investing. The stock or bond must be sold—the paper profit converted into a real profit—and the proceeds reinvested as safely as at first.

In other words, one must know when to sell. This requires a knowledge of fundamentals. Our booklet "Judging Securities" will help you. Sent on request.

Retired Business Men

The man who has succeeded in accumulating a competency should be a most conservative investor. He should not permit himself to be tempted by the promise of big profits or abnormal rates of interest—so often the excuse for misguided investment. To the retired business man safety of principal and prompt interest payment always should be the primary considerations. If his investments possess these two elements, combined with a reasonably broad market and a fair rate of income, he has every reason to feel the utmost confidence in the wisdom of his selections. We have had forty years' experience in the business of investment, and if you would like us to submit to you those bonds which we regard as well adapted to the requirements of retired business men, we suggest that you send for Stocks Improve Again—Noteworthy Success Attends Baltimore & Ohio Bond Issue.

Improvement in the money situation was suggested from a new point of view yesterday in the very heavy subscriptions to the underwriting of the sixty-four-million-dollar issue of 4½ per cent. convertible Baltimore & Ohio bonds. Applications came in large numbers and amount from home sources, and even larger applications from abroad. Investors were attracted by the terms upon which the bonds were offered, but the extent of the demand for participation in this flotation told unmistakably of a very large amount of money available for investment in issues offered upon terms sufficiently attractive to satisfy this waiting capital. Really much significance attaches to the great success of this Baltimore & Ohio issue, and it contains a suggestion of reassurance in respect to the filling of the requirements of other corporations. The great interest evinced in this first important issue of the new year brings into broader relief what had previously been indicated in respect to the position of the money market by the improvement in short term securities and in investment bonds of the type of the New York City issues. Noteworthy success in the case of a flotation as important as this Baltimore & Ohio financing paves the way for a favorable reception of other issues, and from this point of view the Baltimore & Ohio issue assumes added importance as a favorable indication of the investment outlook. A special significance attaches to the heavy foreign subscriptions, for they bespeak increasing confidence in the political as well as in the financial outlook abroad. The returns of the European banks, notably in the case of the Bank of England, showed rapid recovery from the strain to which the money market was subjected at the close of the year, and helped to explain the willingness of European bankers and investors to share so largely in an American issue. It is a curious anomaly of the situation that we should at one and the same time be exporting securities and gold. It is Paris, which is not as well placed at the moment as the other European markets, which is needing the latter and is content to pay for it. A suggestion of the continued tightness of the money market at Paris is found in the fact that treasury notes are being issued there at 3½ per cent., whereas usually they are taken at 2 per cent. or less.

The action of the stock market yesterday indicated that stocks as well as more strictly investment issues are feeling the influence of the cumulative easing of money. The Stock Exchange had a number of other matters to consider, but they were hardly definite enough in shape to exert pronounced influence upon prices. The most interesting of these was the discussion which was underway in respect to the working out of the decree in the Union Pacific case. As it seemed yesterday, the problem is likely to be solved in the main by a transfer of the Central Pacific from the Southern Pacific to the Union Pacific, the latter's holdings of Southern Pacific being used in part for the acquisition of the Central Pacific line. Upon proper terms such an arrangement could doubtless be made to work to the advantage of both the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific, and the time seemed a little nearer yesterday in respect to the working out of view which many have all along held that Wall Street, in the early days following the decision of Dec. 2, had much exaggerated the difficulties as well as the inconvenience of compliance with the decree of dissolution.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Prices Move Up.

There was a general advance throughout the stock list yesterday, the exceptions being furnished by two or three issues, which receded only fractionally. Northern Pacific, selling ex-dividend, recovered ¾ of its payment of 1¾ per cent. Tobacco advanced 3 1-3 points, Consolidated Gas gained 2, Mexican Petroleum 2½, and other issues from ½ to 2 points. The average price of twenty-five railroads at the close of the market showed an advance of .40, the third successive gain so far this week. At 91.41 the average price of the roads made a new record high price for the current year. The industrials were only slightly less strong, with a gain of .34. Activity was not pronounced yesterday, but most of the news was of a favorable character and there was a very good undertone to sentiment.

Plenty of Cars Now.

As late as Dec. 14 there was a net shortage of 34,392 cars on the railroads of this country and Canada. Two weeks later a census showed a net surplus of idle cars of 17,058, showing that 51,450 cars were released in the fortnight. It is such sudden changes in the movement of traffic that make it well nigh impossible for the operating men to keep up with the varying needs of shippers. The grain movement started in more slowly this past season than usual, and some of the traffic men expected to see it stretched over a much longer period than it has ordinarily covered, but the manner in which idle cars have been accumulating in recent weeks makes it appear that the busy season for the carriers is now past. Subsequent statements for some weeks to come ought to show further increases in the number of cars sidetracked.

A Good Bond Day.

The transactions in bonds yesterday exceeded $3,000,000 in par value, making the most active bond session since Sept. 25. The easier tendency in money, occurring simultaneously with the appearance of the reinvestment demand, resulted in marked improvement in the investment market. While the total bond sales so far have compared unfavorably with the sales for corresponding periods of last year, there has been a wide diversity in the bonds traded in recently and other signs pointing to a reawakening of interest in this class of securities. In other words, each day's total has not been made up largely of overwhelming business in any one issue. The newer traction issues have attracted most attention, partly because of the greater speculative possibilities attached to them.

A Trade in Standard Oil.

A member of the Consolidated Exchange wound up yesterday a little deal in Standard Oil by selling twenty-one shares of Standard Oil subsidiaries at $750 a share, and thereby closed out an investment entered into in August, 1911, with a considerable profit. The broker thought he saw possibilities in the oil stock before the dissolution and bought ten shares on the Curb at $675 a share. A fellow member of the Consolidated happened to be offering a single share of the stock, and the broker bought that, too, paying $685 for it. In all, the eleven shares cost him $7,435. When the dissolution occurred he sold eleven shares of Standard Oil of New Jersey at $360 a share, and with the proceeds bought ten shares of subsidiaries at $375 a share. He retained until yesterday his original eleven shares of subsidiaries and the additional ten shares. The sale of the entire lot of twenty-one shares at $750 a share gave him $15,750. Deducting the cost of payments made in taking up the rights in two of the companies, the broker's net profit on an investment covering less than two years was about $8,000.

Baltimore & Ohio's Half Year.

The Directors of the Baltimore & Ohio had a statement of earnings for the six months ended Dec. 31, the figures for five months being actual and for December partly estimated, before them yesterday. For the half year the company did a gross business of $52,466,910, which is a gain of $5,524,000. Expenses followed close on the heels of the higher earnings, but there remained an increase of $1,150,824 in the net for the period, which amounted to $16,014,418. The gross corporate income on hand at the end of December was $16,045,766, an increase of $932,734. After providing for interest charges amounting to $7,402,070, there remained a balance of $8,643,696, or $1,087,000 more than there was at the close of the first half of the preceding fiscal period. Deducting from this amount the preferred dividend of $1,200,000 leaves a balance of $7,400,000, or nearly 5 per cent. earned on the common stock. The payment on the common stock requires approximately $4,500,000, leaving approximately $3,000,000 surplus, over and above the dividend requirements. While the first six months of the fiscal year are customarily the more profitable, with a reasonably active traffic the company expects this surplus to be substantially increased before June 30.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Trading interest on the Curb continued to centre yesterday in the bond list, in which a number of substantial gains appeared at the close. Sales of Canada Southern 5s "when issued" reported totaled $300,000, the price rising from 106½ to 107. Baltimore & Ohio 4½s reported sales of $100,000 between 97⅜ and 97⅞, the close being at the top. Western Pacific 5s advanced from 87 to 87½ on sales of $35,000. In the Industrial list there were fractional advances at the close in United Cigar Stores and British-American, though Tobacco Products preferred closed fractionally lower. The mining list was firm but sluggish.

BOURSES OF EUROPE

LONDON, Friday, Jan. 10. — The Times in its City article to-day will say:

"Money was easy to employ throughout the day. Even at the close there was little relapse in the rate for day-to-day advances, which was higher than on Wednesday. The bank return showed private deposits well under £42,000,000, ($210,000,000,) a figure which is not compatible with abundant bankers' balances. Discount quotations were rather weak in tendency, but not actually lower, except for four and six months' paper. The French demand for bills continued, but the market was unwilling to lower rates much, owing to the foreign political situation and fears of further gold withdrawals. Three hundred and ten thousand pounds in sovereigns was taken for South American destination, chiefly Buenos Aires.

"One of the most satisfactory features of the stock markets was the firmness of consols, which were favorably influenced by Government purchases. On the whole the tone of the markets was not unsatisfactory. In some directions there were signs of a moderate amount of business. The optimists of the house professed to be satisfied that an early declaration of terms of peace would be forthcoming, and the continued cheerfulness of the Bourses lent support to this theory.

"French operators purchased most of their specialties yesterday afternoon, and the firmness of foreign Government securities was a notable incident. Certain foreign railway stocks which have been prominent of late came on offer, among which Sao Paulo was conspicuous with a fall of 6 points. The flatness of Marconi shares was attributed to a report of trouble on the Dublin Stock Exchange. Some leading South African mining shares exhibited substantial advances at the close."

PARIS, Jan. 9.—Prices closed firm on the Bourse to-day.

CAPITALIZATION

	Authorized	Outstanding
PREFERRED STOCK	$3,000,000	$2,000,000
COMMON STOCK	1,500,000	1,500,000

The Walpole Tire & Rubber Company is incorporated under the laws of Massachusetts and took over a consolidation of various corporations engaged in the rubber manufacturing business all of which had been well known for many years.

The company owns real estate, buildings and machinery at Walpole, Mass., and Granby, Quebec, of a conservative valuation of over $1,000,000. There has been expended upon the property of the company in the past two years over $600,000 in additions and improvements. Factory construction, and machinery installed are of the latest types, so that the company has today unsurpassed facilities for efficient and economical operation.

Insulating or friction tape of which this company is the largest producer in the world. Includes among its customers the majority of the street railways and lighting systems in the United States besides supplying the largest electrical manufacturing companies in this country and a large foreign trade.

Rubber heels, manufactured under the well-known brand of "CAT'S PAW," and which are so extensively advertised throughout the United States. These heels are sold by the distributing company, the Foster Rubber Company. The Walpole Tire & Rubber Company is the largest manufacturer of rubber heels in America.

Automobile tires known as the "4,000-MILE-NO-STONE-BRUISE TIRE," the demand for which has been very large, and in fact this division of the plant has, since its inception, been operated at capacity.

Water-proof clothing, seamless hotwater bottles, horseshoe pads, insulating varnishes, and mechanical rubber goods are among the products manufactured by this company.

The gross business of the company has had a uniform growth since 1907 and is as follows:

1908	505,707.07
1909	726,087.60
1910	1,006,430.00
1911	1,508,911.24
1912	2,517,716.90

The improved factory facilities have produced substantial economies and the net earnings have since the incorporation of the company been at all times more than three times the dividend requirements on the outstanding preferred stock.

Dividends for year 1911—Common and Preferred	119,000.00
Surplus	$155,330.02

Net earnings for the year 1912 with the last two months of the fiscal year estimated were as follows:

Net profits of the Walpole Tire & Rubber Co. and its subsidiaries.	$335,000.00
Dividends on outstanding preferred stock	113,750.00
Surplus above preferred dividends	$221,250.00
Dividends on common stock	60,000.00
Surplus	$161,250.00

It will be seen from the above that the net earnings for the year 1912 are equal to more than three times the dividend requirements on the present outstanding preferred stock.

There is no bonded or mortgage indebtedness upon the property of the Walpole Tire & Rubber Company nor on any of its subsidiaries nor can any such mortgage be placed upon the property without the consent of seventy-five per cent. of the preferred stockholders.

In addition to the regular quarterly dividend on the preferred stock, which is paid on the 15th day of January, April, July and October, dividends at the rate of 4% are now being paid regularly on the common stock.

In view of the fact that rubber manufacturing as a whole is a staple and unusually prosperous industry largely independent of tariff legislation, we consider the stock of the Walpole Tire & Rubber Company unusually attractive and believe it to be an excellent investment.

WE OFFER FOR SUBSCRIPTION THE 7% CUMULATIVE PREFERRED STOCK OF THE WALPOLE TIRE AND RUBBER COMPANY AT $100 PER SHARE TO NET FULL 7% ON THE INVESTMENT FREE OF TAX AS ABOVE.

PURCHASES OR RESERVATION OF THIS STOCK NOW FOR PAYMENT BY CHECK OR OTHERWISE ON OR BEFORE JANUARY 15, 1913 WILL BE ENTITLED TO THE DIVIDEND OF 1¾% DUE AND PAYABLE JANUARY 15, 1913.

The right is reserved to reject any application and to allot a smaller amount than is applied for. Circular giving further details upon application.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Felix Isman Buys Times Square Theatre Plot for $500,000—95th Street Plot Near Fifth Avenue Sold to Mrs. Amory S. Carhart—$632,800 for Estate Holdings at Auction.

Felix Isman has just closed, it was ascertained yesterday, the biggest Times Square deal in some time. He has purchased the four houses owned by Mrs. Sarah Gardner McGill, being 129 West Forty-second Street and the three rear houses, 126, 128 and 130 West Forty-third Street. The Forty-third Street houses are conducted as a family boarding house and hotel known as the Hotel Gardner. The property is assessed at $333,000, and Mr. Isman has paid close to $500,000. The Forty-third Street frontage is 64.3 feet and 20 feet on Forty-second Street. Mr. Isman bought some time ago the building at 133 West Forty-second Street and title recently passed in another name. Mrs. McGill has conducted the Gardner Hotel for twenty-five years and she will give up possession in March.

95th Sale Near Fifth Avenue.

An interesting feature of the realty market lately has been the increasing demand for private house property in the upper Fifth Avenue section, and to the number of sales which promise noteworthy improvements to the Carnegie Hill district was added another yesterday in the sale by Pease & Elliman to Mrs. Amory S. Carhart of a plot fronting 50 feet on the north side of Ninety-fifth Street and 100 deep, being 100 feet east of Fifth Avenue.

The plot was sold for Gen. Lloyd Bryce, and it adjoins the large 100-foot plot to the east purchased through the same brokers from Gen. Bryce a short time ago by Ernesto G. Fabbri, and who is having plans prepared for a fine residence on the westerly 50-foot parcel immediately adjoining Mrs. Carhart's purchase. Mrs. Carhart, who has a fine country home at Tuxedo, has signified her intention of erecting a large residence on her new plot in the near future. Gen. Bryce still owns the 100-foot Fifth Avenue corner adjoining.

In the immediate vicinity, on Fifth Avenue, Miss Helen Bryce bought a plot last year for a new home, and Justice James G. Gerard is having plans prepared for his new home just north of Ninety-fifth Street.

The largest attendance of the year at an auction sale was attracted to the Vesey Street salesroom yesterday when Joseph P. Day offered the seventeen parcels of property in various parts of the city for the Daniel Cunningham estate. The parcels were chiefly tenement holdings. Good bidding was the rule, and the speculative element was outclassed by investment buyers, every piece being sold to persons who had no personal interest in the property.

For the seventeen parcels a total of $632,850 was obtained, a sum which, according to the auctioneer, exceeded by about 12 per cent. the expectations of the executors. The prices, however, in most cases were a trifle below the assessed valuations. For 67 Fulton Street, the only loft building in the lot, a four-story structure, on plot 24.7 by 95.9, Cornelius Hearn paid $31,300. It is assessed at $42,000. For the two six-story tenements at 225 to 231 East Fortieth Street, Henry Hoffmann paid $44,500 for the first, covering 225 and 227, and Robert Johansen took the other for $44,250. Each is assessed at $47,000. The five-story tenement on the northwest corner of Second Avenue and Sixty-second Street went to Patrick McCauley for $25,250. It is assessed at $29,000.

Two of the five-story west side flats, being 215 and 217 West Eighty-third Street, were bought by Harris and Maurice Mandelbaum for $65,000, while the adjoining two, at 219 and 221, went to S. Ausses for $72,000. The two parcels stand assessed for $66,000 each. The five-story tenement at 49 New Bowery sold for $21,000, being $3,000 above the assessed valuation, and the same buyer paid $24,000 for the tenement at 18 Cherry Street. For the six-story flat at 196 to 200 Waverley Place, near Charles Street, L. M. D. McGuire paid $58,300.

Investor Buys Harlem Apartment.

Goodwin & Goodwin have sold to a client for investment, for the Placid Realty Company, John Katzman, President, the six-story apartment house on the southeast corner of Bradhurst Avenue and 151st Street. The plot is 50 by 85 feet. The house contains five suites on a floor, renting for about $8,000 per annum. The price was about $75,000.

The Private Dwelling Market.

Helen C. Brown has sold to Daniel Casey, Jr., the three story and basement dwelling, 233 East Forty-eighth Street, on a lot 20 by 100.5. The house was formerly occupied by Judge Addison Brown, and has not changed ownership in over fifty years.

Gen. Stewart L. Woodford is reported to have sold his residence at 13 West Twelfth Street, located 150 feet west of Fifth Avenue. The house is of the four-story and basement type and occupies a lot 25x103.3.

Hoboken Property for Sarsfield Apartment.

The house, which occupies a plot fronting 100 feet on Broadway and 125 feet on 143d Street, was held at $650,000 and was bought by the company for a permanent investment. Produce Exchange Rumor Denied.

The rumor current in Wall Street yesterday to the effect that the Central Railroad of New Jersey had made an offer of $10,000,000 for the site of the New York Produce Exchange, was denied by both the railroad officials and the officers of the Exchange last night. According to the report the railroad company was anxious to secure the plot, which is a block square, as a New York City terminal for its various lines.

An officer of the Produce Exchange admitted that the property was on the market, as the vast building is far too large for the needs of the organization. W. Harris Douglas of the Real Estate Committee of the Exchange denied emphatically that the Jersey Central Railroad had made even an offer for the plot.

For three weeks you live a life of luxurious ease, as though on board your own yacht. The steamer is your hotel not only at sea but in port as well, and the rate covers every expense, except what you may choose to spend ashore. Write for illustrated booklet.

FREEMAN DISLIKED HAWTHORNE LETTERS

Witness Insists That He Tried to Get Writer to Keep to the Same Propaganda.

Albert Freeman took the stand yesterday in the Federal District Court, where for the last seven weeks he has been on trial with Julian Hawthorne, Josiah Quincy, and Dr. William J. Morton on the charge of having used the mails to defraud in connection with Canadian mining schemes. He placed on Hawthorne the responsibility for all the flambuoyant literature sent out, with the exception of the Brooks report.

Thomas W. Proctor, who examined Mr. Freeman, tried to get in testimony as to the ownership of a proportion of the stock of the McIntyre-Porcupine Company, a paying concern, by the Hawthorne Silver and Iron Mines, Limited, but the Government succeeded in excluding this line of evidence. Mr. Freeman detailed his talk of financing with Dr. Morton, and he described how they set about forming their own company, with Mr. Quincy as personal counsel for Dr. Morton, and also for the company.

Winfield Brooks became President of the new company after Mr. Freeman had for a time thought of being so himself. As the future President he had prepared a statement concerning Temagami Cobalt, but this was now issued over the signature of Brooks and became known as the "Brooks circular."

"About this time," said Mr. Freeman, "Mr. Hawthorne came to me. He told me he could write as well as I could and he wanted to help. He proposed that he should write the circulars and look after the office work. He showed me a contract with a syndicate of newspapers for a series of articles, for which he was to get from $7,500 to $10,000 a year. He was willing to forego this to help the company, as it was his first chance to get rich.

"He said he had no money and must live, but it was against his principles to borrow money from the company. So he suggested that he should pledge his stocks with me in return for loans as he needed them."

"Was there any rate at which these loans were to be made?" asked Judge Hough.

"As I understood it, about $500 to $600 a month."

Mr. Freeman then denied that as long as Mr. Hawthorne was writing to his classmates and his friends that he, Freeman, knew what statements were being made. It was none of his business, he said, to inquire, but after he got a letter from Col. Tillman of West Point he asked Mr. Hawthorne for permission to draft a reply.

"I told Mr. Hawthorne that he had better confine himself to urging inquirers to go to Temagami to make personal investigations. I told him I did not like what he was writing."

Mr. Freeman said that all the assays quoted in the Brooks circular were from specimens furnished by Dr. Morton, and he explained that he had put a little of his own money into the enterprise in the Winter of 1907-8 and had obligated himself by underwriting the stock to the extent of $90,000.

Then turning to the Elk Lake company, he described how he bought the claims from William H. Hayden and Charles Austen Bates. He gave half to Dr. Morton and received some good offers for the property from foreign and American capitalists.

"Mr. Hawthorne," went on Mr. Freeman, "asked me what I was going to do with the Elk Lake property. He said it would look bad if Dr. Morton and I devoted ourselves to developing a property forty miles from Temagami-Cobalt. He wanted me to turn the property over to Temagami. I protested, but he insisted and finally delivered an ultimatum. I found he had delivered the same to Dr. Morton, and so as the only way out of it we turned over Elk Lake to Temagami.

Mr. Hawthorne suggested that Dr. Morton and I should get $100,000 for our property by selling 500,000 shares of Temagami at 20 cents. I replied that he had told his subscribers that only 500,000 shares should be sold altogether. Then Hawthorne said:

"'Well, you and Morton own 1,800,000 shares between you. Donate 250,000 shares each to the treasury and get it that way.' I told him we would not make false representation and that we might as well give Elk Lake outright, as it amounted to the same thing. We got Mr. Hayden's one-eighth share in Elk Lake by making him general manager of Temagami, and so Dr. Morton and I obtained a clear title."

Mr. Freeman will continue his testimony to-day.

NEED HOMES FOR INCURABLES

Mrs. Harriman Speaks of It in Addressing Beth-El Sisterhood.

Mrs. Borden Harriman, opening her address upon "Social Problems of the Poor," at the Beth-El Sisterhood, 329 East Sixty-second Street, yesterday afternoon, told a story of Gov. Wilson's of a happening to a friend of his. Mrs. Harriman was quite able to place herself after the flattering introduction given her, and she thought the story apropos.

The friend of the Governor's had visited a place where there was a certain brand of whiskey known as "Squirrel." The name came from the quality of the whiskey, which was given to making its devotees feel like climbing trees. The effect on the Governor's friend was to make him take a northbound train when he should have taken a southbound in turning home. His friends, learning his mistake, telegraphed to the conductor of the train:

To this the conductor responded:

Mrs. Harriman spoke of the need of homes for incurables in the city. She said that the Montefiore Home was starting one, but that dozens were needed, for incurables should not be left in their own homes. She spoke of the need of women's auxiliaries in connection with the hospitals to help in the fight against tuberculosis and to help patients leaving the hospitals with food and clothing after they had received medical attention.

Mrs. Lazerous Kohns, President of the Sisterhood, in her annual report, spoke of the loss to the Sisterhood in the death of Mr. and Mrs. Isidor Straus, and said that their children had given $2,000 to the Sisterhood in memoriam, to be known as the "Ida and Isidor Straus Fund."

Mrs. William Einstein, President of the Emanuel Sisterhood and of the Federation of Sisterhoods, made an address. There was a large attendance at the meeting, among those present being Mrs. Jacob Schiff, Mrs. Nathan Straus, Samuel Sulzberger, President of the Temple; Dr. Samuel Schulmann, Mrs. Ferdinand Sulzberger, Mrs. Leopold Stern, Mrs. M. Menken, and Mrs. Samuel Goldsmith.

EDUCATION NOTES.

On the recommendation of the Committee on the Care of Buildings, the Board of Education has assigned Frank C. Slevin as janitor of Public School 32 Annex on the Boston Road, Bronxdale, and Franklin Frean as janitor and engineer of Public School 1, at Ninth Street and Van Alst Avenue, Long Island City. It has also reduced the compensation attached to the position of janitor of Public School 28, Herkimer Street, near Ralph Avenue, Brooklyn, from $1,320 to $1,080 a year "on account of change in measurement," and fixed the pay of Joseph Gelson, janitor of Public School 17, Myrtle Avenue, Corona, for the care of the portable building on the school grounds at $100 a year.

The Board of Education has again requested the Board of Estimate to recommend to the Aldermen that the compensation of janitors be fixed.

Permission has been granted to Evening Recreation Centre 62, Manhattan, to occupy the auditorium in Public School 62, Hester and Essex Streets, on the evening of March 29 for an entertainment, an admission fee to be charged and the proceeds to be devoted to meeting expenses in connection with recreational work.

The Committee on By-Laws and Legislation has been discharged from further consideration of the proposed amendment of the by-laws in reference to the making of inventories of textbooks and supplies in the public schools.

Commissioner Abraham Stern, at Wednesday's meeting of the Board of Education, objected to the adoption of the report of the Committee on Special Schools favoring the petition of attendance officers for the amendment of their salary schedules, to take effect on Jan. 1, subject to the board's financial ability. He said that it was like trying to make bread without flour. The adoption of the resolution, he said, might embarrass the board. This question of financial ability had been brought up in other matters, and had put the board to great expense, he said. The only proper way, he said, was to increase the salaries when the board was financially able to do so. He said that he was not opposed to a recommendation that the money be obtained by an issue of revenue bonds, and suggested that the item might be put in the next budget. Chairman John Greene of the Finance Committee also opposed the resolution on the ground that the board was now passing through a period of very narrow resources. The matter was put over.

The board has appropriated $10,369 to carry out the contract for installing electric equipment in new Public School 175, Blake and Hopkinson Avenues and Bristol Street, Brooklyn, and $20,430 to carry out the contract for the general excavation, &c., of new Public School 51, the Bronx.

The regular meeting of the Association of Women Principals of Public Schools of New York City will be held Jan. 13, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, at the Hotel Majestic, Seventy-second Street and Central Park West. Special orders of business are the election of officers and presentation of annual reports. Tea will be served at 3:30 o'clock.

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

City.

The Municipal Civil Service Commission has approved these reports of Chief Examiner Ireland:

Recommending the certification of the list of General and Medical Superintendent for the position of Superintendent of Hospitals in the Department of Public Charities.

Relative to the request of C. E. Hever that a memorandum which was taken from him at the examination for Inspector of Fire Prevention be returned. Mr. Ireland recommends that the request be filed, as it would be impossible to identify the candidate's papers.

Relative to the request of James R. Kellock that he be notified of his rating in the mental examination for promotion to Lieutenant. States that he was permitted to take the mental examination, subject to a physical re-examination. He failed in the physical examination.

The commission has approved the reports of Assistant Chief Examiner Murray recommending that the following promotion examinations be ordered for the departments specified:

Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity—Promotion from second to third grade clerk, Bureau of Lamps and Lighting, Boroughs of Brooklyn Queens, and Richmond.

Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity—Promotion to stationary engineer, from oiler and stoker. It is recommended that the request to admit gas enginemen to the examination be considered after receipt of further information from the department, and that the request that automobile enginemen be admitted be denied.

Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity—Promotion from assistant foreman and foreman, Grade 1, to foreman, Grade 2.

Stating that, in his opinion, the commission is without power to take action in the matter of the request of Clarence F. Byrd, a candidate in the examination for promotion to telegraph operator, Fire Department, that his record be rerated, in view of the fact that the recommendations of Mr. Renard, who was in charge at that time, were not correct.

Recommending that the commission accept the application of Patrolman Jacob Berger for promotion to the rank of Sergeant of police, he having become eligible on Sept. 18, 1912, and the commission having received applications from all men who were first-grade patrolmen on Oct. 1, 1912.

Recommending that the commission extend eligibility for promotion to fourth-grade clerk in the Bureau of Assessments and Arrears to persons employed under the title of third-grade stenographer and typewriter.

No educational test will be given and applicants will not be assembled for a mental examination. The examination will consist of the subjects mentioned below, weighted as indicated:

Training, experience, and fitness.........60

All statements relating to training, experience, and fitness are subject to verification. Applicants should name in their applications as references employers or other persons who are competent to furnish information relative to the applicants' fitness for the positions sought, and these persons will be communicated with. Unless answers are received from these persons within two weeks from the date of sending the communications the applications may be canceled.

The following physical defects will debar applicants from any examination: Insanity, tuberculosis, paralysis, epilepsy, blindness, loss of both arms or both legs, loss of arm and leg, badly crippled or deformed hands, arms, feet, or legs, uncompensated valvular disease of the heart, locomotor ataxia, cancer, Bright's disease, and diabetes. In addition, persons who have lost an arm or a leg or who are ruptured are ineligible for appointment to positions in the custodian service. Other physical defects will render applicants ineligible for any particular service or position when, in the judgment of the commission, such defects would disqualify them for the duties required.

An applicant who is unable to write may have his application filled in by another and sign it by mark, which must be properly witnessed; but only those eligibles will be certified for appointment in the custodian service whose applications are in their own handwriting.

The age limits for the different branches of the service are as follows: Quartermaster's Department at Large, males, 20 to 50 years; females, 18 to 50 years; Engineer Department at Large, 18 years or over; custodian service, 18 to 55 years; other branches, 20 years or over. WORKERS WALK OUT IN WHITE GOODS TRADE

15,000 Women and Girls Join the Garment Strike, Making 140,000 Now Idle.

WORKING FOR A SETTLEMENT

Independent Manufacturers Said to Have Retained J. H. Cohen, Who Helped Bring Peace in Cloak Strike.

The anticipated strike of the 15,000 girls and women employed in the white goods industry of this city was called at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, and an hour later it was said at the headquarters of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union at 32 Union Square, that the entire industry had been tied up.

The strike, although it came a few days before it was expected, was in line with the union's plan to call out all of the workers in the women's garment industry exclusive of the cloak, suit, and skirt departments. It followed twenty-four hours after the strike of the 15,000 kimona and wrapper makers. Within another twenty-four or forty-eight hours it is expected 60,000 women workers in the dress and shirtwaist industry will be called out. Yesterday's strike brought the total number of those on strike in the women's and men's garment industries, according to the union figures, to 140,000. When the 60,000 workers in the dress and shirtwaist departments walk out, 200,000 persons will be on strike.

Strong influences were at work, it was reported yesterday, to bring about a quick settlement of the strike in the men's garment industry. It was said that Louis Brandeis, Louis Marshall, and Julius Henry Cohen, the committee of three who announced the settlement of the cloak strike in September, 1910, had intervened to bring about a settlement similar to the "protocol" agreement which terminated the cloak strike. On behalf of Mr. Brandeis and Mr. Marshall it was said that they were not taking part in the settlement of the present trouble. Mr. Cohen was at the Broadway Central Hotel yesterday, where independent manufacturers, members of the United Merchants and Manufacturers' Association met. It was said that Mr. Cohen had been retained by this association to take charge of its interests, and Mr. Cohen when he was asked later if the report was true would not deny it.

"If there is to be a settlement of this strike," said one of those who had heard that Mr. Cohen had been retained, "it must come through negotiations with the independents, who represent 75 per cent. of the clothing trade of the city."

Want Wage Increase Put Off.

It was considered significant that members of the United Merchants and Manufacturers' Association had said as early as last Sunday that they were not averse to paying a 10 per cent. increase in wages provided they could get time to dispose of their Spring contracts under the prevailing scale of pay. This basis of settlement, it was thought, was now under consideration by the officials of the United Garment Workers' Union. The union was holding out against it, it was understood, on the ground that the workers would not regard a postponed increase as a definite victory.

There was much disorder in the neighborhood of factories where work had not been suspended yesterday. Fights were reported in many parts of Manhattan and Brooklyn, and many arrests were made. Strikers charged with disorderly conduct in the coourts were fined from $1 to $10. In each case the fines were paid by union representatives.

Two private detectives—George Hamilton of 101 West 114th Street, and George J. F. Doyle of 323 East 235th Street—were arrested at 5 o'clock last night in front of 730 Broadway on the complaint of Henry Weinberger, a machine operator of 1,969 Third Avenue. Weinberger charged the detectives with assaulting him with a nightstick and a billy. They were locked up in the Mercer Street Station, and a billy was found in Doyle's possession, according to the police. The detectives said they were employed by Valerian O'Farrell, who was a detective for the defense in the Becker case. When O'Farrell learned the facts of the assault he refused to bail the men.

Another private detective, Otto Ahrens of 430 East Sixty-seventh Street, was arrested at the Bowery and Houston Street yesterday afternoon on the complaint of Tinofe Rucharcnick, a tailor of 6 First Avenue. He was also taken to the Mercer Street station.

Frank Isolede, a private detective doing strike duty at 301 Mott Street, was fined $10 by Magistrate Kernochan in the Tombs Court yesterday on a charge made by Sigmund Sager of 184 Forsyth Street, a picket for the Garment Workers' Union. Sager testified that he had been knocked down while talking to a woman employe whom Isolede was conducting to work. Magistrate Kernochan, in imposing the fine, said that he would not tolerate violence in the treatment of strikers by strikebreakers.

A thousand contractors, representing the United Clothing Contractors' Association, met yesterday afternoon in Lafayette Casino, Avenue D and Third Street, to talk over the strike situation. There are some 2,000 contractors in the men's and youths' garment industry of the city, and these contractors, it is said, employ from 90 to 95 per cent. of the workers in the trade. The rest are employed directly by the large manufacturers who maintain complete shops for the tailoring as well as cutting of garments. These contractors, or middle men, therefore represent an important link in the strike situation.

"The public has the idea that the little handfull of manufacturers in the New York Clothing Trade Association employ more than 100,000 men," one of those at the contractors' meeting said. "The manufacturers employ cutters almost exclusively. These cutters, who are the highest priced workers in the garment industry, cut out the garments and thus make work for the 2,000 contractors. Now that the cutters are all out, there is naturally nothing for us to do but close our shops, and they are all closed.

Contractors Want to be Consulted.

"In our shops we employ operators, pressers, bushelmen, and finishers only. The tenement workers that come under our management are principally finishers. We do not cut any garments. Nor do any of the contractors make complete men's suits. The work is divided among coat makers, trousers makers, and vest makers in the men's garment industry.

"While the contractors actually employ some 100,000 of the 110,000 men and women in the trade, the United Garment Workers' Union refuses to deal with us. The union will deal only with the manufacturers.

"The reason is obvious, of course, for while we employ 95 per cent. of the workers the manufacturers represent 100 per cent. of the capital invested in garments, and thus really control 100 per cent. of the workers in the trade.

"But we have to pay the wages. If we recognized the union's demands we would have to charge the manufacturers 12 cents more for every coat we finish, some 10 cents more for every pair of trousers, and some 10 cents more for each vest. In other words we would have to add 33 1-3 per cent. to the cost of each garment. This is prohibitive."

Several of the contractors at the Lafayette Casino meeting put the amount of finishing work sent out to the tenements at 75 per cent. of all the work done. It would be impossible, they said, to grant the demands of the union for the abolition of all tenement work.

"Our tenement house workers," said one contractor who admitted that a large part of his work was sent out on sub-contracts, "can easily make $7 a week. If they worked in the shop they could make $9 or $10, but they prefer to take their work to their homes so that they can attend to their household duties and work whenever they please. We must rely on the tenement workers to do our finishing. In my shop, for instance, I turn out 5,000 pairs of trousers a week. If I relied only on my shop force I could turn out only 1,000 pairs. My operators would all be idle for much of each week."

The demand of the union for more sanitary conditions in the contracting shops was not considered important by the contractors.

"The Tenement House Department can attend to that," said a spokesman for the contractors. "We know the law and are living up to it. We have no objection to instituting the very best of sanitary conditions, but we cannot be held responsible if we are within the law."

HOTEL MEN BUY THEIR DINNER

Pay a Check of $6,000 for 600 Who Were at Annual Feast.

Hotel men were hosts to themselves last night at the thirty-fourth annual dinner of the Hotel Association of the City of New York in the grand ballroom of the Waldorf. There were 600 of them there and they paid $6,000 for the spread. George W. Sweeney of the Victoria Hotel and President of the association was toastmaster. The other speakers were the Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist Church; Luther B. Little, President of the "Amen Corner," and Clayton Mayo. A toast was given to Simeon Ford, the humorist of the organization, who was absent because of illness.

Though a strike leader sounded a whistle in one of the regular dining rooms in a vain effort to induce the waiters to walk out, there was no interruption of the dinner.

Votes for Women Ball.

The Women's Political Union will give its ball to-morrow night in the armory of the Seventy-first Regiment, at Fourth Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street. It will be opened by an entertainment consisting of National dances, after which Mrs. Chapman Catt will make a short address. General dancing will follow. The voiceless speech is to be used during the evening.
